EX-OFFICERS ARE SLAIN IN LIQUOR FEUD

Tortured, Put to Death by Moonshiners for Posing as Dry Agents

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 22.—One of the most brutal crimes in the city's history was revealed here today with the finding of the bodies of Burt G. Lovejoy and George C. Peters, former policemen, buried in a ten-foot hole in the east-side bottom lands. Both men had been missing since last Tuesday.

Examination of the bodies revealed the fact that the men had been murdered evidently after being tortured and their bodies burned. They had been hunting for stills in the bottom lands and it is believed a band of moonshiners committed the crime. Lovejoy's body bore two bullet wounds, his tongue had been cut out and his face and throat slashed evidently with a razor. Peters's head had been shot off, evidently by a charge of shot from a shotgun. Kerosene had been poured over the bodies, which were then set on fire.

Chief of Police Shreeve, who headed the searching party, said the east-end bottom land has long been a rendezvous for moonshiners and the hole in which the bodies were found evidently was a cache for illicit whisky.

The two former policemen, the Chief said, were posing as detectives and raiding the moonshiners' caves and selling the stuff in and around Kansas City for big prices.

The moonshiners evidently trapped the two men in the dense weeds of the swampy ground, and after torturing them put them to death and attempted to hide their crime by burning the bodies.

Paris Aroused by Firing Squad Scene in Revue

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Feb. 22.—An antimilitarist scene produced in a revue in the Latin quarter last night provoked a near-riot when a portion of the spectators protested vigorously, while the rest of the house cheered the act.

The scene showed six French soldiers who were executed at Vingres during the war for asserted cowardice before the enemy, but since proved guiltless, lined up, tied to stakes and executed by a firing squad.

The spectacle of the actor-poilus in muddy, frozen blue uniforms trussed up before a firing squad, then a salvo and the men dropping limply and an officer firing into their ears to make sure they were dead, presented a gruesome spectacle, and the newspapers today demanded the prefect of police suppress the scene.

Fellowships to Provide for Advanced Study Abroad and for Research

Gift Memorial to Dead Son of Former Senator From Colorado

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Simon Guggenheim, former United States Senator from Colorado, and his wife, announced today a preliminary gift of $3,000,000 for the endowment of the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Fellowships for advanced study abroad.

The purposes of the foundation are: To improve the quality of education and the practice of the arts and professions in the United States, to foster research, and to provide for the cause of better international understanding.

A bill for a special charter for the foundation will be introduced in the legislature at Albany by Senator Courtlandt Nicoll and Assemblyman Phelps Phelps.

MEMORIAL TO SON

The foundation is a memorial to the son of Senator and Mrs. Guggenheim, who died on April 26, 1922. The foundation offers to young men and women world-wide opportunities under the freest possible conditions to carry on advanced study and research in any field of knowledge, or opportunities for the development of unusual talent in any of the fine arts, including music.

No age limits are prescribed. Appointees, however, must be old enough to have shown marked ability in their particular subject. It is expected that ordinarily they will not be younger than 25 or older than 35 years.

FOR BOTH SEXES

The fellowships are therefore intended for students somewhat older than those to whom the Rhodes scholarships are open, including young professors on sabbatical leave, holders of fellowships from individual colleges and those who have won distinction in graduate study. Only those candidates will be appointed who have embarked upon some important piece of work and who show exceptional aptitude for research, or who demonstrate ability in some one of the fine arts.

These fellowships differ from the Rhodes scholarships, furthermore, in being open to women as well as men and being available for study in any country in the world. The amount of money available for each fellowship will be approximately $2500 a year, but may be more or less, depending on individual needs.

While appointments will be made ordinarily for one year, plans which involve two or three years' study will also be considered and in special cases fellowships will be granted for shorter terms with appropriate stipends.

The first national awards will be made for the academic year 1926-1927. It is the purpose of the foundation after the first year to maintain annually from forty to fifty fellows abroad. The fellowships will be open to men and women, married or unmarried, of every race, color or creed.

OFFICIAL STAFF

The board of trustees of the foundation will consist of the following seven persons: Hon. Simon Guggenheim, president; Mrs. Olga Hirsh Guggenheim; Francis H. Brownell, vice-presidents; Carroll A. Wilson; Charles D. Hilles; Roger W. Straus and Charles Earl; with Henry Allen Moe as secretary and Otto Myers as treasurer.

The educational advisory board consists at the present time of the following men and women; President Frank Aydelotte, Swarthmore College, chairman; Prof. C. F. Tucker Brooke, Yale University; Chancellor Samuel Paul Capen, University of Buffalo; Prof. Edward Capps, Princeton University; President Ada Louise Comstock, Radcliffe College; Prof. William Emerson, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; President Frederick Carlos Ferry, Hamilton College; Dean Guy Stanton Ford, graduate school, University of Minnesota; Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve, Barnard College; Dean Edwin Greenlaw, graduate school, University of North Carolina; Prof. Charles Homer Haskins, Harvard University; Prof. C. K. Judy, California Institute of Technology; Dr. Charles Riborg Mann, director American Council on Education, Washington, D. C.; Dean Carl Emil Seashore, graduate school, University of Iowa; Thomas Whitney Surette, Esq., Concord, Mass.; Dean Marion Talbot, University of Chicago; Prof. Joseph H. Willits, Wharton school, University of Pennsylvania; Dean Frederick J. E. Woodbridge, graduate school, Columbia University; and Henry Allen Moe, secretary.

NORFOLK (Va.) Feb. 22.—Rescue of the crew of ten men from the disabled and sinking Canadian trawler Canada by the Italian steamship Artenia in a position northwest of Bermuda, was reported in a wireless message picked up by the naval communications radio station here tonight.

The message from the Artenia, which is bound from Italian ports to Philadelphia, gave no details.

PORT ADVANCES TO SIXTH PLACE IN FOREIGN TRADE

Los Angeles Leads Pacific Coast in Tonnage During Year; Total Over Three Millions

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Los Angeles has jumped from tenth to sixth place in the amount of water-borne commerce in the fiscal year of 1924. San Francisco takes rank in seventh place but Los Angeles leads the entire Pacific Coast in the tonnage figures compiled by the United States Shipping Board, according to the official figures compiled and tabulated by the bureau of research.

The official statement issued by the Shipping Board research bureau just announced is as follows:

"The total water-borne commerce of the United States in the fiscal year 1924, as recorded by the bureau of research, United States Shipping Board, was approximately 92,000,000 long tons, imports and exports being 42,800,000 tons and 49,200,000 tons respectively. This traffic conducted through 185 domestic ports, nineteen of which handled in excess of 1,000,000 tons each, and, together, 76 per cent of our total water-borne foreign commerce. Forty-six other ports handled over 100,000 tons each.

"In a tabulation of the individual ports arranged according to relative rank in total tonnage handled, the first eleven ports appearing in the 1924 list are the same as in 1923, but the relative standing of New York and New Orleans, first and second on the list, and Norfolk, eleventh, are the only ones remaining as in 1923. Baltimore advanced from fourth place to third, exchanging places with Philadelphia; Buffalo moved from sixth place to fifth; Los Angeles from tenth place to sixth, San Francisco from eighth to seventh and Galveston from ninth to eighth. Boston dropped from fifth place to tenth, and Port Arthur from seventh to ninth.

"The foreign commerce of these eleven ports in the fiscal year 1924 is shown in the following table:

	Imports	Exports	Total
New Orleans	4,177,999	2,778,409	6,956,408
Philadelphia	3,361,601	2,177,684	5,539,285
Buffalo	3,819,633	440,153	4,259,786
Los Angeles	575,715	2,737,149	3,312,864
San Francisco	846,997	1,891,493	2,738,490
Galveston	1,716,945	943,445	2,660,390
Port Arthur	1,348,735	1,174,325	2,523,060
Norfolk	354,621	2,079,586	2,434,207

WOMEN STRIKE NEW NOTE

Conference on National Defense Gets Under Way Without Raillery of United States

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A conference of American women on how to keep the peace got itself under way to a new note in Washington this afternoon. It is the Women's Conference on National Defense.

No woman—and they came from as far west as Illinois, Iowa, Arizona, Oregon and Honolulu and from as far east as Vermont, Connecticut and North Carolina—no woman railed against any country and least of all against her own country.

No woman declared the United States to be a menace if it did not disarm.

No woman said America was a Shylock if it did not forgive its debtors.

No woman thought it necessary to trick out the American flag with any international streamers. In fact these women did not go in for streamers either of bunting or of language.

But they sounded such a new note in the matter of women's conferences in this Federal city that officials and newspaper observers hearing the proceedings of the opening session in Red Cross Hall could hardly believe their ears.

This conference will last four days. The delegates to it represent fifteen national organizations with 1,000,000 members.

Seven of those organizations are composed of women who had kinsmen in the World War.

President and Mrs. Coolidge will receive the delegates at the White House tomorrow noon and the President will address them. At tomorrow's session in Red Cross Hall the speakers will be Brig.-Gen. Hugh A. Drum, assistant chief of staff, on "Causes and Prevention of War;" Maj.-Gen. John L. Hines, chief of staff, on "National Defense;" Dwight F. Davis, Assistant Secretary of War, on "Industrial Preparedness;" Maj.-Gen. Ely A. Helmick, inspector general, on "Undermining the Youth of a Nation," and John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, on "Ideals of the Republic."

RADICALS TO FORM PARTY

La Follette Plans to be Guide; Union Men Do Not Participate in Meeting

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—The La Follette plan for the organization of a new national political party was adhered to at a meeting here today of men and women who yesterday decided on the formation of the new party after the sine die adjournment of the conference for progressive political action convention, which they attended as delegates. A name for the party will be decided upon later.

Representatives of the sixteen labor organizations affiliated with the C.P.P.A. did not participate in today's meeting.

A committee to whom the matter of the basis of the representation in the new party was referred recommended that the party consist of State organizations constituted on geographical lines in conformity with election laws of the different States. It also advised that such State organizations shall be autonomous; that the co-operation be sought of all organizations which in the last campaign supported the independent Presidential candidate; and that in a national convention to be called later the delegates be proportioned to the aggregate number of votes cast under all party designations for the independent Presidential candidate in the last election. In addition an executive committee of five, to be appointed later by Chairman William Johnston, Washington, shall have power to admit other delegates on the basis of such representation as they deem proper. This plan was adopted.

A minority report, which was tabled, recommended that the national committee, all State and local committees, should also admit direct affiliation of organizations of workers and farmers, and of progressive political and educational groups which fully accept its program and principles.

Resolutions were adopted that conventions representative of those who were active in the last campaign should be held in the several States to elect delegates to a national convention, to be held at a place and time designated by the executive committee, and that the State convention elect delegates to a national convention on a temporary basis of two delegates (one man and one woman) from each State.

Business Body Urges Adequate Postal Pay Rise

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Business interests embraced in the membership of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States have voted in a nation-wide referendum, overwhelmingly in support of "an adequate increase in postal salaries," but against a flat general increase of pay, applicable throughout the country for all classes of postal employees."

An analysis of the vote made public today by the chamber is said to reflect the opposition of business interests to the pending postal pay and rate increase bill.

"The chamber holds," the statement said, "that such increases as those which its members have approved can be made without alteration in the postal budget and without necessitating any increases in postal rates."

CONGRESS NEARS END

Night Sessions to be Held

Hope to Complete Work So Spring Meeting Will be Unnecessary

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—With only ten days of its existence remaining the Sixty-eighth Congress will begin grinding legislation tomorrow at top speed with a view to completing its scheduled work and thereby making unnecessary the extraordinary session of the Sixty-ninth Congress this spring.

Both Houses will hold night as well as day sessions in the effort to clear the calendars of bills of varying degrees of importance and as March 4 draws nigh the chambers will remain in nearly continuous session until the sine die adjournment.

While the closing chapters in the life of the present Congress are being written preliminaries are to be disposed of in connection with the organization of the Sixty-ninth Congress.

Republican House members will convene in caucus on Friday night to select their nominee for Speaker, name a floor leader and set the machinery in motion for the filling of committee vacancies.

Democratic House members will meet on Saturday night. The Sixty-ninth Congress does not begin its first session until next December, barring the possibility of a special session in the fall, but the House leaders prefer to have their Speakership contest out of the way at this early date.

SPEAKERSHIP FIGHT

Representative Longworth, Republican, Ohio, and Madden, Republican, Illinois, have engaged in a lively fight for the Speakership. Supporters of both are claiming victory.

If Mr. Longworth is elevated to the Speakership the new floor leader may be Representative Tilson, Republican, Connecticut, who has figured prominently as a member of the Ways and Means Committee. Mr. Madden will continue to head the Appropriations Committee. There will be comparatively few changes in the chairmanships of important committees.

On the Democratic side there is no contest in sight. Representative Garrett, Democrat, Tennessee, the present floor leader, again will be nominated for the Speakership.

The Republican caucus promises to develop more than usual interest because of policies to be pursued in connection with the La Follette insurgents. The ten Republicans from Wisconsin, one from North Dakota and one from Minnesota, constituting the twelve who supported Senator La Follette for the Presidency, were not sent invitations to the Republican caucus. They will not have a voice in selecting the party candidate for the Speakership.

Whether or not they will be denied representation as Republicans on standing committees depends upon the action of the caucus. There seems a strong probability that they will be removed from present committee assignments and given only scant recognition as members of a minority party. The effect of such action will be to enable the Republican organization to obtain a firm grip on the committees and prevent a situation such as has prevailed during the past session wherein radical Republicans and Democrats by combining have been able to upset things as they saw fit.

RADICALS ARE TAMED

The present short session will close with just about the sort of record expected of it. The leaders have been able to sidetrack nearly all controversial legislation and have been able to speed up consideration of appropriation bills in record-breaking fashion. The Republican organization has done fairly well in putting its program through, notwithstanding the fact that the radical Republicans have continued to hold the balance of power. The radicals, however, have been comparatively tame since their crushing defeat in the November election and the evidence of popular confidence in President Coolidge. The radicals have found that the Democrats were not anxious to combine with them as they did repeatedly last spring in advance of the campaign. As a result the regular Republicans have seemed to possess more actual power than was really the case.

A mass of legislation, most of it of a noncontroversial character, will be disposed of during the next ten days. In past years the appropriation bills have kept both houses so busy that little else could be attended to during the closing days of a short session. This time every one of the nine major appropriation bills has already been passed by both houses. Only a few of the conference reports are to be acted upon. There will be one final deficiency bill which will be rushed through at the finish.

Credit for the unprecedented appropriation record is given to the budget system. It has not been necessary for Congress to iron out as many appropriation controversies as formerly. The budget bureau has weeded out unnecessary items and trimmed estimates to the bone. Centralization of all appropriations in the hands of a single committee in the House instead of nearly a dozen, as formerly, has tended both toward rigid economy and toward a speeding up of action.

LOS ANGELES TO GO BACK TO BERMUDA

Dirigible Will Leave Again This Week to Test Mooring Mast of Patoka

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LAKEHURST, (N. J.) Feb. 22. Rear-Admiral Moffat, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Douglas Robinson and Capt. George W. Steele, who piloted the dirigible Los Angeles on its trip to Bermuda and return yesterday, were enthusiastic today over the success of the trip, Admiral Moffat saying that while wind and rain combined to prevent their tying up at the mooring mast of the U.S.S. Patoka, the flight proved beyond question the air worthiness of the Los Angeles.

"And, said Admiral Moffat, "we are going back to Bermuda on Tuesday or Wednesday to test the mooring mast of the Patoka. The torrential rains saturated the cover of the airship so that it was difficult to descend and then too there was a heavy fog which added to the hazard of attempting to tie up.

"The object of the trip was attained. 'It was an experimental trip made to demonstrate the stability of the Los Angeles and to further the training of the crew."

He said he hoped the trip of the airship would help the general public appreciate the work of the Navy Department was doing to further aviation.

Assistant Secretary Robinson was elated at the speed of the flight which he said will mean a 75-per cent saving of time in the delivery of the mails.

SHEFFIELD TO TAKE UP RIVER PLAN

Mexico to be Approached Formally on Contentions in Colorado Project

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22.—Discussing the reported intention of the Mexican government to attempt to unite consideration of the division of the waters of the Rio Grande and Colorado Rivers, American Ambassador James R. Sheffield said today he expected soon to take up formally the question of Mexico's contentions relative to the Boulder Canyon Dam and of the Colorado River. Meanwhile, however, he is attempting to counteract any pressure which might be exercised to hurry the question to a head.

He stated that the United States was not planning to exercise arbitrarily its undisputed right to impound the waters of the Colorado River and declaring that should pending plans for the Boulder Canyon be carried out, there would undoubtedly be surplus water which could be diverted to the development of the present unproductive lands on the Mexicon side, instead of permitting it to empty wastefully in the Gulf of California.

Under present conditions, the Ambassador concluded, Mexico is deriving no useful benefits from the Colorado, since the flow of its waters is uncontrolled.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) Feb. 22.—Wyoming today seceded from the Colorado River compact States, then reconsidered and rejoined the group. The secession was secured early this morning when the House, during the closing sitting of the Legislature, indefinitely postponed Senate Bill 75, providing that Wyoming ratify the pact regardless of the action of Arizona, provided Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California and New Mexico also ratify on the same conditions.

Rejection of the bill by the House was unanimous except for one vote.

Later the insistence of Frank C. Emerson, State Engineer, Wyoming's member of the Colorado River Commission and other State officials convinced the majority of the House that their action had been unwise and the bill was recalled from the Senate and passed by a vote of 40 to 11.

BAY LASHED BY GALE

Expensive Yachts Wrecked

Wind Reaches Velocity of 72 Miles an Hour at Point Reyes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Whipping in through the Golden Gate this afternoon a terrific gale drove the tide over the seawalls at Belvedere and Tiburon, tore yachts and small boats from their moorings and dashed them against the breakwater and threw panic into hundreds crossing the bay.

The wind reached a hurricane velocity at Point Reyes, the United States Weather Bureau instruments there registering a seventy-two-mile-an-hour gale at the peak. At Bolinas it ran between sixty-five and seventy miles an hour. It came through the Golden Gate at a velocity approximated at between thirty-five and forty miles an hour.

The gale, raging from the south, continued all afternoon, churning the bay into a sea of whitecaps. San Francisco escaped the blow, except for occasional gusts, although heavy downpours of rain followed in its wake. Oakland missed both wind and rain entirely.

Automobiles traveling down the peninsula were stalled at the height of the storm, when whirling gusts of wind and rain blew in off the ocean, penetrating hoods and wetting ignition wires.

A fleet of pleasure yachts, piloted by wealthy San Franciscans out of the exclusive boat clubs of Belvedere and Tiburon, were caught in the fury of the storm, and crews and passengers narrowly escaped with their lives.

TWO YOUTHS ESCAPE

Two sons of rich San Francisco families—Laurence Mersereau, 18 years of age, and Hugh MacDonald, 19 — saved themselves by swimming through a heavy sea when their canoe collapsed midway between Angel Island and Belvedere. The youths were missing for six hours, and searching parties in motor boats and launches were seeking for them all afternoon. The boys, both strong swimmers, made Angel Island in safety, pushing their water-logged canoe in front of them, and after resting and bailing out, made the crossing safely after the gale had subsided. Mersereau lives at 1826 Pacific avenue and MacDonald at 1599 Ninth avenue.

The $10,000 yacht "Boo Pou," belonging to E. S. Borden, manager of the Granada Hotel, San Francisco, was ripped from its moorings off Belvedere and thrown against the seawall, almost a total wreck. With a huge hole stove in its hull, the boat sank in ten feet of water.

The wind drove the waves over the Belvedere and Tiburon seawalls at high tide, flooding the streets in the lower part of the two villages. The surf spray carried entirely over the top of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad station at Tiburon, damaging the interior of the station with water.

A section of the seawall in Tiburon was broken down by the force of the waves, the rush of water inundating homes of fishermen living along the waterfront streets.

The little boats of the fishing fleet and the costly yachts of members of the exclusive boat clubs on Belvedere and Tiburon were thrown about by the force of the wind and waves, several of them dashing against the stones of the breakwater. Many were saved by the bravery of junior members of the Pacific Motor Boat Club, who, led by John Herket, Jr., went aboard them at the risk of their lives and made them fast.

MITCHELL'S FATE AWAITED

Center of Interest in Air Row Switches to War Department; Secretary is Silent

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Abrupt termination of the House investigation of aviation possibilities and the controverted questions raised by Brig.-Gen. Mitchell, assistant chief of the Army air service, caused interest to switch today from the Capitol to the War Department. Secretary of War Weeks must decide whether to reappoint Gen. Mitchell by March 26, when his present appointment expires. Those closest to Mr. Weeks predict the selection of another for the post, but no suggestion of what he will do has come from the Secretary.

It has been the announced intention of the Secretary to wait until the investigating committee finished its duties before he determined upon a selection. Whether the sudden ending of the inquiry will lead to a decision by Mr. Weeks on this point before March 4, the date for final adjournment of the Sixty-eighth Congress, was not disclosed today by War Department officials. It was pointed out Mr. Weeks's decision will not be influenced by any recommendations the committee members might submit as a result of their inquiry. In this connection it was said the War Secretary would formulate his plans in a way that would lead to selection of an assistant chief to Maj.-Gen. Patrick, in precisely the same manner he would have chosen had there never been any investigation.

An interpretation of this statement was that Mr. Weeks would seek suggestions from Gen. Patrick as well as the general staff chiefs, and after studying the records of the officers mentioned by them he would select the one he regarded as best qualified.

There is little possibility of any immediate announcement by Secretary Weeks. Before the Mitchell case is decided the Secretary will consider the answers the general has made in writing as to the accuracy of statements he made before the committee, which have been taken to reflect seriously on matters of War Department administration and important policies of national defense.

Among the statements Secretary Weeks also asked Gen. Mitchell to explain were assertions that junior army and navy officers were muzzled against "telling the truth" to Congressional committees and that the Navy was prepared for

REFORMATION OF RELIGION NEARS

Fosdick Makes Prediction in Farewell Sermon

Says Christianity Has Left Christ's Teachings

Compares Split to Action of Martin Luther

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, whose services as special preacher at the First Presbyterian Church end on March 1, by order of the New York Presbytery, declared today in his farewell sermon that a new religious reformation was on its way which might possibly have to "split away from the evangelical churches as the Lutheran reformation had to split from the old church."

Dr. Fosdick, who as a Baptist minister holding a Presbyterian pulpit, was the subject of much controversy in the dispute between the fundamentalists and modernists, said in his sermon today that multitudes of Christians "have not the religion of Jesus," but only the "religion about Jesus," and that "the religion about Jesus tends to crowd out, smother and destroy the religion of Jesus."

"A religious reformation is afoot," Dr. Fosdick said, "and at heart it is the endeavor to recover for our modern life the religion of Jesus as against the vast, intricate, largely inadequate and often positively false, religion about Jesus. Christianity today has largely left the religions which he preached, taught and lived, and has substituted another kind of religion altogether.

"If Jesus should come back now, hear the mythologies built up around Him, see the creedalism, denominationalism, sacramentalism carried on in His name, He would certainly say, 'If this is Christianity, I am not a Christian.'"

"I, too, have a religion about Jesus," Dr. Fosdick continued. "I believe great things concerning Him. But the center of my religion is in the Gospels, not the theologians; in the Master's way of living, not in what men have said about Him.

"That same thing is happening in the church which is happening all over the country on Washington's Birthday. How many orators will indulge in high-sounding praise of Washington? They have a patriotism about Washington. But the patriotism of Washington—that is another matter, and is not so easy to find.

NOTED MINE IS REOPENED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HACKBERRY (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—Tod Woodworth and J. Sidney Smith of Los Angeles are starting new development work on the famous old Hackberry mine, a shipper of silver ore to San Francisco in the steamboating days.

A new shaft is to be sunk to the north of the old workings, in the expectation of striking a continuation of the ore vein at 300 feet.

The last work on the property failed because the wrong system of milling was tried, it is believed.

DEATH MINE YIELDS ITS LAST BODY

Burial Begins for Victims of Indiana Disaster; Gas Pocket Theory Cited

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SULLIVAN (Ind.) Feb. 22.—Unceasing search started by mine-rescue teams for the bodies of fifty-one men entombed after an explosion in the City Coal Company's shaft here last Friday ended today when the last body was brought to the surface.

Burial of the dead was started, services for two of the victims being conducted here and for another at Rugger, Ind. There will be no community funeral. Each family will care for its own dead. In several instances where two members of a family perished a single service will be held.

Under the direction of the Red Cross plans were completed for extending any relief necessary to the bereaved families.

Officials who have made informal inquiries are disposed to accept the theory that the explosion was caused by the sudden precipitation into the mine of a quantity of gas from an earth pocket, the gas being ignited by the sparks from a miner's tool or the flare from a worker's lamp.

Norval K. Harris, Sullivan county prosecutor, said he discovered no evidence of negligence in the observance of safety rules. The use of open lamps is not prohibited by the Indiana State law.

BOTH GREEKS, TURKS WIN DISPUTE POINTS

PEACE COURT DECIDES ALL BUT PRIESTS CAN REMAIN IN CONSTANTINOPLE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

GENEVA, Feb. 22.—With reference to the opinion handed down yesterday by the Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague, regarding the interpretation of the word "established" in the Lausanne Peace Treaty, and relating to the Greeks resident in Constantinople, M. Politis, the Greek representative, has succeeded in his view—that Greeks domiciled in Constantinople before the signing of the armistice in 1918 are not liable to exchange.

On the other hand, the Turkish representative carried his point with regard to priests of the Greek patriarchate who, according to the Turkish view, can be exchanged.

M. Politis endeavored to obtain for ecclesiastics exemption from exchange, though his contention was not submitted to the court. Both sides, therefore, won something in appealing to the court, and the decision in favor of the Greek position regarding the interpretation of the word "established" is of great importance to the Greeks in Constantinople, despite the fact that the patriarch question has not been absolutely decided. In view of the attitude of the Turkish government relative to the patriarch, developments on this problem are awaited with interest in League circles.

DEFENSE TOPIC AT CONFERENCE

tion which the delegates have set for themselves preparatory to reporting back to the organization which sent them to Washington.

"Our purpose," said Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, national president of the Legion Auxiliary, in opening the conference this afternoon, "is to study what measures of national protection the National Defense Act provides. Clause four of the preamble of the Constitution of the United States is our excuse for being here—the clause which says that the Constitution was ordained to provide, among other things, 'for the common defense.' The intent of this conference is not propaganda, but education, and as part of our education we're going to hear the country's leading experts on preparedness as insurance for peace. We are gathered here to hear intelligent discussion of the safety of our country and not propaganda in behalf of the wide world."

She summed up the purpose of the gathering in these words:

"We are those women who are not and were not afraid to raise our sons to be soldiers.

"We are those women who wonder what would have happened in '76 if the Colonial mothers had been afraid to raise their sons to be soldiers.

"We are those women who felt the intimate touch of war and who therefore believe it is necessary for us to know what measure of national defense is necessary and what measure of national defense exists.

"We are those women who believe that the protection of national rights is righteous and that the way to protect is to be prepared to protect them."

In the same strain of deprecation of visionary international projects, Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron of Baltimore, who was the principal speaker today, uttered words which the delegates applauded when he said, "Where my country's safety is concerned I am not willing to take a chance."

"It is a fateful hour for any country when any considerable number of its citizens can even question a policy of national defense."

National organizations represented at the conference are: Daughters of the American Revolution; Women's Relief Corps, G.A.R.; Women's Overseas' Service League; Ladies of the G.A.R.; National Society, United Daughters of 1812; Colonial Dames of America; American Nurses' Association; Service Star Legion; American War Mothers; Daughters of the Confederacy; Women's Club of the Service Flag; American Women's Legion; Women's Auxiliary of Spanish American War Veterans; Government Club of New York, and American Legion Auxiliary.

This conference is the first of the kind in the history of the republic.

ADAMS MAY GET PLACE IN GERMANY

Ex-Republican Chairman Mentioned for Embassy; Guest on Mayflower

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—John T. Adams of Iowa, a former chairman of the Republican National Committee, was among the half-dozen guests accompanying President and Mrs. Coolidge today on an afternoon and overnight cruise down the Potomac on the Mayflower.

Mr. Adams, since his retirement as national chairman last June, has been giving most of his time to his newspaper in Dubuque, but it is indicated that President Coolidge would like to prevail upon him to take a place in his administration. One of the possibilities that have been mentioned is the ambassadorship at Berlin.

The other guests on the Mayflower trip were Representative Madden, Republican, of Illinois and Mrs. Madden; Julia Arthur, the actress, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns.

Censorship on Films Stirs Up Irish Protests

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

DUBLIN, Feb. 22.—Great dissatisfaction was expressed here over the Free State's ban on many American motion pictures, especially "superfilms." Representatives of the Irish film industry went to London over the week-end to interview the Irish censors there, James Montgomery and Prof. Magennis.

Magennis said that the board would turn down all pictures dealing with the Irish question and propaganda pictures of an anti-social or anti-Christian character. Magennis contended that the Free State had the right to choose the films to be shown in South Ireland.

HOUGHTON'S PRAISE SUNG IN GERMANY

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—Die Zeit, organ of Foreign Minister Stresemann, pays an unusual tribute to Alanson B. Houghton, the American Ambassador, on his departure from Berlin, to take up his new post at London, praising him both as "one of the outstanding statesmen of our time," and "a man whose charming manner and kindly spirit won high praise from all who came in close contact with him."

The words of farewell exchanged at the recent dinner of President Ebert and Minister Stresemann, the paper observes, "were far more important than the usual official addresses and brought proof of the strong personal bond of friendship between the Ambassador from the United States and the leaders of the German government."

Die Zeit recalls Mr. Houghton's influence at the London conference over the Dawes plan, and also the fact that Dr. Walter Rathenau, Foreign Minister, spent the last evening before his assassination at Mr. Houghton's home with Hugo Stinnes. The Ambassador's relations to Germany's problems the paper characterizes as follows: "The Ambassador views conditions in Germany with friendly objectivity, and one can assume that the improvement in the relations between the United States and Germany was largely due to his influence."

FATHER OF FOUR SLAIN IN QUARREL

Two Suspects Seized Soon After Daybreak Murder in Pasadena

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Feb. 22. — Joseph Pesqueria, 40 years of age, father of four children, was murdered in front of his home, 661 South Fair Oaks avenue, by an assailant who fired, police say, from a bathroom window of an adjacent home. The murder was committed just after daybreak this morning and within two hours Pasadena police had arrested two Mexicans, one of whom is believed to have fired the shot.

Pasqual Gutierez, 38, and Stephen Bantista, 661 Edmondson Alley, are being held on suspicion of murder. Although Carmen Baldes, 6-year-old youth, who lived at the house from where the shooting is asserted to have taken place, told the police that Bantista did the killing, detectives working on the case believe that Gutierez is the actual killer. Neither of the pair, who are now in the local jail, will talk, police say, and no motive for the killing has as yet been brought to light.

A bloody shirt and a pair of trousers also covered with blood were found in the Bantista home by Officers I. R. Coleman and R. L. Schad, who made a search of the surrounding buildings.

It is believed that the shooting resulted from a quarrel in which a number of Mexicans took part. These quarrels and feuds are numerous in the Pasadena Mexican district and several deaths have resulted from them, police say.

Pesqueria is survived by a wife and four small children. His body is now at the Turner & Stevens undertaking parlors. An inquest into the shooting will probably be held tomorrow afternoon.

Goodwin Named on Reclamation Appraisal Board

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Francis M. Goodwin, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, has been appointed by Secretary Work as a member of the board now being organized to review and reappraise Federal reclamation projects. A successor to Mr. Goodwin as assistant secretary will be appointed soon.

This board is headed by ex-Gov. Thomas E. Campbell of Arizona and Dr. John A. Widtsoe of Utah. Selection of Mr. Goodwin for the board by Secretary Work was due to his wide experience and extensive knowledge of irrigation problems and his thorough familiarity with the Northwest.

Mr. Goodwin has been Assistant Secretary of the Interior during the past four years. He has had supervision over reclamation projects located on all the Indian reservations throughout the West, handling the letting of contracts for construction work as well as personally inspecting virtually all of them.

KIDNAPING PLOT SLEUTH GRILLED

Refuses to Say Why He Tried to Lure Doctor

New Surprises Promised in McClintock Case

Body of Millionaire's Friend to be Examined

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Charges of attempted kidnaping were this evening placed against John Hutchinson, an operative for the Jones Detective Agency, because of his futile effort to lure Dr. George Fosberg, star witness in the McClintock death investigation, from his office.

Hutchinson was questioned closely several times today, but refused to tell why he wished to get Dr. Fosberg away from his office, where he planned to take him and what was to be done to him. He also refused to say under whose direction he was making the kidnaping attempt. He was kept in a cell all day and tonight the formal charges were lodged against him.

William D. Shepherd, named as the chief beneficiary in the will of the late "Billy" McClintock, coming into possession of more than $1,000,000, refused today to say whether he had employed the Jones agency to do anything to Dr. Fosberg. Calls at the residence of Edwin Hedrick, chief of counsel for Shepherd, were not answered.

FACES FURTHER GRILLING

Hutchinson was locked up for the night and will be subjected to further questioning tomorrow and again when the inquest is resumed on Wednesday. The police are anxious to know what was to be done to Dr. Fosberg, whose testimony fell like a bombshell in the Shepherd camp. He testified that Shepherd, six months before McClintock's death, had visited him on two occasions, asking particularly about typhoid germs and various poisons and if they could be detected in a post-mortem. Dr. Fosberg testified that Shepherd displayed a remarkable knowledge of poisons and typhoid germs.

McClintock is supposed to have died of typhoid while Miss Isabelle Pope, his fiancee, waited vainly with a marriage license to become his wife. Had this marriage taken place, she instead of the Shepherds, would have inherited "Billy's" fortune.

Shepherd is in for severe grilling when he takes the stand at the Coroner's inquest. Particularly, he will be asked to say whether he employed the Jones agency or Hutchinson, its operative, and why. Upon his first appearance before the jury, Shepherd, after declaring his anxiety to tell everything he knew about the McClintock death, suddenly shut up and refused to testify or answer any questions "on advice of counsel."

It is now considered certain that the body of Dr. Olson, brother of Chief Justice Olson, who is conducting this inquiry, will be disinterred and examined for poison. Dr. Olson was a close friend of "Billy" McClintock, and he died under mysterious circumstances, following a visit by Shepherd, who it has been stated, was alone in the room with him just prior to his fatal attack.

It is said that Judge Olson has, in reserve, two more "surprise" witnesses, whose testimony will be as astonishing as was that of Dr. Fosberg, but their identity and the nature of their testimony are carefully guarded. Additional precautions will be taken to guard them since the attempt to lure Dr. Fosberg from his office. Hutchinson asked the doctor to attend a girl, who was critically ill. Her name was not given. Dr. Fosberg, suspecting a plot, offered to send his chief assistant, but Hutchinson insisted that Dr. Fosberg accompany him. Dr. Fosberg then detained him a few moments under pretense of preparing a case of instruments, meanwhile calling the police, who arrested Hutchinson. The police intimate that the plan may have been to hold Dr. Fosberg a prisoner, or to intimidate him into changing his testimony, or perhaps take still more drastic measures to silence him.

French Police in Round-up of Undesirables

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MARSEILLES (France) Feb. 22. In a raid made by 100 police in various quarters of Marseilles last night, 5236 individuals, of whom 2330 were foreigners, were caught. The raid was made in an endeavor to rid the city of undesirables who are held responsible for the loss of three lives on the 10th inst., in the clash between the Communists and the Catholic party headed by Gen. De Castlenau.

The authorities wish to prevent a recurrence of the disorders when former President Millerand comes here on March 1 to address the "Patriots' League."

hecter, and there has been no government objection to the price. This figures out at 2 3-4 cents an acre, United States coinage.

When Mr. Lovett arrived in Bolivia he went to see W. C. Ankerholtz, the legal representative of the company in Bolivia, confided to him that there is no railroad east of Cochabamba and no market for the products of the land, that it is fifteen days by mule back in dry season to the nearest railroad—Cochabamba, that there is no timber of value, and that he considered the circulars of the Bolivian Colonization Association misrepresented the situation.

POSTAL INQUIRY IS NOW UNDER WAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 22.—There is no fraud connected with our operation of the Bolivian Colonization Association, Loran A. Feike, secretary and treasurer of the organization, declared when confronted with a news story from La Paz to the effect that the land under consideration not only had not been ceded to the company but that it was a waste stretch and not suitable to cultivation. He said about 50,000 acres of the land had been sold, subject to agreement for return of the funds if the concession was not granted to Bolivia.

Mr. Feike detailed the history of the organization from the time operations were started in 1922 and declared that their plans had been beset with one reversal after another, but that he still contended that they would go through. He admitted some money had been refunded to purchasers.

Robert V. Jones, who was president of the association, died last September, and since this time the work has been carried on largely by Mr. Feike at the office of the company, 600 Chamber of Commerce Building.

ADVISED AGAINST TRIP

In regard to the charges of E. M. Lovett, Mr. Feike declared he had advised against his going to Bolivia at this time, as he told him the company had not as yet secured its concession. Mr. Lovett, he said, went with full knowledge of the position of the association and knew the section where the colony was located was cut off from the world and could be reached only by pack animals.

Mr. Feike produced volumes of correspondence and other data to show that the Bolivian government solicited colonization and made every promise to those who desired to form such an organization as the one here in Portland.

"As soon as possible I shall go to Bolivia and endeavor to straighten this matter out," Mr. Feike said. "We have spent a great deal of money paving the way for the passage of the bill, securing favorable publicity in Bolivian newspapers and other propaganda."

Early last year the scheme was investigated by the Portland office of the Better Business Bureau. It was later turned over to the Postoffice Department, and the files of the Better Business Bureau have never been returned by the department.

Dick Donald is Injured When Car Turns Over

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN JOSE, Feb. 22.—Dick Donald, 36 years of age, Los Angeles boxing promoter, was seriously injured late this afternoon near Madrone, eighteen miles south of here, when the automobile in which he was driving to San Francisco with a party of friends skidded on the highway and overturned. Donald's scalp was virtually torn from his head and a fractured skull is feared. He is being attended at the San Jose Hospital.

In the car with Donald were Dick Dusenberry, Los Angeles contractor, his wife, and son; William Van, editor of the Los Angeles Referee, and Charles Randall, chauffeur. They were not seriously injured. Donald is manager of the Lyceum Club of Los Angeles.

BAY REGION IS STRUCK BY GALE

John Herket, former middleweight boxing champion who fought under the name of Young Mitchell, had a party of friends out in his yacht "Marion," when the storm broke over them. The waves ripped off the top of the cabin, tore away the yacht's small boat, and Herket had to put into a difficult anchorage at the Tiburon fish yard to save the lives of his party.

Fifteen men and women employed on Angel Island were in panic while being taken to San Francisco in the small boat Seawolf, piloted by Samuel MacDonough of Belevedere. Tossed like a cork by the pounding sea, the luckless passengers begged MacDonough to put them ashore at Alcatraz Island, but he was unwilling to risk the landing.

The yacht Lark, owned by Charles Dahl, electrical supply man of San Francisco, and piloted by Dahn, and his 19-year-old son Robert, was struck by the gale and high seas 600 yards from shore. The force of the impact broke the steering gear, making the boat unmanageable. On the crest of a swell the yacht raced stern foremost toward shore and crashed against the seawall. It was damaged to the extent of $2000.

The force of the storm broke over Belevedere and Tiburon, making a tangled mass of small boats and yachts and breaking over the wall, but its effect was but lightly felt on the San Francisco and Sausalito waterfronts. Lookouts on Angel and Alcatraz islands, which felt the strongest sweep of the gale, reported that it came straight through the Golden Gate from the south.

A message picked up by the Radio Corporation this afternoon reported that the oil tanker Stockton, somewhere off the Golden Gate, was in distress. Its definite location was not given, and as later dispatches contained no mention of the ship's difficulty, it was believed tonight she had escaped injury. The tanker is operated by the Struthers-Barry Company, and was out of Portland, Or., for Los Angeles.

The storm brought the hardest rain of the year to San Francisco, although the total precipitation record was not high. The rain came in terrific squalls that made running rivers of San Francisco streets.

SANTA ROSA FARMS, HIGHWAYS FLOODED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SANTA ROSA, Feb. 22.—Orchards, farms and highways were flooded and scores of persons temporarily were isolated by high waters as a result of a storm here today which registered a precipitation of 1.16 inches in five hours.

In many districts the flood waters from near-by creeks were reported to have been three feet in depth. Laguna Creek was said to have run particularly high. Reports were received here tonight of several automobile collisions but no mention was made of any one having been injured.

In several instances automobiles were used to remove water-besieged families from their ranch homes.

RAIN FORECAST FOR SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Rain is expected in Southern California today, it was said last night in the United States Weather Bureau. There was some probability, it is said, that it might begin raining late in the night. The prediction was based on information from San Francisco, which reported rainy weather moving from there to the south.

[This is the sixth of a series of articles on the French debt by Mr. Helm. The seventh will appear in an early issue.—Editor.]

BY WILLIAM P. HELM, JR.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Any detailed study of the French debt to America today—which includes $407,000,000 for surplus materials stored in France at the time of the armistice—at once raises two questions: Why did the United States sell France her surplus materials at about one-fourth of their cost? Why not sell them elsewhere at better figures and terms?

The answer is that the United States had virtually no choice but to sell the goods where they were sold, for the best price and under the best terms obtainable. The Liquidation Commission sums it up in its report as follows:

"We had either to sell to the French government or tear down and salvage the constituent materials.

"Under a salvage program many of the properties would have turned out to be distinct liabilities instead of assets, especially as we would have been required, at a heavy overhead expense, to have negotiated and settled a very large number of claims for rents, damages and restorations.

LABOR INVOLVED

"It is estimated that it would have required the labor of 40,000 men for a period of six or eight months to dismantle these installations and salvage the constituent materials. This labor would have fallen on our Army Engineer Corps, for competent French labor was not obtainable.

"Under agreement reached with M. Morel, however, the selling value of each piece of property was arrived at, not by considering its salvage value to the United States, but by taking into account every factor entering into the determination of the net utilization value of such piece of property to the French government. On the whole, it is believed that the result obtained was a very fair one, alike to America and to France."

In making its first offer to the French government, the American Liquidation Commission, as shown in previous articles, fixed the "fair value" of the supplies at $749,000,000. That sum represented a price which, in the commission's judgment, would have enabled France to classify, sort and condition the supplies and resell them at wholesale without loss. But obviously, although the bulk of the materials was badly needed by the French people, the French government should properly have been allowed an element of profit for carrying on the work.

OFFER WAS LIBERAL

It was for that reason that the commission discounted the "fair value" by 25 per cent, bringing it down to $562,000,000. At that figure, the French government could have sold the goods, at prevailing wholesale prices, at a profit of one-third, after paying all handling and selling costs. The profit, in that case, would have amounted to about $187,000,000—nearly 2,000,000,000 francs—a tidy sum in the French Treasury.

As an instance of the manner in which the American commission scaled down the cost price in dealing with France, may be cited the negotiations covering the various installations—barracks, camps, hospitals, warehouses, railroad yards, etc.—of a more or less permanent nature on French soil.

An inventory was made by a committee of American army officers of the Engineering Corps, headed by Gen. Jadwin, and a 500-page report, covering each item, both as to war cost and estimated normal cost, was prepared. Says the commission:

"The Jadwin report showed total war costs of all American installations in France including transportation and handling of materials, soldier labor, and all other elements, at $165,661,000, and normal costs of the same properties at $81,543,000. The joint American and French committee, after making deductions for the estimated liabilities assumed by France for rents, requisitions, restorations and damages, placed the net present estimated value of all American installations in France at $39,256,000."

From that sum was deducted 25 per cent, thus fixing the price to France, in the first offer, at about $29,500,000. And as France paid—or rather, promised to pay—only 70 per cent of the price named in the first American offer, the net cost of these installations to France was scaled down 30 per cent more, and became somewhat less than $21,000,000.

And there we are in a nutshell: Cost to the American taxpayer, $165,000,000; cost to France, $21,000,000, not in cash but on ten years' time.

Recently the suggestion was warmly applauded in the French Chamber of Deputies that the debt should be canceled entirely.

What was the opportunity that confronted France when she purchased the American surplus materials? In a word, and on the basis of the Liquidation Commission's report, it was this:

France had in her possession badly needed surplus materials worth $749,000,000 at wholesale prices. She had given America her promise to pay $407,000,000. She could have sold the entire accumulation at a net profit, as estimated by the commission, of about $342,000,000, or approximately 3,500,000,000 francs. At the same time her population would have received at wholesale cost materials of which, in the main, they stood in great need.

Moreover, France would have had available not only the cash representing the profit, but the entire proceeds of the sales, amounting to between 7,500,000,000 and 8,000,000,000 francs, for her obligation for the purchase price did not mature for ten years.

In other words through the transaction France stood to make a profit of 3,500,000,000 francs and to have the use of not less than 4,000,000,000 francs additional for ten years. Whether this was done or not cannot be said from information at hand. The point is made that such were the possibilities.

BUT THE DEAD MAN BLINKED

Spanish Police Get Criminal Who Sought Escape In Coffin

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MADRID, Feb. 22.—A criminal named Gonzalez, accused of murder and robbery, sought by the police at Pontevedra, tricked the authorities four days by pretending he was dead. Gonzalez got into a coffin placed in the parlor of a friend's house and the friend arranged candles about the room. The police searched the house but found nothing. On the fourth day when the search was beginning again one policeman standing by the coffin saw the corpse blink. The "corpse" was arrested.

Gen. Pershing is Warmly Greeted by Venezuelans

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

CARACAS (Venezuela) Feb. 23. The United States battleship Utah, with Gen. John J. Pershing on board, arrived at La Guayra today. Gen. Pershing was saluted by the fort guns and was greeted on board the battleship by government officials and the American Minister, Willis C. Cook.

A special train brought Gen. Pershing and his party to Caracas where they became guests of the government. The carnival season began yesterday and popular enthusiasm has been enhanced by the visit of Gen. Pershing.

TWO KILLED, FIVE SHOT IN GUN BATTLE

Two Hundred Rounds Fired in Feud Flare-up Between Families

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MARTIN (Ky.) Feb. 22. — Two men were killed, including a deputy sheriff and five others were wounded during a gun battle here today.

John Hall, town marshal of Wheelwright, Ky.; Steven and John Flannery, Dick Thompson and Norman Collins were wounded.

Authorities declared White and John Hall met as the latter was boarding a train here shortly before noon. The men are reported to have exchanged a few words and then to have drawn pistols.

The shooting is then reported to have become general. During an exchange of shots among an undetermined number of men, more than 200 shots were fired, according to police reports.

Two versions of the shooting were circulated here tonight. One was that a feud existed between White and the Halls and another was that the Halls were attempting to place White under arrest.

HOUSE IN TRIBUTE TO KAHN

Republicans and Democrats Eulogize California's Late Representative at Memorial Service

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Republicans and Democrats joined today at a memorial service in the House chamber in tribute to the late Representative Julius Kahn of California, who died in December.

With Representative Barbour, Republican, California, presiding, eulogies were delivered by Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic leader; Representative McKenzie of Illinois, who succeeded Mr. Kahn as chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, and Representative Byrns, Democrat, Tennessee; Quinn, Democrat, Mississippi; Sherwood, Democrat, Ohio; Sabath, Democrat, Illinois; Hill, Republican, Maryland; Miller, Republican, Washington, and Raker, Democrat, California; Free, Republican; Swing, Republican; Lineberger, Republican, and MacLafferty, Republican, all California. Mr. Barbour also eulogized his deceased colleague.

Recalling that Mr. Kahn was born in Germany, Mr. Garrett said the veteran legislator, "one of the most conspicuous figures in the civil life of America, contributed tremendously to the defeat of the country in which he was born and to the victory of the country he had chosen for his adoption."

GARRETT TRIBUTE

"He will take rank among the great Jews of history," said Mr. Garrett, "and to say that is to say much."

Mr. McKenzie declared that Mr. Kahn, "stood like a rock for national defense. He and other speakers lauded him for his part in carrying out the war program of Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Byrns declaring that the President found for Mr. Kahn, then ranking Republican on the House Military Affairs Committee, which had a Democrat as its chairman, a worthy champion of his military policies, who did not permit partison politics to swerve him from patriotic devotion to his country during the war emergency.

Representative John E. Raker referred to Kahn as "an outstanding figure in public life," and declared he "stood at the head among leaders of the Jewish people."

Representative Arthur E. Free stressed Kahn's "human side," asserting that he was always more concerned about the welfare of others than his own.

TRACES HISTORY

Tracing the late Congressman's history, Representative Phil D. Swing said Kahn had "fought his way in the face of tremendous adversities from obscurity to a place of prominence in national life."

Representative Walter F. Lineberger said that "lovers of liberty throughout the world owe him a debt naught can discharge."

Representative J. H. MacLafferty pointed to the San Francisco Congressman's "genial nature," while Representative Henry E. Barbour referred to him as "an honest and sincere public servant who gave the country his best and to whom honor and distinction came as a suitable reward for service well done."

Senator Shortridge attended the memorial service, but did not speak.

POLICE SEARCHING FOR DOG POISONER

Lincoln Heights police yesterday were searching for the dog poisoner reported at work in that district. The search was begun after Mrs. John Poulas, 200 North Alta street, and Mrs. Helen Neelin, 151 North Alta, reported their pet dogs had been poisoned on meat dropped on their premises. The poisoned meat, according to police, endangers the lives of small children, who have a habit of putting into their mouths food that they find. The investigation is being conducted by Detective Whittaker.

NATURE IS FOE TO PROHIBITION

Mexico Poor Field for Cult, Says Ambassador

Tapping Leaf Only Action Required of Thirsty

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 22. "Prohibition would not work in Mexico. It would be like suddenly putting brakes on a speeding car, and is full of danger." Manuel C. Tellez, new Ambassador to the United States from Mexico, thus referred to the question of a dry Mexico, which frequently has been agitated since President Calles was inducted into office, while here on his way to Washington.

President Calles, personally, is known to be a prohibitionist. In many of his speeches he has declared himself as opposed to the liquor traffic, and while military governor of the State of Sonora he held a tight rein over liquor dispensaries. While a general in the field during revolutionary days, one of his first acts on entering a town was to close all saloons.

There is one stumbling block for prohibition in Mexico, according to Ambassador Tellez. That block is pulque, the national drink of the poor. Pulque is a heritage from the Aztec, it was pointed out. It was the national drink of Mexico long before Cortez landed at Vera Cruz.

Pulque grows on every hill and in every valley in Mexico. Every Mexican can grow the maguey plant in his back yard, and all that is necessary is to cut the end of the leaf of the maguey and let the sap drip into a vessel. The drink is mild but ferments quickly and generates a small percentage of alcohol. It is rich in iron, and is considered a great tonic by natives.

"Persons who use pulque as a tonic derive great benefit from it," declared Tellez. "Some of the peons, of course, indulge in it excessively, with bad effects.

Another obstacle in the path of prohibition is the absence of education among the great mass of peons, he said. These people would not understand and would resent any action robbing them of their pulque, he believed. Such a step might prove very dangerous.

Women of Mexico and of the United States have the future relations of the two republics in their hands, Mrs. Tellez, wife of the new Ambassador, believes. Mrs. Tellez discussed the matter shortly before her departure for Washington after a two-day stay here. She was not speaking from a political point of view.

"It is in the home that men's sentiments are formed by the women," she explained. "There the women of any country mold ideals. The children are always in the hands of women. At first it is the mother, then it is the teacher—and most of our teachers are women, as they are in this country. It is essential that women have a broad understanding and foster the right attitude."

Mrs. Tellez looks with favor on the custom of young Mexican girls coming to the United States for completion of their education, instead of to Europe as in the past. She said they not only obtain fairly good understanding of English by so doing, but best of all, they get a broad understanding of this county. The boys of Mexico also profit by being sent to this country, Mrs. Tellez declared.

GIRL WINS SOCIAL RIGHTS

Secures Injunction Against Family Meddling With Her Associates or Hours

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DETROIT, Feb. 22.—Miss Alma Smith, book-keeper at the National Electric Supply and Fixture Company, 1338 Broadway, was still holding out today for what she believes her right to choose her own companions and live her own life.

She has obtained a temporary injunction in Circuit Court restraining her brothers, Harvey and Walter Smith, from interfering with her association with Lee Laughran, her fiance. Laughran, a salesman, has returned to Chicago. The injunction still stands. And Miss Smith is still her own boss. She left home when she obtained the injunction and has not returned.

Her family lives at 3335 Charlevoix street. Her mother, Mrs. John C. Smith, did not share her views about what a young woman should do for recreation in 1925.

"I suppose mother is doing her duty as she understands it," Miss Smith said yesterday, and sighed. "But I am a person just as much as she is. And I am 21 years old.

"It must be a relief to my parents and brothers not to have to sit up nights waiting for me to come home," she continued. "And they no longer have to run around in a taxicab to drag me home from a dance.

"For the first time I realize what independence and self-reliance are. And I like them both immensely."

"The house seems empty without her," the mother said today.

WILD GAME SCHEME IS PROTESTED

Request for Sportsmen's Club Preserve Opposed in Many Quarters

Protests to the application of the Pacific Coast Sportsmen's Club for permission to issue $4,000,000 in memberships to promote a game preserve for hunters in the Tehachapi Mountains continue to pour into the State Corporation Department following the open hearing last week, when the application was being considered.

Deputy Commissioner Bowron, who is in charge of the investigation, has received numerous letters, several from the northern part of the State, and many telephone calls protesting the scheme.

In the department files is a letter signed by A. L. Burleson, Berkeley, in which he complains against "the proposal to turn a portion of California into an African or East Indian jungle for the entertainment of a few men. Burleson calls the department's attention to the danger of wild animals escaping from the confine. Although stout fencing has been proposed, he declares that animals can find a way out and this would necessitate every camper and vacationist carrying a high-powered rifle to assure his protection in the neighborhood.

Jack Murray, 4433 1-2 Towne avenue, offers his assistance to the department as an expert on African customs and the methods employed there by natives in keeping animals in captivity. Murray, in his letter, said that he spent eight years in Africa from the Cape to Victoria Nyanza and in the Soudan.

Telephone calls, Deputy Bowron said, have been made chiefly by those interested in the prevention of cruelty to animals.

Bar Admissions, Appeal Cases on Calendar Today

Fifteen attorneys from other States, including one from Canada, are scheduled to ask the Second District Court of Appeal, Division One, tomorrow to approve their practice of law in California.

During its calendar the court also will consider five criminal and ten civil cases which are being appealed. Among the criminal matters is the appeal of A. W. Bomar, who was convicted on two counts of obtaining $2500 under false pretenses he is asserted to have made in connection with the Marvel Pain and Repair Company.

Robert H. Reid and Izeyl Reid are appealing from a similar conviction, having been charged with defrauding Josephine E. Stewart of $9500 in connection with the sale of apartment house furniture. Gene Christie convicted of burglary and Howard W. Worden of robbery also will present appeals.

DEPOSITORS OF BANK MAY GET MORE MONEY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

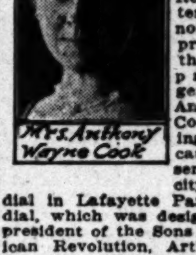
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22.—Another 5 per cent dividend will probably be distributed to depositors and other creditors of the Night and Day Bank. State Finance Commissioner Millspaugh today asked Circuit Judge Falkenhainer to authorize the dividend. If authorized the disbursement will total $123,755 and will bring the total dividends to 62 per cent. The last dividend, 7 per cent, was paid in December, 1923.

UNVEILS DIAL TO PHILIP DE NEVA

D.A.R. Commemorates Man Who Surveyed City

National Chief of Patriotic Body at Ceremonies

Observance at Lafayette Park is Impressive



Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook

Commemorating Philip De Neva, the man who laid out and surveyed the original pueblo of Los Angeles thirty-six miles square in 1781, the Cabrillo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, yesterday afternoon in the presence of their national president-general, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook of Washington, dedicated and presented to the city a large sun dial in Lafayette Park. The sun dial, which was designated by the president of the Sons of the American Revolution, Arthur Benton, from a replica in the streets of Seville, Spain, is located due west of the park lily pond.

More than 300 members and prominent representatives from other patriotic organizations attended the ceremonies, which were presided over by Mrs. W. W. Stilson, past State regent and founder of Cabrillo chapter.

MRS. COOK ARRIVES

Mrs. Cook, who made the transcontinental journey in order to attend State conferences in several of the Western States and attended the unveiling of this monument to early Los Angeles history, arrived at the Biltmore Hotel yesterday.

In commenting on De Neva's vision and foresight in picking Los Angeles, Mrs. Cook said that in this part of the country "limitations of time and the obstacles of nature have simply served as incentives in helping you to achieve your dreams and aspirations; one of your most wonderful assets has been that you have refused to have your vision hampered by traditions.

"Perhaps the even greater asset of power which you are exhibiting today and of which the dedication of this sundial is an example is that you are conserving and preserving for posterity in suitable and leasing form the memory of the men who have contributed to the upbuilding of this section of America's marvelous western empire.

"This sundial," Mrs. Cook concluded, "in its artistry of form and beauty of design is a symbol, signifying a respect for certain hallowed associations of the past. But not less so, or I am a poor prophet, indeed, is it to be the symbol of a future which shall not only gloriously outstrip your past, but of a future which shall build upon the finest and best that the past has produced."

OTHER SPEAKERS

In introducing Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Stilson said that had the Pilgrim fathers but rounded the Horn and reached this coast there would never have been a Plymouth Rock. Another memorial was dedicated by the Cabrillo chapter in February, 1915, that to Juan Rodriguez, the first white man to survey the coast in 1542. The first memorial of the chapter and incidentally the first memorial tablet placed in Southern California, Mrs. Stilson said, is located in Exposition Park near the Museum.

Other speakers on the program included Mrs. Jesse Shreve, State vice-regent; Mr. Benton and Mrs. George P. Bent, chapter regent.

SURCHARGE TILT ON IN CONGRESS

House Position Deplores Senatorial Rashness

Lower Chamber Committee is Against Pullman Cut

Hearings Bring Out Figures on Rail Revenue Project

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Again the House of Representatives is putting itself in the position of deploring the hasty and inconsiderate manner in which the Senate enacts legislation and is proceeding with due solemnity to correct the Senate's rash conduct.

That is, the House is getting ready to kill the attempt of the Senate to abolish Pullman car surcharge rates. On February 13, the Senate by a vote of 32 to 8 attached an amendment to the bill carrying the appropriations for the Interstate Commerce Commission and other independent offices and bureaus, which amendment would make it unlawful to levy Pullman surcharges. This action was taken a few days after the Interstate Commerce Commission had decided that these surcharges were not unreasonable. Last May, the Senate, without dissenting vote, made its first attempt to outlaw surcharges, but failed to receive the co-operation of the House. When the matter came up on February 13 on the amendment offered by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, relatively few Senators apparently understood precisely what was involved. Among those few were Senators Metcalf of Rhode Island, Dale of Vermont, Fess of Ohio, Jones of Washington, Oddie of Nevada and Pepper of Pennsylvania, all of whom voted against the amendment.

In the meantime a separate bill to outlaw the surcharges has been pending before the House Committee on Interstate Commerce, of which Representative Winslow of Massachusetts is chairman. Following the action of the Senate Chairman Winslow had his committee hold hearings for three days on the subject in which the facts have been brought out. As a result, the committee today, by a vote of 16 to 2, decided against a favorable report and later without a roll call agreed to present an unfavorable report. The two dissenters were Representatives Barkley of Kentucky, Democrat, and Parks of Arkansas, Democrat. Three members were absent.

CONFEREES DEADLOCKED

Contemporaneously the conferees on the independent offices appropriation bill met and found themselves deadlocked on the Robinson antisurcharge amendment. The Senate conferees refused to recede from the amendment and the House conferees were equally insistent that it should be stricken out.

On Tuesday, Representative Winslow will present the adverse report on the separate bill to the House and at the same time the House conferees will report back their inability to come to an agreement with the Senate on the subject. Thus the matter will be thrown into the House for debate.

An established fact is that the abolition of Pullman surcharges will reduce the annual revenues of the railroads by between $37,000,000 and $40,000,000 a year. When the matter was under debate in the Senate the opponents of surcharges represented that the greater part of this loss would fall on the richer railroads. The evidence taken by the Winslow committee, coming from authoritative sources, shows that the contrary is true. More than $30,000,000 of the loss will fall on the railroads that are unable to earn up to the 6 per cent on their valuation which 6 per cent the Esch-Cummins transportation law dares them to earn. Only a little more than $7,000,000 will be lopped off the gross earnings of the railroads that are earning the maximum allowed by law.

For example, the New Haven which is among the railroads earning a very small percentage, would lose about $1,300,000 a year in gross revenue, and the Boston and Maine also a low earner would lose about $300,000 a year. Even the relatively rich New York Central, now earning the maximum percentage, would lose enough by the abolition of the surcharge to pull its earnings down below the maximum allowed. The Pennsylvania earning the maximum would suffer a gross loss of $5,000,000. But the burden would be particularly heavy on the Western railroads where revenue and earnings are lower.

BACKERS OF REPEAL

When the repeal of surcharges was first presented in Congress, it had considerable backing from the agricultural States, which have a constitutional antipathy to railroads. But a change of sentiment is now apparent, particularly in the House. The hearings before the Winslow committee have given emphasis to the fact that a reduction of the gross revenues of the railroads makes more difficult the desired reduction of freight rates on agricultural products. If the railroads, not now able to reduce rates, were to suffer a material loss of revenue that loss must be made up elsewhere by the advancement of other rates. Herein lies the argument that is causing the House to set its face against what it regards as the precipitant action of the Senate.

Another ground of opposition also exists, one that is much in the mind of the members of the House Committee on Interstate Commerce. Congress has delegated to the Interstate Commerce Commission the technical work of deciding what rates are and what rates are not unreasonable. It is argued that the resulting system of adjudicating rate controversies on a basis of fairness and equity will be broken down and destroyed if Congress begins the policy of repealing interstate commerce decisions by law and setting itself up as another judge of the reasonableness of transportation charges.

PLASTERERS IN COAST MEETING

Master Wall Finishers of West to Convene

Will Discuss Questions of Craft Importance

Six Pacific States Will Send Delegates

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OAKLAND, Feb. 22.—All is in readiness for the third annual Pacific Coast conference of the Master Plasterers' Association of the Pacific Coast to be held in this city tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. Delegates from Washington, Oregon, Utah, Nevada, Arizona and California are expected.

Many matters of vital interest to the building industry on the Pacific Coast are scheduled to come before the conference. Among these will be the launching of a campaign for better plastering throughout the Pacific Slope. Another subject will be that of providing an adequate system of apprenticeship to supply skilled mechanics to the plastering industry in the next few years.

The use of metal lath in its relation to the master plasterer; lime in its evolution in the building industry; "patching" in its relation to the other building trades; labor conditions; segregated contracts on public and private buildings of $100,000 or over; standard specifications and other topics are also to come before the convention.

ENTERTAINMENT PLANS

In addition to the business program a number of entertainment features have been arranged for the convention.

There will be scenic drives, a visit to the Redwood City plant of the Pacific Portland Cement Company, the largest oyster-shell manufacturing plant in the world and one of three such plants in existence. There will be theater parties for the ladies and luncheons and dinners to the delegates. T. B. Sexton of Oakland, president of the Pacific Coast Conference of Master Plasterers, announces that this meeting will be the most important yet held. The other officers are: T. D. Sexton, Oakland, president; W. G. Mannan, Portland, first vice-president; George Pedgrift, Los Angeles, second vice-president; A. Knowles, San Francisco, third vice-president; Alex Mennie, San Francisco, treasurer, and W. F. Bruer, Oakland, secretary.

The executive committee is composed of Francis O'Reilly, San Francisco; Robert Simpson, Los Angeles; William Makin, Oakland; M. E. Summers, Fresno; W. B. Scollan, Sacramento; D. L. Hoggan, Portland; A. H. Winchcole, Richmond, and H. H. Wilson, Seattle.

If You Are Going to Vancouver Prison, Take Cover

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Feb. 22.—Deputy Chief of Police Leatherdale has issued notice that all persons anticipating becoming prisoners at the City Jail had better provide their own blankets. The jail is full and the supply of blankets taken up.

"It is one blanket to three men now," said the deputy, "and unless a further supply comes in or some of the prisoners get out, new prisoners will be without sleeping accommodations."

KILLS MAN ON ERRAND OF MERCY

Kentucky Doctor Slain by Father of Starving Babe, in Injured Pride

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HAZARD (Ky.) Feb. 22.—Stubborn pride, a characteristic of the Kentucky mountaineer, is believed by some to have caused a killing near here in which Dr. M. J. Kingins was the victim, it was said, of Elisha Sloane.

Dr. Kingins had received word from the Hazard Christian Church that Sloane's baby was starving. The church agreed to pay the expenses of having the baby cared for at the local hospital. The doctor mounted his horse and went to a mining camp to take charge of the infant and carry it into town.

Officers who investigated the case, and the story told by a Mrs. Messer, said to have been an eyewitness to the shooting, Dr. Kingins stopped at a store on the way to the Sloane home and said there the only hope of saving the child's life lay in its being taken to the hospital. As Kingins proceeded to the Sloane residence, Sloane met him and informed him that the baby should never be taken from its home. In the argument that ensued it is asserted that Sloane fired two shots. Kingins fell from his horse and died within a few minutes. Sloane gave himself up and was brought to this place by Jasper and Roscoe Sloane, his brothers.

The mountaineer always resents being placed in the position of accepting anything resembling charity, and it is believed this was the primary cause of the attack. Kingins was a native of Bumpus Mills, Tenn., graduated at Vanderbilt University last June, and was 28 years of age. He leaves a widow and several children.

TWO TRIALS FOR DAVIS IN BRIBE CASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TOPEKA (Kans.) Feb. 22.—Jonathan M. Davis, former Democratic Governor, now faces two trials in District Court here on charges of dealing in pardons. He and Carl Petersen, former State Banking Commissioner, were bound over Saturday for a jury trial on a joint charge of conspiring to solicit a bribe. The defense waived the presentation of testimony and Judge Clyde Cowgill of the City Court, who spent a day and a half listening to the prosecution, held the defendants under $1000 bond each.

Mr. Davis will be tried first with his son, Russell, on a charge of soliciting and accepting a bribe from Fred W. Pollman in exchange for a pardon.

Capt. Von Paper Defies Demand for Resignation

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—Capt. Franz Von Papen, former German military attache at Washington, declines to obey the demand of the Center party, expressed in a vote yesterday, that he resign his mandate for failing to support Dr. Marx, head of the recently ousted Prussian Cabinet.

Von Papen says it is for the voters of Westphalia, who nominated and elected him, to decide whether his conduct is reprehensible. He contends it is contrary to the principles and practices of the Center party to force anybody to vote contrary to his convictions.

The Prussian Cabinet crisis has become a campaign of vituperation by the daily organs of the different parties seldom equalled in political history. Each party shifts the blame for the situation on the other.

TEST SALT REMEDY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 22.—Forrest Clark of Alice, Tex., one of the large land owners in Jim Wells county, has purchased a carload of coarse salt and will test its efficacy as a remedy for root rot, a disease which caused practically as much damage to cotton in that section last year as the boll weevil. One hundred and fifty pounds are being used to the acre.

SENTENCE JAILBREAKERS
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—Walter Del Lor Raine, a Federal prisoner, has been sentenced to two years in a Federal penitentiary on a narcotic charge, while Francis E. Craig, who was captured with him in Los Angeles, has been given a year in the State penitentiary for jailbreaking. The couple picked the lock of the County Jail, using only an ordinary switch key and a buttonhook.

KENTUCKY MAY BAR RACE BETS

Proposed Antibetting Law Stirs Natives

Reformers to Start Fight on Hostile Candidates

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRANKFORT (Ky.) Feb. 22.—It became known at the State capital here today that the hardest attack ever made on legalized race-track betting in this State will be launched in the General Assembly, which meets next January. Members of this Legislature are to be elected in November. Already lines are being drawn for the fight.

The reform element is sounding out prospective candidates for State Senator and Representative as to their attitude on race betting, and have called on candidates to declare themselves on the question, which this year will assume the place occupied in the Legislature three years ago by the fight over whether the Darwin theory of evolution should be taught in the public schools.

It is estimated that $50,000,000 in round numbers, is bet annually at the Kentucky race tracks, the tax accruing to the State being about $350,000. The reformers hold that legalized betting is of great harm to the morals of the public.

The element in favor of continuation of betting under State sanction points to the tremendous value in money of the thoroughbred horse-breeding plants in Kentucky and the thriving condition of the industry, which they claim would be practically destroyed if Kentucky should vote to eliminate betting on races.

A move to stop race betting was defeated by a narrow margin at the last session of the Legislature, and while the fight is certain to be bitter at the next meeting, it is not regarded as likely that legalized betting will be eliminated by that body. Opposition to betting is mostly in rural communities. The contest has already grown to such an extent that in one or two communities strong feeling exists between the betting and antibetting factions.

FIND IDOLS OF ANCIENT INDIAN CULT

Mexican Natives Observe Heathen Rites of 400 Years Ago Near Orizaba

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22. — An immense cave containing ancient idols of stone and pottery that are still worshipped by Indians was found by accident near Orizaba, State of Vera Cruz, by members of an excursion club who carried off some of the idols after a battle with natives.

They delivered the idols to the University of Orizaba where officials recognized them as belonging to the days of the ancient Indian empire. Stories have been current for years than the natives in the mountains about Orizaba still observe the ancient heathen rites that were supposed to have disappeared 400 years ago.

The university considers the find of great archaeological importance and will send a big expedition accompanied by well-known scientists to explore the cave and investigate the religious beliefs and practices of Indians in the neighborhood.

PARACHUTE JUMPER TAKES BIG CHANCE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 22. Sergeant Eugene Conrad, Kelly Field parachute jumper, is nursing a sore shoulder as a result of his 3000-foot race to the ground against a civilian airplane at Kerrville.

Conrad fell 1500 feet after leaving the plane before he pulled the rip-cord of his parachute. He then slipped the chute down to within about 200 feet of the ground before letting it all the way open, landing quite awhile before Fred Lund, pilot of the plane, reached the ground. Several women spectators at the field fainted when they saw Conrad falling like a rock toward the ground. They thought his parachute had failed to open.

WOMEN SEEK TO LYNCH POISONER

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Feb. 22.—Women in the town of Narbonne, central France, attempted to lynch a prisoner accused of having poisoned the reservoir, which resulted in the death of several domestic animals and the spreading of sickness throughout the town.

When the man was arrested the women tried to seize him from the police. The man's wife joined the menacing mob and asked to be the first to do the hanging.

PIONEER WOMAN IS DEAD
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 22.—Mrs. Margaret E. Gillespie, widow of John W. Gillespie, a pioneer lawyer of Kansas City, died today at her home, 3633 Campbell street. She was born in 1840, a daughter of Maj. Arnold Harris, a graduate of West Point and organizer of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. Mrs. Gillespie's maternal grandfather was Gen. Robert Armstrong, who commanded the artillery under Andrew Jackson at the battle of New Orleans. To him Gen. Jackson bequeathed his sword. Members of Mrs. Gillespie's family presented the sword to the government.

FORMER IOWA MAYOR DIES
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DES MOINES, Feb. 22.—F. H. Sears, 77 years of age, resident of Anita, Iowa, for twenty-five years, and prominent in Southwestern G.A.R. circles, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Faulkner, Des Moines. Mr. Sears was one time Mayor of Anita, and several times elected justice of the peace.

CRASH KILLS COMPANION OF SIMMONS

Founder of Klan in Critical Condition, But Hopes for Recovery Expressed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

GAINESVILLE (Ga.) Feb. 22.—Capt. M. A. Knox of Houston, Tex., supreme recording knight of the flaming sword, who was injured near here Friday night with Col. William J. Simmons in an automobile accident, died at a local hospital late last night.

The condition of Col. Simmons, who is supreme monarch of the knights of the flaming sword, and was founder and former emperor of the Ku Klux Klan, tonight was regarded as critical, it was said.

The two were injured when the automobile in which they were riding skidded over an embankment and overturned, about twenty miles from Gainesville. Ray Rainer, of Atlanta, the third occupant of the car, was unhurt.

Col. Simmons was said to have suffered a fractured collarbone, four broken ribs on the left side and a punctured lung. Though his condition was considered critical, physicians expressed hope for his recovery unless pneumonia develops.

King and Queen Suggested for World League

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GENEVA, Feb. 21.—An American king and queen for the League of Nations is the serious suggestion of a Californian forwarded to the delegates of the various nations at Geneva. Three closely-typed pages are given to a not very convincing argument that supermonarchs create good will and esprit d'corps. To offset any arguments of the democratic principle against the proposal it says, "The king and queen would possess no more authority and power to direct the political policy of the League than perhaps an American observer, much less than the American member of the Dawes commission." The Californian would like immediate action on his suggestion in order that the coronation might take place at the next assembly. To expedite matters, he asks Col. House to represent the United States in aiding the League on fixing on a suitable couple.

IOWA WOMAN ASKS DECREE
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SHENANDOAH (Iowa) Feb. 22. Mrs. Faith Field Lowrey, daughter of Henry Field, seedman and owner of KFNF broadcasting station, has sued her husband, Marshal Lowrey, for divorce on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married in August, 1919, and have two children, Richard Field Lowrey, 3 years of age, and Marshall Lee Lowrey, 1.

ILLINOIS BANKER DIES
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22.—After an illness of two weeks, B. H. Canby, 67 years of age, vice-president and general counsel of the Southern Illinois National Bank of East St. Louis, died last night at his home, 1683 North Forty-fifth street, East St. Louis. Canby had been a resident of the Illinois city for forty-eight years and served three terms as a judge of the City Court.

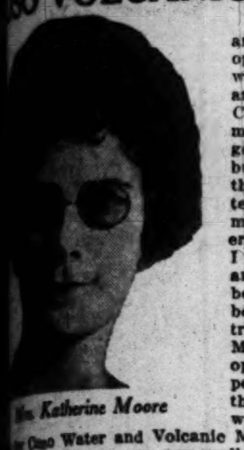
SO VOLCANIC IRON WATER



Mrs. Katherine Moore

For six years I suffered from gas and indigestion which later developed into an ulcerated condition. I was treated by various physicians and later at the Roper Hospital in Charleston, South Carolina. Almost in despair I came to Los Angeles, practically a helpless invalid, but was not benefited until I began the use of Coso Volcanic Iron Water, which has absolutely relieved my stomach trouble, and I no longer suffer from inactive liver. Though I had lost about sixty pounds, I am gaining flesh rapidly and feel better than for years. Much of the benefit that I have received I attribute to the use of Coso Volcanic Mud Baths, as this mineral mud opened the pores of my skin and I perspired so freely that much of the accumulated poison of years was eliminated. I cannot say too Coso Water and Volcanic Mud Baths and anyone who is in can call upon me personally or telephone me at my apart This is my only method of showing my appreciation to the company for the benefit I have received from their products.

MEXICO AMENDS PROFIT TAX LAW

Decision Affecting Foreign Firms Announced

Time for Final Accounting Changed by Calles

Provisional Return for New Companies Provided

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22.—A decree has been signed by President Calles modifying the income tax law in several important particulars. Following is the essential part of the decree.

(1.) Those who struck a general balance after December 31, 1923, and before March 1, 1924, shall file, before May 1, 1925, their final declaration, to be based on the balance which they must strike between December 31, 1924, and April 1, 1925. In exceptional cases, and upon properly justified petitions, the Secretary of the Treasury may grant, to those mentioned in the foregoing paragraph, an additional month for the filing of their declarations.

TO CORRECT RETURNS

(2.) Those who struck a general balance after February 29 and before July 1, 1924, must before April 1, 1925, correct their provisional declaration of last July, and it will, on being checked, be considered a final declaration. The tax will be chargeable only upon the proportional part of profits acquired between March 1, 1924, and the date of the balance; and the legal exemption, for the proportionate time only, will be deducted. They shall also file, before March 31, 1925, a provisional declaration of profits acquired during the six months immediately following the date of their balance struck in 1924. The provisional taxable profits of the preceding should be calculated in the ratio of the corrected profits to the corrected receipts in the corrected declaration.

(3.) Those who struck a general balance in the second half of 1924 must file their final declarations before April 1, 1925.

(4.) Those who struck no balance in 1924 must, before April 1, 1925, file a declaration, based on their accounts during 1924, and which will be considered final. They must, moreover, make a general balance for the months of January to April, 1925, on which they shall base their final declarations in July next, upon which they shall pay the tax proportioned upon the profits acquired from January 1, 1925, to the date of the balance.

FOR NEW ENTERPRISES

(5.) Those who began business in 1924 must file a provisional declaration before April 1, 1925, based on their accounting from the beginning of the business to the end of 1924. They must strike a general balance on completing a year in business, and then file a final declaration based on it according to law.

(6.) Those not keeping books shall file a declaration, based on a general statement of receipts and disbursements in 1924, which shall be considered final.

(7.) Those who ought to have, but did not, file a provisional declaration in July, 1924, must make a final one before April, 1925, subject to the foregoing dispositions, and liable to the legal penalties covering the part of their profits in the months of March to June, inclusive, 1924.

The documents to be attached to the declarations are those mentioned in the American Chamber of Commerce News Bulletin for December 10, 1924, with a change in the rules as to limited liability and insurance companies. The rule now is the following: "Corporations and insurance companies will attach a copy of their annual balance of profit and loss account."

FLORENCE TUNNEL IS COMMENDED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Feb. 22.—The economy effected in building the Florence Lake tunnel of the Southern California Edison Company and the speedy completion of the record-breaking project today received the congratulation of a party of leading financiers and authorities on public utilities, after they completed the first trip through the tunnel since it was blasted through on Wednesday.

The expressions, based on a thorough study of the project, were contained in a statement given to John B. Miller, president of the Edison company, and George Clinton Ward, vice-president in charge of construction.

"To those of us who are engaged in placing large sums of our clients' money in investments," the statement reads, "both in the form of stocks and bonds and in safeguarding these securities, it has been a remarkable and reassuring experience to inspect the Florence Lake tunnel, which you and your associates have just completed.

"The efficiency, initiative and technical skill which has resulted in the financing of this great undertaking in twenty-two months, or approximately 20 per cent less time than was considered possible when you informed the financiers of this country of its contemplation, is most gratifying to us, and is a proper reason why we should extend our most sincere congratulations to you and all who have assisted in this valuable addition to the prosperity of California and the welfare of its people."

Included in the party who made the trip were the following: Harry J. Bauer, president of the Pacific Gasoline Company, Los Angeles; Charles W. Beall of the Harris Forbes Company, New York; D. E. Pomeroy of the Bankers' Trust Company, New York; Howard W. Fenton, president of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago; A. N. Kemp, executive vice-president of the California Bank, Los Angeles; John E. Jardine, president of the William R. Staats Company, Los Angeles; George Garritt of the United States Steel Products Company, Los Angeles; Maj. E. G. Edgerton of the Federal Power Commission; Capt. Powers Symington of the United States Navy, and others.

OBSERVATIONS

By the INNOCENT BYSTANDER, BILL HENRY

MAY SUTTON BUNDY'S chances against Helen Wills are now the main topic of conversation as a result of the showing Mrs. Bundy has been making in the midwinter tennis tournament. There are, of course, a lot of people who do not grant Mrs. Bundy much of a chance and who point to the fact that Miss Wills has been victorious in their last three or four meetings, including two victories at Berkeley in the California State championships last fall.

But Mrs. Bundy's excellent play at the Los Angeles Tennis Club and the fact that she is obviously in top form and extremely keen on the forthcoming engagement have served to make a lot of people believe that she has an excellent chance against the national and Olympic champion. Manifestly Mrs. Bundy has been practicing regularly and against good competition.

The local star has been practicing daily, chiefly against Johnny Doeg, her nephew, who is one of our leading juniors in these parts. Her game has stiffened perceptibly and she is shooting the ball deep and hard off her backhand as well as from her famous forehand. Her shots have more pace than has been their custom recently.

On top of that Mrs. Bundy seems to have been developing a fore-court game and soaks the ball deep and hard from volley shots, which is a decided departure from her old-time procedure of beating them from the base line and letting it go at that. Mrs. Bundy took the first set from Miss Wills the last time they met and apparently is playing in better form now than she was last fall.

A. J. Sturzenegger, who coached the ends and backs at Michigan for a number of years and looked after the ends on the Trojan varsity last season, is a philosophical soul as a result of many years of batting around the gridiron with the rising generation of football players. "Sturzey" refuses to be convinced that his team is going to be any where near as good as it appears to be on paper.

"You never can tell about these college boys," he said, when he dropped into the office the other day. "They may have been 100 per cent perfect at the end of last football season and by the time the next one rolls around they are at about 40 per cent. Some of 'em you can build up again, a few of 'em you don't have to, but the most of them lose something in the course of the off-season and don't seem to get it back."

We were discussing the Trojan prospects for next year which, to the proprietor of this column at least, seemed to be first class. "Well, you can't

BALL PARK IS BATTLE SCENE

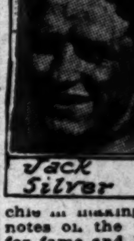
San Francisco Fans Strong for Jack Silver

Joe Benjamin May Surprise Northern Critics

Victor Has Chance to Grab Leonard's Crown

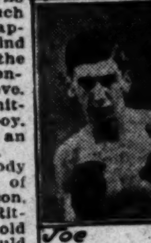
BY PAUL LOWRY
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—This fog-ridden metropolis of the north is all steamed up over the Joe Benjamin-Jack Silver fight to be staged in the Recreation ball orchard tomorrow afternoon, as it has not been steamed up over a fight in the past decade.



The fight bugs are going back to the days of Gans, Nelson, Wolgast and Ritchie in making mental and verbal notes on the worthies who battle for fame and lucre tomorrow, and comparing them with the lightweight kings of old.

It is a sad commentary on the present-day crop of lightweights that there are few followers of the game who can find much in either scrapper to remind them of the quartet mentioned above. Silver is a hit-and-run boy. Benjamin is an in-and-outer.



If anybody said that of Gans, Nelson, Wolgast or Ritchie in the old days, he could expect a swift kick in the place which rests his spine when sitting down.

BATTLE IMPORTANT

But the battle is important. It has a decisive bearing on the lightweight championship instituted by the New York Boxing Commission. The winner will be one of eight who will continue in the running for Benny Leonard's crown.

With the stakes so high it may be that either one or both of the boys who face each other tomorrow may rise above himself as football heroes are wont to do and demonstrate real championship caliber.

The writer is inclined to believe this is more probable of Benjamin, the Stockton "Sheik." Joe can hit with the sting of a mule. Make no mistake about that in spite of what the northern critics say about him.

In addition Benjamin has been goaded to desperation by the

UPSETS IN NET TOURNEY

Mrs. W. M. Henry and Mrs. May Bundy Fight for Women's Title in Tennis Classic

Despite the lowering heavens play in the annual Southern California mid-winter tennis tourney went ahead unabated yesterday on the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis Club.

Two rather startling upsets featurned the day's play, Norval Craig, a junior, who displayed startling ability, took the measure of Ralph Sindorf in the men's singles, 8-6, 2-6, 6-1. In the other match, which was perhaps the hardest-fought affair of the day Ted Easton, another junior paired with H. A. Hornidge, beat Miles Reinke and Bob Allen in the doubles play. The scores for the match were 9-7, 6-8, 9-7.

As was expected Mrs. W. M. Henry and Mrs. May Bundy came through to the finals of the women's singles. They will meet tomorrow afternoon for the title and an interesting match should result. Mrs. Henry won her way to the finals when she defeated Miss Bryant, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1. Mrs. Bundy took an easy victory over Miss Grieve to keep herself on the running, the scores of their match being 6-0, 6-0.

Finals in the mixed doubles were also reached, Mrs. Henry and Harold Godshall downing all their opponents, while Miss Bryant and Harold Dickenson were the other pair to come through successfully.

Undoubtedly the most brilliant performance of the afternoon was that of young Easton who, with Hornidge, played like a veteran against the experienced combination of Allen and Reinke. Easton's service worked to perfection, while his daring placements were hardly short of marvelous. His partner's fierce drives were also notable.

Craig showed himself a clever court general in his match with Sindorf, who incidentally is capable of better tennis than he exhibited. The youth had his op-

Twilight Loop Officials to Make Schedule

Officials of the Hollywood Twilight Baseball League will meet at the Hollywood Athletic Club tonight to draw up the schedule for the coming season and frame the by-laws of the league. The schedule starts March 15. Twelve teams will be admitted to the league. Eight entries have been accepted already.

The newly formed Hollywood Athletic Club nine is the latest and possibly the best addition to the ranks. It was organized by Bert Hartwell entirely of clubmen and promises to be a fast, powerful affair. Some of the men who will play for the club are: George L. Eastman, James Irsfeld, Tom Gallery, Bert Hartwell, Bill Thompson, Chester Bennett and one or two other stars. It will go into training today for the first time, at the Hollywood baseball park on Santa Monica Boulevard. All the Twilight League games will be played here also.

WRECK FIVE CARS IN BRAWLEY RACE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BRAWLEY, Feb. 22.—Two spectators were injured, one seriously, when the wheel of a racing car flew off into the crowd during a Washingtons Birthday dirt track contest here today. In all, five of the twenty cars entered in the race were wrecked, though their drivers were unhurt, and but two of the machines crossed the finish line.

The spectators struck by the flying wheel were S. W. DeFosie, 45, of Boston, and Benjamin Goams, 21. DeFosie sustained a compound arm fracture and internal injuries.

BAY CITY SOCCERITES WIN

San Francisco All-Star Eleven Beats Los Angeles Team in Sloshy Game by 2-to-1 Score

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—San Francisco's all-star soccer eleven evened up a little score with Los Angeles players this afternoon at Ewing Field when it waded through mud and water to a 2-to-1 victory over a picked team from the south in the big match of the intercity series.

A year ago San Francisco sent its best players down to Los Angeles and the visiting team took an awful beating, which wasn't forgotten in a hurry. Today, however, the San Franciscans proved themselves the better mudders and outclassed the southerners.

The speed and skill of the Los Angeles eleven weren't so evident today as it was in the intercity game in which the southern team walloped the Sacramento All-Stars. While the visitors battled on even terms with the San Francisco team in the first half, being favored with the wind, in the second period the position of the teams was switched, and San Francisco had the advantage.

CLOSELY PRESSED

With the wind in their favor, the Los Angeles players had the ball in San Francisco territory during most of the first period and pressed closely in the first ten minutes of play. Singer, defending for the local eleven, made two great saves, clearing beautifully when Davidson shot the ball right at him with terrific force.

After twenty minutes of play a free kick was awarded the San Francisco team, Alfred Trenholm taking it. The Los Angeles backs stopped his drive and shot the ball back, but Harry Roberts trapped it and drove in past Goalie Southern for the first goal of the game.

Los Angeles' squad rushed upon the San Francisco net shortly after and Bobby Robertson scored a field goal, Singer being unable to get his hands on the ball.

With the score standing 1 goal apiece at half-time, Jimmy Allen, captain of the Los Angeles team, wanted to call the game off. His team-mates, soaked to the skin and caked with mud, stood behind him in his motion, but the San Francisco players, considering themselves fortunate in being able to hold the visitors to a draw in the first half, decided to press their luck and asked that the game continue.

SHORTEN HALF

Finally it was agreed that the second half would be shortened to thirty minutes. The two teams battled furiously for about ten minutes and then the visitors began to lose heart, slowing the game up. They drove the ball out of bounds time after time, but the local team was all the more determined to score, and did so just before Referee Wardlaw blew the final whistle.

The winning goal came on Billy Hay's beautiful corner kick, Bobby Foster heading the ball in.

The line-ups:

Los Angeles	Position	San Francisco
Southern	goal	Singer
Mortensen	right back	Kirkwood
Cooke	right half	Roberts
Allan	center half	Grant
Downey	outside right	Hay
Davidson	inside right	Downie
Parkinson	center forward	Sadler

JERRY WONDERLICH GIVEN OVATION FOR HIS GAMENESS

Jerry Wonderlich, veteran of a thousand speedways, received quite an ovation from the thousands of excited speed fans at Culver City yesterday when nerve alone kept him up with the leaders while he was forced to see three brother drivers crash under the sizzling pace set by Harry Hartz.

Jerry, "Witch to his friends—and he has many—spent many weeks in a critical condition in the Altoona (Pa.) hospital several months ago after crashing through a guard rail very near the same spot where "Howdy" Wilcox met death in the annual speed classic the year before.

After a serious wreck, it is many months before a driver can get back into the harness and pilot his roaring mount at a speed oftentimes in excess of 130 miles per hour. Jerry demonstrated the thing that all sport lovers admire, "guts," when he drove in the inaugural race at Culver, but his driving display of sheer grit won him a welcome hand from all those who yesterday held their breath while the score of roaring cars tore around the oval, barely managing to miss Wilkinson's wrecked mount, hanging suspended at a dangerous angle on the south bank of the track. None of the other drivers knew the fates of the pilots of the three cars that had been wrecked, nor the moment their own car would swerve and crash But even the hardened drivers, unafraid of daily contacts with death, hesitated after the race to congratulate Jerry—and some of them even asked what he was going to do the same night—it was rumored.

Teamwork Gives San Mateo Poloists 10-to-8 Victory Over Midwick Country Club

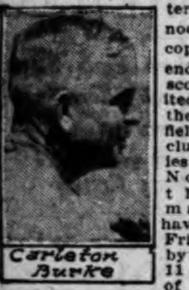
VISITORS PLAY TOGETHER WELL

Locals Spot Rivals Four Goals at Start

Handicap Too Much for Losers to Overcome

Tevis Escapes Injury in Spectacular Spill

BY BRAVEN DYER



Carleton Burke

San Mateo's hard riding poloists made it two straight over the Midwick Country Club riders yesterday afternoon when they copped the long end of a 10-to-8 score in a spirited match on the Alhambra field. This concludes the series with the Northerners, the visiting mallet-men having won last Friday's game by a score of 11 to 2. One of the best crowds of the season witnessed yesterday's encounter and got a big kick out of the final half of the clash.

Because of a last-minute shift in the Midwick line-up which sent Carleton Burke into the game when the locals had to spot their rivals four goals to begin with. Jim Spalding was unable to play, Burke taking his place and inasmuch as the veteran Midwick rider rates six goals the total handicap of the locals was 12 goals as against eight for the visitors, Teddy Miller carrying a five-goal handicap and Ed Vail rating one goal.

GOOD TEAMWORK

Exhibiting splendid teamwork and following the ball with relentless energy, the San Mateo mallet swingers scored one in each of the first three periods. In the meantime, Midwick had counted three goals also and when Ed Vail and Gordon Cronkhite each drove a shot through the posts in the fourth chukker the score stood 7 to 5 and it looked as if the locals might catch up with their opponents and eventually win out.

However, the hope was short-lived for Dick Schwerin, who scored six goals in Friday's encounter, slipped the ball through the uprights after a mix-up in front of the goal in the fifth chukker, and then followed this up with a brilliant ride the length of the field for another marker almost immediately afterward.

This put San Mateo well out in front and, although Midwick scored once in each of the last three periods while the visitors were held scoreless in the final two sessions, the damage had been done and Will Tevis & Co. cantered off the field victorious.

FOLLOWED THE BALL

There was no outstanding star for the winners. They all followed the ball in faultless fashion, the scoring being evenly divided between Tevis, Cliff Weatherwax and Dick Schwerin.

Carleton Burke, captain of the Midwick regulars, was all over field in yesterday's match. His playing was the best he has exhibited this season, the veteran cutting many San Mateo passes with his fast riding and clean hitting. Teddy Miller's long drive featured, while Ed Vail and Cronkhite showed flashes of form that upset their rivals' plans on many occasions. Midwick did not show good teamwork, due to the fact that Vail and Cronkhite are junior players, while Burke and Miller are used to playing with the regular squad.

Tevis provided the fans with a few extra thrills in the third chukker, when he and his horse went to the turf in a bad spill. Both horse and rider rolled over three times and it was miraculous that Tevis escaped injury.

DEL MONTE COMING

Friday and Sunday the Del Monte team, with three star Hawaiian players on the outfit, will oppose the Midwick here:

Yesterday's line-up:

San Mateo (6)	Pos.	Midwick (8)
W. W. Crocker	No. 1	Ed Vail (3)
Cliff Weatherwax (2)	No. 2	Ted Miller (3)
Will Tevis (2)	No. 3	G. Cronkhite (2)
R. P. Schwerin (2)	Back	C. F. Burke

Score by chukkers:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
San Mateo	1	1	1	0	2	1	0	0	—6
Midwick	0	2	1	2	0	1	1	1	—8

San Mateo had four-goal handicap, making official score 10 to 8.

ALONSO ELIMINATED IN SQUASH TOURNEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Feb. 22.—Manuel Alonso, Spanish tennis ace, who, last year defeated William T. Tilden in the midwinter indoor invitation tournament of the Buffalo Tennis and Squash Club, was eliminated in the semifinal round of a squash tourney by Lawrence Rice of Boston, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

Tilden came through the semifinals, defeating James Davies of California, 6-3, 6-1.

JIMMY DARCY SEEKS RING BATTLES HERE

Valley Trambittas, better known as Jimmy Darcy, is after ring work in any of the local arenas. Darcy has been East for a couple of years and has met some good men in that time. Among the well-known boxers he met are the names of Tommy Gibbons and Harry Greb. Darcy boxed at Vernon four years ago and made a hit with the fans by his style of milling. The last boxer he met at Vernon was George Shade. Jimmy has been training every day for two weeks and is down to 165 pounds.

BELLFLOWER IS VICTOR

Bellflower had a little too much defense for the Blue Diamond baseballers yesterday and trimmed them, 4 to 0, on the Bellflower field.

WHEN SAN MATEO SQUAD WON MATCH

WHITES BEAT GREENS

Santa Barbara Poloists in Practice Game for Coming Tournament at Coronado

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 22.—The Whites defeated the Greens by the score of 10 to 9 in one of the best polo games of the year here today, with Frederick Roe of Texas and Elmer Boeseke of Santa Barbara, opposing team captains and members of the United States Olympic team as the shinning stars.

The Whites took a long lead in the first four chukkers through the playing of Roe and Bob Stewart of Santa Barbara, the score standing 6 to 3 at the end of the fourth period. The Whites had increased this lead to 10 to 3 in the seventh period, when a rally by the Greens came within an ace of tying the score.

Count Pierre De Jumilac, a member of the French Olympic team, played an excellent game for the Greens. He rode and played the ball well, but was rather shy on the long shots.

Today's tilt was used mainly to bring forth new combinations to be used by Santa Barbara in forthcoming matches at Coronado and Del Monte.

The line-ups:

Whites	Position	Greens
Dabney	No. 1	Park
Stewart	No. 2	De Jumilac
Roe	No. 3	Boeseke
Burrell	Back	Brooks

Greens scoring: Park, 1; Count De Jumilac, 1; Brooks, 2; Boeseke, 5.

Score by period:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Whites	3	1	2	0	2	2	0	0	—10

KINSLEY WINS AT ASCOT

Defeats Frank Lecklider in Thrilling Speed Feature Before Big Crowd; Roberts Skids Thrice

Three drivers won laurels for themselves in the Washington's Birthday races at the Ascot Speedway yesterday. Each pilot got a different crown and the crowd was pleased with them all. Chance Kinsley piloted his powerful Frontenac to victories in the fifteen-lap Washington Sweepstakes and the Italian Colony Victory Crown Dash. So he was crowned speed champion of the day. Harry Kelly pulled a big surprise to win the feature event of the motorcycle races and Floyd Roberts got the skidding honors for the day. Roberts wasn't crowned but it wasn't his fault. He had marvelous luck in three mean skids on the south turn but escaped each time.

After a hair-raising battle with Frank Lecklider, Kinsley crossed the line first in the feature event, time, 8m. 40s. Lecklider and Kinsley were within five feet of each other throughout the entire race. Kinsley's big mount completely dwarfed Lecklider's little special. But on the turns, the latter car always went ahead. Lecklider led one lap and Kinsley had the other fourteen but the duel that developed on every curve elevated the thatches of the most hardened fan.

Curley Young was ahead in the Valley Forge Stakes, third in the program, when the right rear wheel of his car parted company with the axle, passed up Young and another car ten yards ahead of him, then turned down into the wire inside fence, giving a couple of rail birds something to write home about. Young drove nonchalantly off the track.

Tuffy Jacobs was touted as the big winner in the motorcycle events. He came through according to schedule in the one-lap Helmet Dash in 33s., but was beaten out by inches by Harry Kelly for the Mt. Vernon event. The time was 2m. 47s.

Kinsley clipped off a single lap in 34s. flat to win the Victory Crown Dash. Floyd Shawhawn then won the Valley Forge Stakes with Cantlon second. George Beck, the veteran Chicago racer, beat out Frank Lecklider in a close race for the five-lap Yorktown Derby. The Kosciusko Purse went to Ralph Ormsby. Time, 2m. 5s.

In one of the best races of the day "Speedy" Cantlon won the Lafayette Sweepstakes in 5m. 44s. Cantlon won over one of the fastest fields on the card and he was given a big hand when he rolled into the pits. Lecklider and Ormsby were second and third, respectively. Ralph Ormsby got himself a lot of glory and no little cash when he dashed home first in a special five-lap affair. Chance Kinsley was forced to take second.

SEEDED PLAYERS ARE GIVEN TOUGH BATTLE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FRESNO, Feb. 22.—The fourth annual Fresno county tennis championships, under the auspices of the Fresno Morning Republican, today reached the semifinals and finals and will end tomorrow. In the evening a program, presentation of trophies and a dance will bring the affair to a close.

The seeded players faced a difficult schedule today, some of them having to play six and seven matches.

Budge Clark, former California tennis captain, Newton Bramblett, Robert Waring and Walter Senior today reached the semifinals in the men's singles. Waring and Clark are in the finals in the men's doubles, while Senior and King and Burns and Taylor reached the semifinals in this event.

DUCATS FOR BIG RING BATTLE GOING FAST

Tickets for the Victor Alexander-Sailor Carroll scrap are going fast, according to Watson Burns, manager and matchmaker of the Assembly Athletic Club. The two heavyweights will clash in a ten-round battle there Wednesday night. Alexander has met and defeated some of the best heavies in the West, but has had a hard time getting opponents lately. He trimmed Battling Savage in a Mexicali bout recently. Carroll took a ten-round bout from Sailor Bogardus last week.

MY REVERIE WINNER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 22.—My Reverie, at 7.70 to 1, copped the Washington handicap feature race on a fine program dished up at the Tia Juana track this afternoon, beating a field that included some of the best sprinters in training at the border plant. Buster Keaton, winner of last Sunday's feature event, cracked after getting off to a good start, and trailed the field of nine horses to the wire. Sunspero came in second and General Thatcher third. Sunspero looked like a sure winner, a sixteenth out, but tired as a result of the fast pace set by My Reverie.

The regular Sunday marathon today was over the long distance of two miles and five furlongs, and was won by Worthman, which got far out in front and stayed there. Senator Donlan was held in check for a last-minute rally, but the best he could do was to get second place, with Tag Day third. Canute, the favorite, finished last in a field of six. Buckhorn II, popular distance runner, and winner of several of these events this season, was not entered today.

First race. Mile and seventy yards—T. J. Pendergast (McHugh) won, Sunshot (Hooper) second, Dougheregon (Ellis) third. Time 1:50.

Second race. Five and one-quarter furlongs—Confetti (Vesalli) won, Neon Glide (McHugh) second, Clarkson (Walls) third. Time, 1:08 4-5.

Third race. Five furlongs—Run Chief (Griffin) won, Pawnbroker (Pendergrass) second, Free Mason (Mortenson) third. Time 1:02 1-5.

Fourth race. Mile and one-eighth—The Lamb (McHugh) won, Halu (Shaffer) second, Madam Vennie (Griffin) third. Time 1:57 3-5.

Fifth race. Two miles and five furlongs—Worthman (Hooper) won, Senator Donlan (Sylvia) second, Tag Day (Huntamer) third. Time, 4:51 2-5.

Sixth race. Mile and one-sixteenth—Publisher (Griffin) won, Millwick (Roberts) second, Runelathe (Martinez) third. Time 1:49 2-5.

Seventh race. Six furlongs—My Reverie (Fisher) won, Sunspero (Barnes) second, General Thatcher (Walls) third. Time 1:14.

Eighth race. One mile—Coeur De Lion (Shafer) won, Bullet Proof (Griffin) second, Wilmer the Wizard (Elston) third. Time 1:42 4-5.

Ninth race. Four and one-half furlongs—Mr. Ruby (Mortenson) won, Lady Leband (McHugh) second, The Cheetah (Sylvia) third. Time 0:55 3-5.

ELYSIANS CAPTURE POLO TILT

Howard Auto Quartet Drops 11-to-3 Game on Crescent Club Field

Playing as fast a game as any one could ask, the Elysian Park polo team cleaned up on the Howard Auto four 11-3 yesterday afternoon at the Crescent Polo Club field at Third street and Harper avenue. The game was the first of the Greater Los Angeles Pony Polo Tournament and was witnessed by more than a thousand persons.

The Elysian Park outfit grabbed a pair of goals in the first period and were never headed. The Howard team played a desperate game, and although Lynn Howard had some of the finest ponies on the Coast for his team, the spectacular riding and driving of Morrison and Williams could not be denied.

Some of the most spectacular riding that has been seen in these parts in a long time was indulged in by Bob Williams, playing number four position on the Elysian Park squad. Time and again he took the ball from his own goal posts and with tremendously long drives carried it nearly the length of the field.

Despite the fact that Lynn Howard had a wanderful string of ponies he failed to show as well as was expected. He seemed afraid to ride his horses into mass plays, but after his shift to number four position, he played a much higher class game.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

THE SURVIVAL of the fittest is about to begin in boxing arenas. Some enthusiastic soul is opening a new boxing arena almost every week. Soon some enthusiastic Sheriff is going to close 'em up until only the fittest are in the running.

It's easy to build boxing arenas if you have the money, but it isn't so easy to make money out of 'em after they have been built. Jack Doyle struggled along here for years without making any loud noise. He had a lot of money back of him and he could afford to wait for the cream.

Hollywood stadium came into being, and got over after considerable shoulder pushing. Nobody else got rich hereabouts, but with the return to ten and twelve-round bouts in California a crop of proposing-to-promote promoters sprang into being.

Their efforts are seen here and there. Culver City has flopped three times. Wilmington is having hard sledding. Dick Donald's Lyceum is not any too thriving. San Fernando opened up the other night with Dode Bercot whipping Young Papke and Roy Cliffe knocking out Gene Nolan. It was a good card but there was only about $1000 in the house. Another ambitious gent wants to open up at Compton. And so it goes.

Chairman Seth Streinger of the Boxing Commission has tried to help the boys by pointing out the pitfalls of the promotion game, but it's like trying to drive nails in an iron ball. They've got to learn the lesson their own way.

All the would-be promoters point to Jack Doyle as an example of what they hope to be. Jack expects a sell-out house tomorrow night when Mickey Walker and Bert Colima battle twelve rounds. He'll no doubt get it. Walker is one of the three real champion fighters in the pugilistic game today—Dempsey, Walker and Leonard.

Colima is the classiest middleweight produced on the Coast in many years. He can box and he can hit.

Fans will come from far and wide to see a match like this. The house will run in the neighborhood of $60,000. Walker will collect 40 per cent for his end—$24,000. Colima gets $10,000. That leaves $26,000 for the Doyle pocketbook.

The tidy sum of $25,000 is a lot of money. A lot of promoters would like to get it. None of them expect to get it right away, but like the boxers they all have a firm belief in their own ability. Just give 'em a chance and they'll all make good. And they go into the promoting end with eyes open and ears tuned for the long chance. But for every one that becomes a real riot there are a dozen who sink noiselessly into oblivion.

Our old friend Larry Hunt, who got his name in the columns of the press recently as the third promoter to be connected with the lamented Culver City stadium, bristles forth with an indignant denial that he is through. A telegram from San Diego runs as follows:

"Paul Lowry: One should not be buried until he is dead. I am not discouraged and will show you some real action in Culver City."

Fidel La Barba's classy victory over Nationalista was one of the most convincing wins seen in a local main event since the ten-round law went into effect.

It establishes Fidel as a real topnotcher in the minds of those who were inclined to doubt his ability against boxers with unorthodox styles.

While we favored La Barba all the while there were a lot of so-called wise ones—old-time followers of the game—who said that La Barba was not schooled in the ways of the ring enough to drag down a decision over Nationalista.

They were convinced he knew what to do with a boxer of the McLarnin type, but they shook their heads when Nationalista was mentioned.

But the skeptics have been convinced. They are all on the La Barba bandwagon now. They know he is of real championship caliber.

PONCE AND DIAZ TO EXCHANGE SWATS

Kid Ponce, sensational San Fernando bantamweight, will clash with Benny Diaz, the hard-hitting Lyceum Mexican in the main event at the San Fernando Coliseum next Wednesday. The Mexican boys are scheduled to slug through ten rounds or less. In the six-round semi-wind-up, Henry Marcus of San Fernando will clash with Ralph Lincoln in what should be a whale of a bout. The complete line-up:

Wildman Carranza vs. Young Mesa, 114 pounds, four rounds; Teddy Roberts vs. Sailor Thorn, 125 pounds, four rounds; Lee Morrissey vs. Teddy Adams, 150 pounds, six rounds; Henry Marcus vs. Ralph Lincoln, 130 pounds, six rounds; Kid Ponce vs. Benny Diaz, 118 pounds, ten rounds.

ARGENTINE SETS TWO NEW SWIM MARKS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 22.—After having been in the water swimming for thirty-five hours and one minute, the Argentine amateur Pedro Candioli arrived at Rosario last night from Santa Fe, a distance of approximately seventy-eight miles. This is claimed to be a new record both with regard as to distance and time in the water.

CAGE TOURNEY LIST GROWS

Three More Teams Signed Up for National Junior Basketball Classic to be Staged Here

Headed by Leo Calland's formidable U.S.C. freshmen quintet three more teams entered the lists in the national junior basketball tournament last night. The other two entries received by Director Jack Pierce came from the Goodyear Friars and the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Yesterday's entries brings the total number up to fourteen, and with the entry list remaining open until Tuesday at midnight it seems probable that more than twenty teams will answer the whistle in the first round of play which starts Thursday afternoon. All games will be played at the Manual Arts High School pavilion, with the finals scheduled for Saturday evening.

SHOVE STOCK UP

The Trojan Frosh shoved their stock up several points by the great battle they furnished the Hollywood A. C. team Saturday night at U.S.C. Hollywood won by a last-minute rally that was aided by a couple of good breaks. The Frosh are in excellent condition, and condition will count heavily in the tournament. It would not be at all surprising to see Calland's boys reverse the order of things against Hollywood, should the draw bring them together near the close of the tournament.

The L.A.A.C. entry is the club junior team, made up of the best players in the city high school ranks. They will receive their first test tonight against the Utah Aggies.

The Goodyear Friars are the original hard-luck team in the A.A.U. League, most of their defeats having been sustained with but a very slender margin in favor of the winning team. The Friars are out to even up for several of these defeats in the coming tournament.

Coach Dick Romney of the Utah Aggies, who play at L.A.A.C. tonight and tomorrow night and at Oxy on Wednesday evening, wired last night to the Aggies' officials requesting permission to remain over and take part in the turnament. Romney expects to have his big star, Henrie, in shape by Thursday, and with that boy in the line-up the rest of the teams would have their hands full stopping the rugged Logan entry.

OFFICIALS JUBILANT

A.A.U. officials are jubilant over the interest shown in the big tournament already. With the high class of entries it seems probable that the winner and runner-up, who will be sent to the national senior at Kansas City, should do extremely well there. It is no State secret that the local division of the A.A.U. wants to hold the national senior here in 1926 and should the coming tournament go over big it would have an excellent chance of landing the event. The big Olympic Auditorium would be finished by that time and would furnish an excellent place in which to hold the tournament.

BEARS CLINCH GOLF TITLE

Lauren Upson Meets Team-Mate, Lloyd Thomas, for Intercollegiate Championship Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DEL MONTE, Feb. 22.—California has a strangle hold on the annual California intercollegiate golf championship as the finals here tomorrow are to be played between the playing-through champion, Lauren, Upson and Lloyd Thomas, both the University of California.

Stanford University's sole hope, Eddy Meyberg, faltered in the semifinals at the hands of Upson. The latter is in rare form and he trod roughshod over the Los Angeles player, overwhelming him, 9 and 8. Lloyd Thomas of California, the other finalist, achieved nearly as remarkable a victory, downing Nounnan, also of California, 8 and 6.

Upson has won his three matches in the championship in sensational fashion, beating Jergens of Stanford, 9 and 8; McInnes of Stanford, 8 and 7, and Meyberg of Stanford, 9 and 8.

He is assumed to be an odds-on favorite to defeat Thomas in the finals tomorrow which will go thirty-six holes.

Second round results: Upson, California, defeated McInnes, Stanford, 8 and 7; Meyberg, Stanford, defeated Lange, Stanford, nineteenth hole; Thomas, California, defeated Hellman, California, 9 and 7; Nounnan, California, defeated Carter, Stanford, 4 and 2.

Semifinals: Upson defeated Meyberg, 9 and 8; Thomas defeated Nounnan, 8 and 6.

In the Del Monte flight, semifinals, Campbell, Stanford, defeated Lee, California, 3 and 2; Stanley, Stanford, defeated Slessinger, California, 5 and 4.

West Virginia, Arizona Nines Fleet Victors

"Fish" Herring's squad from the U.S.S. West Virginia won the feature affair of a double header, 5 to 0, from the U.S.S. New Mexico nine yesterday afternoon at Trona Field, in a game replete with fielding sensations. "Tex" Hindeman, West Virginia moundsman, who relieved Farrar in the third, allowed the desert men not a semblance of a hit for the last seven innings. Arizona beat the Colorado, 10 to 8.

Neither outfit was able to get a run over the platter until the fifth when Malloy, West Virginia outer gardener, poled one over the bluff for all four bases. The flagship boys scored again in the seventh and put three more across the final frame after Backstop Kaldenback started the rally with his fourth hit of the game.

The West Virginia infield played a wonderful game behind Hindeman, while the two second basemen, Brown of the New Mexico, and Kois of the West Virginia, shared the spectacular fielding honors of the day. The victory affords the West Virginia revenge for their 10-to-0 defeat at the hands of the New Mexico squad last week.

There will be another double-header in the Battle Fleet's championship schedule at Trona Field this afternoon, the U.S.S. California and U.S.S. Mississippi playing at 12:45 and the U.S.S. Maryland and U.S.S. Idaho taking the field at the close of the first game.

Yesterday's results:

CLUB CAGE SQUADS IN TWIN BILL

Mercury Seniors Tackle Hollywood; Juniors and Utah Aggies Mix

Basketball fans will have a double offering set before them tonight at the Los Angeles Athletic Club gym where the Mercury Seniors tangle with the Hollywood A. C. five in a game that will decide the A.A.U. championship in one end of a twin bill, while the Mercury Juniors, a quintet composed of City League high school stars, will tackle the strong Utah Aggies in the other section of the big program.

Chief interest centers in the Hollywood A.C.-L.A.A.C. struggle. Should the Hollywood cagers win they will have captured the A.A.U. championship, but a Mercury victory will merely tie up the two quintets with nineteen games won and two lost each. Hollywood won the last tilt between the rival club squads, but it was played on the Movie City floor, giving them a slight advantage. The Mercuries will have this advantage tonight, and they will also be stronger than in the last game for they have added Potter, a star forward, to their roster.

However, comparing the two squads' scores in recent games against the U.S.C. freshmen, they should be evenly matched. The Mercuries beat the Trojan peagreeners, 35 to 33, while the Hollywood cagers won by a 28-to-23 score.

The Utah Aggies are favored to wallop the Mercury Juniors, for they showed that they are powerful in their two games with the U.S.C. varsity. The Aggies won the first game, 31 to 23, but lost the second, 34 to 21. In Hawley, Neilson, Baker, Sanders and Capt. Woodside, Coach Romney has five fast floor men and all are good shots.

On the Juniors will be Osborne, Lehners and Gandy from Hollywood High's championship five, and Geoglein, Ferguson, Teeters and Leyh from the Polytechnic squad which finished runner-up for high honors. Morris, a former Poly star, is also on the Junior squad.

RUMANIA NET TEAM SEEKS DAVIS CUP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BUCHAREST, (Rumania) Feb. 22.—Nicolas Mishu, Rumania's ranking No. 1 tennis player, will lead the Rumanian team in the invasion of the United States next year in quest of the Davis cup. The Federated Sports club of Rumania has decided to challange for the cup. Mishu's team mates will be selected after elimination contests to be held in April.

ETHEL LACKIE SETS RECORD

Mermaid Betters Own World Record; Helen Meany Retains Fancy Diving Title at Tampa

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TAMPA (Fla.) Feb. 22.—Helen Meany, national fancy diving champion, retained her title on the feature event of the final day of the two-day women's A.A.U. championship swimming meet at Temple Terrace here this afternoon. She was closely pressed by both Helen Wainwright, champion long-distance swimmer, and Miss Aileen Riggin, former champion.

A world's record was shattered in the 110-yard free style event by Ethel Lackie, who lowered her mark set in the 1924 Olympics, a full two seconds. The Illinois A. C. girl went over the course in 1m. 10 1-5s, with Adelaide Lambert pushing her closely.

In the 220-yard free-style Gertrude Ederle won and equalled the world's record for that distance. Her time was 2m. 46 3-5 s. She also broke the American record by two-fifths of a second. She was clocked at the 150-yd. mark in 1m. 47 2-5s, thereby lowering the former mark for that distance by one second. She finished the 200 yards in 2m. 29 3-5s., two-fifths of a second slower than the world's record.

The 880-yard free-style was the greatest battle of the afternoon with the former national champion, Ethel McGarry and Martha Norelius swimming nearly neck and neck over the entire route. Miss Norelius won and smashed the record held by Miss McGarry by covering the distance in 13m. 31 2-5 s. The former mark was 13m. 7s.

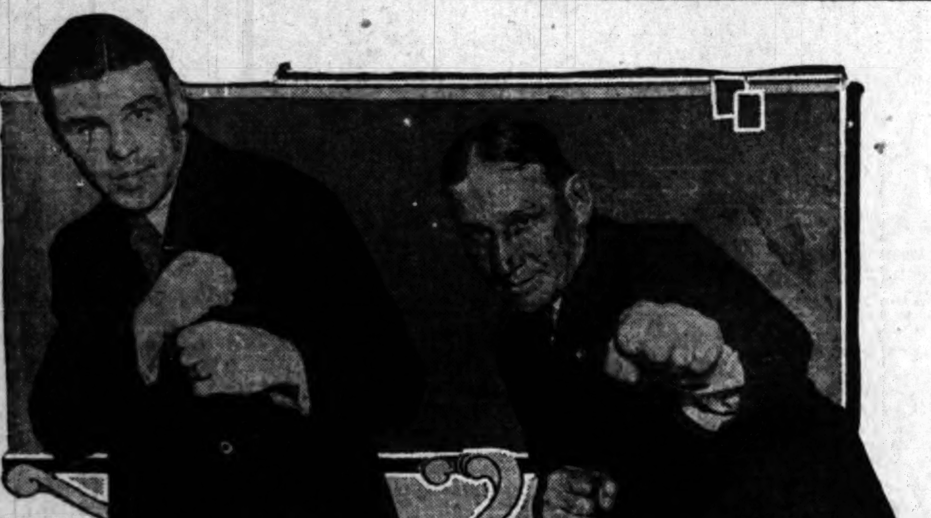
PRESENT AND PAST FISTIC TITLE-HOLDERS

On the left is Mickey Walker, welterweight champion of the world, who meets Bert Colima at Doyle's Vernon Coliseum tomorrow night. Beside Mr. Walker is Tommy Ryan, who once held both the middleweight and welterweight titles. The present ring king and the veteran champ met last week in Dempsey's new gym and posed together.



TOM RYAN, GRAND OLD WELTER, THINKS WALKER REAL CHAMP BUT MAKES NO PREDICTIONS

What a great layout that picture of gods and near-gods of the ring makes.

But to one man, Walker, is more interesting than the rest.

He is Tommy Ryan, both welter and middleweight champion of the world twenty-five years ago.

Walker rates as one of the greatest welter titleholders of all time.

No wonder he is a magnate to Ryan—a fighter who spent twenty-three years in the ring and never lost but one fight—that to Kid McCoy.

Ryan fought middleweights, light-heavies and heavies just as Walker is doing now.

ABOUT SAME SIZE

"The bigger they were the easier I could lick them," Ryan told Walker after the workout.

"That's just what I am finding out," said Mickey.

"By George! You are just about my size," laughed Ryan.

Jerry Lavadas, Dempsey's trainer, got out the tape.

Ryan's reach is exactly the same as Walker's—sixty-eight inches.

They are practically the same height. Ryan is 5 feet 6 3-4 inches tall—Walker 5 feet 6 inches.

Both have short, heavy arms, thick shoulders and big fists.

Each has a small waist and sturdy legs.

It was Ryan who taught Jim Jeffries his famous crouch. Ryan trained Jeff when he beat Fitzsimmons for the championship and Corbett and Sharkey afterward.

Ryan never looked an opponent in the eye. He kept his eyes glued on his opponent's left knee. By the movement of that knee he could sense everything the other fellow was doing and beat him to it.

In Ryan's day the welter class limit was 142 pounds ringside. Today it is 147 pounds at 3 o'clock the day of the fight.

KEEN FEINTER

Ryan developed the feint to the highest degree of any fighter we ever had. Quick as a flash he could draw in an opponent and smack him on the chin with either hand.

Walker is two-handed but he has his own peculiar style of avoiding punishment by weaving. Walker is more of a body fighter than Ryan.

When Ryan started fighting they had to avoid the police. He fought many of his 300 battles in lumberyards, icehouses, barns and out-of-the-way places. Quite a difference then from the beautiful and spacious arenas where Walker now appears.

WON'T PICK WINNER

And Ryan refuses to pick the winner of the Vernon battle.

"You tell them this," he said—"Walker is strong, rugged, smart, clever in his own style, hits with both hands and is always dashing in. Colima steps around more feints beautifully and hits with either hand. If Bert is right look out. What a pippin it will be. Walker and Colima will give the fans one of the greatest battles Los Angeles ever saw."

Neither won their titles by a knockout.

Britton, the man Walker whipped, was a boxer on the same style of Ryan—wonderfully clever, a feinter and a ring fox.

A lot of water has run under the Brooklyn bridge since Ryan fought his great battles. The style of boxing has changed. The game demands hitting now. Walker is of the new school—Ryan of the old.

Which was best? Nobody can answer that.

"Walker is a big little man," says Ryan. "If I was fighting him I'd box him. Maybe I could have licked him when I was good. Maybe I couldn't. He's a great kid and a great fighter."

BALL PARK IS BATTLE SCENE

taunts of cowardice flung at him. It has been charged that he quits under fire. His mental attitude alone should put him in championship form.

San Francisco, of course, is backing Silver to the limit. That is natural. He is a local product, born and reared here, sold newspapers for a living and graduated into the four-round ranks. He has a good head and boxes expertly. But he's a skipper—always running away.

Benjamin is clever, but not so artful on the defense as Silver. If the latter wins he will be the second powder-puff boxer who has survived the first round in the lightweight championship tourney. Sammy Mandell preceded him when he licked Sid Terris in New York a couple of weeks ago.

If Benjamin survives tomorrow's open-air skirmish, it is the general conviction that he can, by a course of serious training, show his way through to the Leonard throne. Three more victories would give him the title, as there were only sixteen contenders named by the New York commission, Silver and Benjamin being the lone Coast representatives.

But this opinion is contingent and systematic training, acquisition of a fighting disposition and repudiation of the ladies' adoring glances.

It's Benjamin's great chance to vindicate himself.

The promoters are anticipating a huge crowd, the biggest since the days of the old-time championships when San Francisco was the leading fight center instead of second fiddle to Los Angeles on the Coast.

The match will be an eye-opener to the Los Angeles gentry, who have been talking open-air matches in the City of the Angels ever since the new boxing law went into effect.

There will be a bunch of the brothers on hand to see how it works out and how much money the promoters can make out of it. They are $18,000 to the bad before they open the gates, so the public response has to be rather large for them to make any money.

BOXING HEADS ON HAND

Jack Doyle and Wad Wadhams of the Vernon club will arrive on the Lark this morning along with Si Masters and Tom Kennedy of Hollywood. Others in the party who made up a special train of Angelenos are Jack Kearns, who is celebrated far and wide as the heavyweight champion's manager; Babe Cullen, Newark promoter, who is with the Mickey Walker party; Joe Degnan, Walker's financial manager; Jack Root, Solly Harris, Lonnie Austin, George Blake, Tommy Ryan, the former welterweight and middleweight champion; a flock of newspaper men and others.

Benjamin and Silver weigh in at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. They are required to scale not more than 138, which is not the championship weight, but both are under the mark, so neither will be bothered by taking off poundage.

Jimmy Dougherty, the "Baron of Leiperville," referee of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, will be the third man in the ring. There was some kick about his selection by the Silver crowd because of his closeness to Dempsey and the latter's friendship for Benjamin, but all this seems to have been ironed out to the satisfaction of all.

FAMOUS SPRINTER MISSING

Where is Loren Murchison?

Will he reach Los Angeles in time to run in the annual Southwestern A. A. U. relay carnival which will officially open the track and field season in the Los Angeles Coliseum next Saturday?

These are questions which are being asked today by officials of the meet on the one hand and by Charles W. Paddock on the other. The general public seconds the motion to have these questions answered.

Therefore Kinter Hamilton, the A. A. U. official who is in charge of Saturday's meet, has sent telegrams to numerous points throughout the Middle West in the hope of locating the New York sprinter who, it is hoped, will join with Paddock in a relay race that would be a feature of the afternoon's program.

Paddock says that the last he heard from Murchison the Olympic flyer was somewhere in Missouri and was looking favorably on the proposition of running here Saturday. For all anybody knows, Murchison may reach Los Angeles, Monday or Tuesday. Or he may not arrive until a few days before sailing with Paddock in that proposed trip around the world.

ANNUAL EVENT IS CALLED OFF

perpendicular track into the upper guard rail.

Wilkinson owes his life to the strength of that rail, which prevented him from crashing over the edge of the track to almost certain death. He hit the rail at a slight angle, tearing several feet of it away, and then his spinning rear wheels swung the car around, until itwas facing the lower side of the track. Fortunately, the rear wheels caught firmly in the wreckage of the guard rail, and held the car fast.

There Wilkinson dangled helplessly, literally on the brink of eternity, his smashed motor dripping castor oil, gasoline and water over the banked turn. The other drivers hurtled by within a few inches of the wrecked car, skidding slightly every time they passed over the greasy spot on the boards. After several minutes Wilkinson climbed back over his car, and reached the ground unhurt.

SKIDS ON OIL

Dr. Shattuc's smash-up was due to the oil which dripped from Wilkinson's motor. As he went into the turn on his fourteenth lap Shattuc's tires picked up the grease and caused his car to turn around, and he skidded sixty feet backward at 130 miles per hour. After a couple of spins his car lost its momentum, and came to a stop with a crash against the lower rail. Dr. Shattuc hopped out instantly, none the worse for wear, and considered his hair-raising escape from death a huge joke.

Immediately after the third crash Starter Fred Wagner flagged down the rest of the cars, it being planned to remove Wilkinson's mount from the track and then start the race once more. However, it proved considerable of a job to get the car down, and the greasy condition of the track, coupled with the fact that it was getting late, convinced the powers that be, that the sanest course of action was to postpone the race until next Sunday.

Ralph De Palma was leading when the twenty laps had been completed, having passed Earl Cooper just before receiving the signal to stop, while Pete De Paolo was in third place. The average for the twenty-five miles of the race was 128.5 miles per hour, in spite of the fact that over half of the distance was run with Wilkinson's car hanging dangerously from the rail, it being necessary for the drivers to slacken their speed every time they went into that turn.

At the start of the race, which was delayed while Phil Shafer and Reggie Johnson tried to start their motors, Harry Hartz jumped into the lead and held it until the sixteenth lap when he went into the pit for a tire change.

SAN GABRIEL WINS

Hitting strongly behind Reginald's pitching, the San Gabriel baseball team defeated Alhambra, 10 to 2, on the latter's field yesterday. Cioffe was hit freely by the victors.

Arthur D. Howden Smith

I was in the counting room, talking with Peter Corlaer, the chief of our fur traders, he was that very day come down river from the Iroquois country, when the boy, Darby, ran in from the street.

"The Bristol packet is in, Master Robert," he cried. "And oh, sir, the watermen do say there be a pirate ship off the Hook!"

I remember I laughed at the combination of awe and delight in his face. He was a raw, bog-trotting bit of a gossoon we had bought at the last landing of the bonded folk, and he talked with a brogue that thickened whenever he grew excited.

"For the packet, I do not doubt you, Darby," I answered. "But you must show me the pirate."

Peter Corlaer chuckled in his quiet, rumbling way, his huge belly waggling before him beneath his buckskin hunting-shirt, for all the world like a monster mold of jelly.

"Ja, ja, show us der pirates," he jeered.

Darby flared up in a burst of Irish temper, that matched his tangled red hair.

"I would I were a pirate and had you at my mercy, you butter-tub," he raged. "I'll warrant you'd tread the plank!"

Peter gravely unsheathed his hunting - knife, seized Darby's flaming locks and despite his wriggles went through the motions of scalping him.

"If I tread der plank, first I take your hair, ja," he commented.

"Not if I had my growth," snapped Darby.

"T'ree growths you must get to fight me, Darby," rejoined Peter placidly. "You better ask Mr. Ormerod dot he let you come with me into the Iroquois country. We make a forest-runner out of you—ja! Dot's better than a pirate."

Darby contemplated this, drawing a circle on the floor with the toe of one boot.

"No," he decided finally. "I'd rather be a pirate. I know nothing of your forest, but the sea—ah, that's the life for me! And, sure, a pirate has more of traveling and adventure than a forest-runner, with none but red savages and wild beasts to combat. No, no, Master Peter, I am for the pirates, and I care not how soon it may be."

"It will be long, not soon, Darby," said I. "Have you done the errands my father set you?"

"Every one," answered he.

"Very well. Then get you into the storeroom and sort over the pelts Peter fetched in. Even a pirate must work."

He flung off with a scowl as I turned to Peter.

"My father will wish to know the packet has arrived," I said. "Will you go with me to the Governor's? The Council must be on the point of breaking up, for they have been sitting since noon."

Peter heaved his enormous body erect. And I marveled, as always after a period of absence, at his proportions. To one who did not know him he seemed a butter-tub of a man, as Darby had called him—a mass of tallow, fat limbs, a pork-barrel of a trunk, a fat slab of a face upon which showed tiny, at variance with the rest of his insignificant features, grotesquely bulk. His little eyes peered innocently between rolls of fat which all but masked them. His nose was a miniature dab, above a mouth a child might have owned.

But under his layers of blubber were concealed muscles of forged steel, and he was capable of the agility of a catamount. The man had not lived on the frontier who could face him bare handed and escape.

"Ja," he said simply. "We go."

He stood his musket in a corner and slipped off powder horn and shot pouch the while I donned hat and greatcoat, for the air was still chilly and there was a scum of snow on the ground. We passed out into Pearl street and walked westward to Hanover Square, and there on the farther side of the square I spied my father, with Gov. Clinton and Lieut.-Gov. Colden.

And it made my heart warm to see how these and several other gentlemen hung upon his words. There had been those who slandered him during the uproar over the '45, for he was known to have been a Jacobite in his youth; but his friends were more powerful than his enemies, and I joy to think that he was not the least influential of those of our leaders who held New York loyal to King George when many were for casting in our fortunes with the Pretender.

He saw Peter and me as we approached and waved us to him, but at the same moment there was a slight disturbance on the eastward side of the Square, and another little group of men came into view surrounding a grizzled, ruddy-cheeked old fellow, whose salt-stained blue coat spoke as eloquently of the sea as did his rolling gait. I could hear his hoarse, roaring voice clear across the Square—

"— ran him tops'n down; — my eyes, I did; and when I get to port what do I find, but not a King's ship within—"

My father interrupted him:

"What's this, Capt. Farraday? Do you speak of being chased? I had thought we were at peace with the world."

Capt. Farraday discarded the listeners who had attended him so far and stumped across the Square, bellowing his answer in tones which brought shopkeepers to their doors and women's heads from upper windows.

"Chased? That I was, Master Ormerod, by as——, scoundrelly a pirate as flouts the King's majesty i' the——"

Here he perceived who accompanied my father. Off came his hat, and he made an awkward bow.

"Your sarvant, your Excellency! My duty, Master Colden! But I have no words to withdraw, for all I did not see who was near by to hear me. Aye, there is more to be said, much more; and matters have come to a pretty pass when the rascals come north to these ports."

Peter Corlaer and I joined the little group of merchants who were with the Governor, and the other curious persons hovered close as they dared.

"But I find this hard to give credence to, captain," said Gov. Clinton pleasantly enough. "Pirates? In these latitudes? We have not been bothered by such of late."

Capt. Farraday waggled his head stubbornly.

"That's true enough, I grant your Excellency; and since the peace we have not been bothered by French privateers, neither. But the day'll come we fight the French again, and then the letters of marque will be scouring the Atlantic north and south. And by the same token sir, I bid you remember the pirates are always with us, and clever devils they are, too; for if they find their trade falling off in one part they are away at once elsewhere. And the first you know of them is a score of missing ships and a mariner like myself lucky enough to give them the slip."

"You may be right," acknowledged the Governor. "Tell us more of your experience. Did you have sight of the ship which pursued you?"

"Sight? Marry, that I did; and uncomfortable close, your Excellency. She came up with a so'easter two days past, and at the first I made her out for a frigate by the tpo-hammer she carried."

"A frigate?" protested Master Colden, "so big as that?"

"Aye, sir, my master! And I have any eye for a ship's lines and canvas she was none other than the Royal James that chased me three days together when I was homebound from the West Indies in '43."

"That would be the vessel of the fellow known usually as Capt. Rip-Rap," spoke up my father, and there was a quality in his voice, which led me to regard him closely.

It was manifest that he labored in the grip of some strong emotion; but the only indication of this in his face was a slight rigidity of feature, and none of the others market it. I was more amazed because my father was a man of iron nerves, and also, though his earlier years had been starred with a series of extraordinary adventure, so far as I knew, he had had nothing to do with the sea.

"True for you, Master Ormerod," answered Capt. Farraday, "and since Henry Morgan died, there hath not lived a more complete rogue. One of my mates was taken by him off Jamaica ten years gone and cites him for a man of exquisite dress and manners that would befit a London macaroni. God save us! And, moreover, is as arrant a Jacobite as ever was. Witness the name of his ship."

"I have heard he sails usually in company," remarked my father.

"He works with John Flint, who is no less of a rascal, albeit rougher, according to those unfortunates who have fallen in his path. Flint sails in the Walrus, a tall ship out of Plymouth that was on the Smyrna run before she fell into his hands. Betwixt them they are a pretty pair.

"Did you ever hear, gentles, how they sank the Portuguese line-ship off Madeira for naught but the pleasure o' destruction? Aye, so they did. They ha' the metal to hammer a brace of King's ships. But they are wary of such.

"Portuguese, Frenchies, Spaniards or Barbary corsairs they will assail, but they will not stop for a powder-blow with His Majesty's people. Why? I know not, save 'tis never for lack o' daring. Mayhap they know if they ever did my Lords of the Admiralty, that take small account of the sufferings of us poor merchantmen—always saving your Excellency's presence—would be stirred to loose a fleet of stout frigates against 'em."

Capt. Farraday stopped perforce for breath, and Gov. Clinton seized the opportunity to ask, with a smile:

"Capt. Rip-Rap did you call your pursuer? What manner of name is this?"

The merchantman shrugged his shoulders.

"Nobody knows, sir. But 'tis the only name he goes by. I ha' heard that years past—oh, it may be twenty or more—he stopped a home-bound Chesapeake packet, and when the master was haled aboard the first question he asked was 'did he have any rip-rap in his cargo?' For it seems he is singularly partial to that mixture of snuff. And now, I ha' been told, his own men give him this name, for even they do not know for certain that to which he was born.

"'Tis said he was a gentleman who suffered for his political convictions, but that is as like to be a lie as the truth. All I know is that he chased me in past the Hook, though the Anne showed him a clean pair o' heels and had run him tops'ls down wi' sunrise this morning. And when I made the harbor, 'twas to find there was not a King's ship to send after him."

"Yes," nodded the Governor, "the Thetis frigate sailed for home with dispatches a week ago. But I will send express to Boston where Commodore Burrage lies and bid him get to sea without loss of time. I sympathize with your feelings, Master Farraday, and certes, 'tis beyond toleration that such scoundrels as Rip-Rap and Flint should be permitted to flout His Majesty's government so openly. Doubt not, our good commodore will make them rue the day."

"But doubt it I must, your Excellency," returned Capt. Farraday, with sturdy independence. "An express to Boston, say you? Humph! That will require two days or three. Another day to put to sea. Two days, or it may be tree, to beat south. Why, my masters, in a week's time Rip-Rap and Flint will have wrought whatever fiendish purpose they have in view and be off beyond reach."

"Mayhap, mayhap," said the Governor, with a touch of impatience. "But 'tis the best I can do."

And with Lieut.-Gov. Colden and the rest he made to move off. Only my father lingered.

"You have letters for me, Capt. Farraday?" he asked.

"Aye, indeed, sir—from Master Allen, your agent, in London. I was on my way to deliver 'em. And a goodly store of strouds, axes, knives, beads, tools, flints, and other tradegoods to your account."

"I will accept the letters at your hands, and even save you the trip to Pearl street, captain," replied my father. "My son, Robert, here, will visit you abroadship in the morning and take measures arrange trans-shipping your cargo."

LOCAL LAUGHS

Each week The Times produces a film entitled "Local Laughs," consisting of the fifteen best jokes submitted by local people. Weekly prizes are paid of $5, $3, $2, and twelve of $1 each. A list of theaters showing the film, together with rules for submitting jokes are given daily in a coupon in The Times. Prize-winning jokes, and names and addresses of winners, appear only on the screen. Jokes receiving honorable mention will be given a place of honor on The Times comic page each week-day, and each of these contributors will receive a souvenir of acknowledgment.

NEW METHOD OF FIGHTING FROST

Riverside Man Tells Theory of Orchard Heating

Would Create Canopy of Steam Vapor

Increase Safety at Reduced Cost, is Claim

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 22.—A new system of orchard heating, which, according to its inventor, S. R. Mitchell, chief chemist of the Riverside Portland Cement Company, will cut the fuel bill and number of smudge pots in half, has been outlined to members of the citrus committee of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce, it was reported today.

When the necessary mechanical devices have been manufactured Mitchell will give a demonstration of his idea for the benefit of Riverside citrus growers. The date of this demonstration is to be announced by Chairman D. S. Bell.

Smudge pots and fuel oil have been offered Mitchell by H. A. Lynn, manager of the Riverside-Arlington Heights Fruit Exchange. The plan is one of heat conservation by the use of applied physics founded on the idea that the vaporizing of water into steam gives off much heat and that this heat will form a blanket of moist air.

In execution of this idea as applied to orchard heating, Mitchell has provided a plan for better distribution of the heat below the apparatus. His apparatus consists of a tripod, upon which a water drip container is suspended above the heater. A metal disc is affixed to the tripod just above the flames from the orchard heater.

The water dripping on this disc is turned into steam by the heater, forming a blanket of steam-heated air over the orchard. The heat from the smudge pot is distributed more evenly through the lower part of the orchard by the discs, according to Mitchell's theory.

Mitchell has been working on the plan for more than a year, he said, and the idea is already in the hands of his patent attorney. The cost of such apparatus would be about $2 above the cost of each smudge pot, Mitchell said, but this additional expense would be more than offset by the fewer orchard heaters needed and the saving in fuel, he declared.

The water pots would be of sufficient size to carry out the plan without filling until the smudge pot was refilled. The plan is still more or less in the theoretic stage, the inventor asserted, but declared he would start construction of his apparatus for the experiments at once.

DEPUTY OBJECTS TO SHOTS FROM AMBUSH

RIVERSIDE COUNTY OFFICER OFFERS REWARD FOR SNIPER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 22.—While Sheriff's officers are frequently called upon to face a loaded revolver in the hands of a would-be bad man and are sometimes forced to stake their own lives upon their own marksmanship and coolheadedness while bullets from their opponent whistle around them, it nevertheless made Deputy R. P. Brooks of Blythe "kinda peeved" yesterday when an unknown assailant fired on him from ambush.

At least, such would be surmised from a telegram received today from the Blythe deputy by Sheriff Clem A. Sweeters in which Brooks offered an even $100 to the officer who could find the would-be assassin.

Details of what apparently was a one-sided shooting affray in which the officer played the part of target were for the most part lacking. However, Brooks declared that he was fired upon from ambush by an unidentified man about 22 years old, weight about 155, brown hair, gray eyes and a fair complexion, who wore striped overalls, a white shirt and gray cap. Brooks said the man was going toward Riverside.

PLANNER FROWNS UPON SKYSCRAPERS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Feb. 22.—Notwithstanding pleas for skyscrapers in Inglewood due to the coming number of big department stores and hotels, this city is still to be out in "the great open spaces," if G. Gordon Whitnell of the Los Angeles City Planning Commission, is to be heeded.

Addressing the Inglewood zoning body last evening at a City Hall meeting, the city-planning authority frowned upon height-limit buildings, declaring that they would only retard development of the outlying sections, but also increase the water rates and taxes because of the increased water pressure that would be necessary to protect them from fire.

VAN NUYS TO BE HOST TO KIWANIS GOVERNOR

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, Feb. 22.—The Woman's clubhouse tomorrow night will be taxed to capacity at the entertainment and dinner to be given by Zone No. 3 of Kiwanis clubs in honor of Abe Leach, Kiwanian governor of the California-Nevada district of Kiwanis International. The Van Nuys Kiwanis Club will act as host. About 300 members and guests will be present. Leach resides at Oakland. He will make an address on present-day civic problems and the spirit necessary to solve them. George E. Hume, Van Nuys district trustee, and Walter Mendenhall, president of the local club, will preside over the different sessions tomorrow night.

DEDICATE NEW CHURCH

Swedish Congregation Takes Possession of Edifice at Pasadena

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Feb. 22.—Another of Pasadena's beautiful churches was dedicated this afternoon in the presence of approximately 500 persons. Today the Trinity Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Church on East Orange Grove and Madison avenue was dedicated with formal services in charge of Rev. G. W. Henry, pastor.

The principal speaker of the day was Rev. Martin A. Odell, president of the California Conference. Rev. Odell was assisted by pastors of this district, Rev. A. P. G. Anderson, vice-president of the conference; W. H. Derr, pastor of the English Lutheran Church, and Rev. W. J. Maakestad, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran Church.

Greetings were extended to the church congregation by Rev. C. W. Berguist, pastor of the Swedish Methodist Church; Rev. J. A. Carlson, pastor of the Swedish Baptist Church, and Rev. A. J. Sporrong, Swedish Mission Church.

Although the Trinity Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Church is one of Pasadena's smaller edifices, it is considered one of the most beautiful. The congregation is small and the erection of the new building at a cost of $50,000 represents the combined efforts of the pastor and every member of the congregation.

The new church is of Gothic architecture and has a seating capacity of 500. Besides the main auditorium, there is a balcony, a mothers' room, a sacristy, choir room, committee-room, organ-room and a choir loft. The altar, pulpit and chancel are built of white and gold woodwork and the interior of the church is of golden oak. Beautiful art glass windows and a modern gas furnace are features of the building.

Special dedication services were held for the Moller pipe organ donated to the church by Andrew F. Peterson of Santa Monica. It is a memorial to Mr. Peterson's wife. Rev. Anderson made the dedication address for the organ, altar and pulpit. Musical numbers were rendered by Prof. E. J. Marzh. Mrs. Marzh was the soloist.

The church was founded eleven years ago and in 1921 a parsonage was erected at a cost of $7000. Year by year the congregation grew and the present site was purchased in 1923.

Today's services culminated a series of prededication festivities which started Thursday night and were held every day.

PAPER SALE PUTS THREE IN JAIL CELL

Long Beach Police Get Complaints Against Sale of Los Angeles Sheet

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Feb. 22.—Charged with maintaining a public nuisance by offering for sale a newspaper which police characterized as obscene and lascivious, a man and two newsboys were arrested last night in Long Beach and 200 copies of the publication confiscated.

The newspaper, purporting to be published in Los Angeles at 354 Wilcox Building, Harry Stedman, editor, carries the name of the Los Angeles Sun.

Detective Lieutenant Dovey arrested Joseph Martin, 18 years of age, and Tom Smith, 20, for selling the paper on the streets following complaints by citizens. Later Joseph Gunderlock, 36, of 1363 Alamitos avenue, Long Beach, appeared at the police station and asked for the release of the boys. He said he was circulation manager for the paper in Long Beach. Lieut. Dovey locked him up despite his assertions that he had conferred with the City Attorney today and had been told there was no restriction to the sale of the publication.

Police said that the paper made its appearance in Long Beach some months ago and was barred from the streets. Today is the first time attempts have been made to distribute it since that time.

HOLTVILLE HEN WINS HONOR FOR TOWN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HOLTVILLE, Feb. 22.—Frequently in the past few years Holtville has been brought into the public eye through the production in this district of the best crops, or the ownership by one of her citizens of the Holstein producing the most butterfat, or possibly because of unique civic activities. Now comes Holtville with her latest claim to distinction—the largest egg ever delivered by a Leghorn hen in Imperial county, bar none.

M. M. Sweeney of Alamitos, a suburb of Holtville, is the proud owner of this hen and vouches for the size of the egg, which he says was six and one-quarter inches in circumference and eight and one-half inches around it lengthwise. As if that were not enough for one day, Sweeney exhibited an egg laid by a Rhode Island red hen. The egg was so small it could easily pass for the product of a wren.

MAN HURT WHEN TRAIN SIDESWIPES HIS TRUCK

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, Feb. 22.—Arthur Fixmer was injured yesterday when a truck he was driving was sideswiped by a Southern Pacific train. Fixmer was thrown to the ground. He fractured one hand, and suffered bruises on the body. According to the valley police, Fixmer was driving his truck at Pacoima avenue and the railroad tracks. He saw the train approaching and stopped. In some manner his truck was too near the train as it sped by and it was given a side-long blow. The truck spun around, throwing Fixmer out.

INDORSE COMPACT

Imperial Valley In Favor of Irrigation Plan

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, Feb. 22.—Directors of Imperial Irrigation District have indorsed the six-State compact in connection with the Colorado River project. The compact was recently approved by the Colorado Legislature.

Irrigation district directors plan to urge the adoption by the California Legislature of a bill similar to that adopted by the Colorado Legislature. A rough draft of the bill has been prepared by the directors and it will be forwarded to the Legislature in the hope of obtaining immediate action. The Southern California delegation is asserted to favor such a bill, the subject having been considered at a meeting this week at Riverside attended by several Assemblymen.

HIGH SCHOOL HOLDS HOMECOMING DAY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Feb. 22.—Washington's Birthday and the annual Home-Coming Day of Inglewood Union High School alumni will be celebrated here at the same time tomorrow with an all-day program at the school, it is announced by Harold Hukill of this city, president of the alumni. In addition to a noon luncheon, a baby show in the afternoon, a banquet in the evening, and class meetings, the Mask and Sandal Club, an alumni dramatic organization, will present the play "For Distinguished Service."

CHANGES IN WATER BILL CONSIDERED

Aqueduct Body Takes Up Proposed Amendments to Swing-Johnson Measure

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, Feb. 22.—Discussion of proposed amendments to the Swing-Johnson bill, Senate Bill 178, as introduced in the State Legislature, a measure which would provide for the organization of a metropolitan water district for the purpose of bringing water to Southern California for domestic purposes, occupied the attention of delegates at the closing session here yesterday of the meeting of the Colorado River Aqueduct Association of Southern California.

At the morning session a permanent organization was formed with the election of Mayor Hiram W. Wadsworth of Pasadena, president; Mayor Grant Holcomb of San Bernardino, vice-president, and Col. S. H. Finley, member of the Orange County Board of Supervisors, secretary-treasurer.

The meeting was attended by representatives of practically every municipality in the counties of Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange.

The annual meeting will be conducted September 17, next, at a time and place to be settled later.

A committee was named to take up the proposed amendments to Senate Bill 178, and to report at the next meeting upon the advisability of their adoption. One of these amendments would allow cities or other governmental bodies authorized to supply water for domestic purposes to come into the metropolitan water area by a two-thirds vote of the people of the district. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion among the delegates that only a straight majority would be advisable as a few voters in a district favorable to coming into the area might prevent entrance because of the majority rule. Inasmuch as the success of the project was held to depend upon the construction of a high dam across the Colorado River, the delegates indorsed the Swing-Johnson bill now in Congress and urged its early passage.

The work of the association is to be supported by voluntary subscriptions. Member cities are expected to contribute to the expenses of the work in proportion to population.

Letter Reflects True Spirit of Early Patriots

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 22.—The discovery of a letter written by one of Washington's comrades at Valley Forge today marked the anniversary celebration here and threw more light on the patriotism of the Continental Army. The letter, written by Col. Sam Carlton to his daughter, is now in the possession of his great-great-granddaughter, Mrs. Thomas M. Dillingham of Santa Barbara. This letter follows:

Camp Valley Forge, March 21, 1778.

Dear Child: With pleasure I received yours of the 14th instant by Mr. Harris, who informs me the family was well, which I rejoice to hear. You make mention of hard times. Don't let that expression roll over the tongue or come from the point of the pen of a daughter of a patriot, while I have the honor to wear that character.

Hard times? Hard times? No, there is no such thing. What! When the Goddess Liberty (who knows the sweet of that unparalleled jewel) in affording of us all here assistance and therefore must enjoin it upon you not to even think anything hard or insurmountable.

For if my old worn-out life should go a sacrifice—and go when it will it shall go a willing one—if we can but obtain that precious jewel. In haste.

Your affectionate father,

SAM CARLTON

Mutual Distributors Take Sweepstakes

Attendance Sunday Makes New Record

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 22.—Approximately 50,000 persons thronged the fifteenth National Orange Show Building today. From early in the day until the lights were turned off at night, the thousands pushed their way through the turnstiles to the golden spectacle, a happy free crowd bent on seeing the greatest exposition in the history of the National Orange Show.

All highways leading into San Bernardino were crowded throughout the day, interurban cars brought many and thousands of home folks were in the throngs of visitors.

It was a typical Sunday crowd. The usual vaudeville program was suspended. The Santa Monica Municipal Band played a sacred concert. The Elks' chanters of the San Diego lodge of Elks, sang hymns.

Orange show officials predicted equally as large an attendance tomorrow, Washington's Birthday. No difficulties in handling the traffic were reported, and no accidents occurred. It was one of the big days in the orange show history.

Awards for growers and associations exhibiting California's choicest citrus fruits were announced today, the Mutual Orange Distributors, Inc., of Redlands and Riverside county taking the principal prizes.

The Mutual Orange Distributors won the coveted Washington navels grand sweepstakes award with fruit entered from the Redlands district and the same association was awarded second honors with fruit from the West Highland country. McDermott & Wall of Riverside won third place with fruit packed by the American Fruit Growers' Association. In the last three years, this fruit had won the sweepstakes.

J. H. Furlow of Highgrove won the growers' sweepstakes, Allen Break of Byrn Mawr, second, with a M.O.D. entry, and S. R. Marven of Riverside took the third prize in this classification.

The Lindsay Farm Bureau Fruit Association won the grand lemon sweepstakes, with the Etiwanda Citrus Fruit Association second and the Corona Foothill Lemon Company third honors. R. Grey Whitney of Coachella Valley won the grapefruit sweepstakes; the American Fruit Growers' Association of Riverside was second; the L. V. W. Brown estate of Highgrove, third.

The awards for feature displays in the exposition were announced Saturday, Fresno county winning the grand sweepstakes; San Diego county second and Los Angeles country third. The Lindsay Farm Bureau Fruit Association won the first award in the Associated Chambers of Commerce and Fruit Association class. The Riverside Chamber of Commerce won in the mechanical-action class; Ontario-Upland, second; Pomona, third, and Hemet-San Jacinto fourth.

BANDIT'S BULLET IS FATAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Feb. 22.—Sam Tooroojian, 45 years of age, a grocer, died early today from a bullet wound in the abdomen, inflicted by a bandit late last night when hooroojian rewused to hold up his hands at the bandit's command. The man entered the store and requested a loaf of bread; when Torroojian turned to face his customer after obtaining the bread he looked into the muzzle of a large automatic pistol and heard the bandit's command to "stick them up."

Tooroojian refused and assumed a belligerent attitude, but before he could grapple with the bandit across the counter, the latter fired one shot. Tooroojian fell, mortally wounded, and died about five hours later. The slayer, and a companion who waited outside, escaped, leaving no trace on which the police may work.

Inglewood Organized to Put Big Issue Over

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

INGLEWOOD, Feb. 22.—Every civic organization in Inglewood has not only gone on record in resolutions favoring the $2,000,000 sewer bond issue to be voted upon Tuesday, but there is not a single organization that has not pledged a goodly part of its membership to personal work on election day, it was stated here tonight by Harvey D. Mosely, chairman of the local sanitation committee.

With more than 200 cars and drivers pledged for duty Tuesday, Inglewood is ready to go to the assistance of other towns in County Sanitation District No. 5, where the sentiment is not so overwhelming in favor of this momentous issue.

A whirlwind finish will be given the campaign tomorrow evening when the Inglewood Municipal Band, is charge of the campaign leader, Harry Amend, will tour the entire district.

A. K. Warren, County Sanitation Engineer, who has mapped out the entire plan for a giant outfall sewer, the cost to be born jointly by several districts, in his final appearance here last night, was optimistic about the outlook for the success of Tuesday's election, particularly so because of the enthusiastic support of Inglewood organizations.

STAND CORRECTED

Newspaper Man Wins Prize as Largest Long-Distance Listener-In

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Feb. 22.—The Pasadena Realty Board stands corrected. And a newspaper man from a small town in Kansas is responsible.

S. H. Jones is a reporter on the Lyons Daily News, a paper published in Lyons, Kan. Mr. Jones wrote to inform the Pasadena real estate men that Lyons city is farther away from Pasadena than Bird City, Kan. In fact its exactly 225 miles more distant.

While broadcasting a radio program recently the Pasadena realtors offered boxes of Southern California candy fruit to the twenty-five most distant listeners in. It seems that some one in Bird City got a box and Mr. Jones in Lyons City didn't. So he wrote to inform the Pasadenans their measuring was poor. In his letter Mr. Jones says:

"I had vision of feasting upon luscious fruit such as only California can produce but upon scanning the names of the winning persons I failed to find my own. Just then I spied the name C. R. Hawk, Bird City, Kan.

"Now here was the first and only opportunity I found to criticise Pasadena real estate men. A dusty old map in the office discloses that Bird City is just 975 miles from Pasadena, while I sit here in the middle of Kansas, in Lyons, the salt center of the universe, just 1100 miles away.

"Which one of your gentlemen let the ruler slip? If this Bird City gentleman is suffering from scurvy and needs the fruits of California's golden sunshine, alright. Otherwise I am going to maintain those beautiful visions until I'm told that Bird City has been moved from Cheyenne county over the Wyandotte."

Nervy Thief Assaults Man; Makes Escape

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, Feb. 22.—When a perfect stranger steals your car and then hits you in the eye, sending you to the hospital when you try to call his attention to his error, it is going too far.

So thinks Ralph A. Ruebel, local electrician, who is today nursing a badly bruised eye and a deep gash on the side of his head as the result of his encounter with an unidentified man late last night.

Ruebel had parked his car near Fourth and Main. He returned in an hour to find it gone. Resolving to be his own detective, Ruebel spread a one-man dragnet over the district and a half hour later was rewarded by hearing the sound of a familiar starter across the street.

Running to the car, which he saw was his, just as it was being backed away from the curb, Ruebel politely asked the stranger at the wheel whether he had not taken the wrong car. At the same time, Ruebel says, he reached for the driver to pull him from the machine.

When Ruebel woke up he was at the Alhambra Hospital and several stitches had been taken in a cut on his head. One eye was almost closed. In the meantime, the police had been notified, recovered Ruebel's car, but could find no trace of the thief. In the car was found a large assortment of groceries. These were later found to have been stolen from another car by the man who took Ruebel's car and who, the latter believes, must have been a prize fighter.

Franklin High Girls Appear at Annual Concert

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CLAREMONT, Feb. 22.—The Franklin High School Girls' Glee Club of Los Angeles, under the direction of Ida Rankin, will have a prominent part in the public concert of the State Conference of Music Supervisors and Teachers, which will be held in Claremont the 26th, 27th and 28th inst.

The annual concert will be given in Bridges Hall of Music at 8 o'clock Friday evening. The program, of wide variety and great interest, includes, besides the representatives of Franklin High School, choruses by the Pomona College choir of 137 voices, and the Herod Overture, by Hadley, and Capriccio Italienne by Tschaikowsky, given by the San Diego High School Orchestra of sixty-eight pieces under the leadership of Nino Marcelli, director. In addition there will be solos by Ralph R. Uniacke, professor of violin, Pomona College, who will play the Andante from "Symphonie Espagnole," Lado, and Prof. William B. Olds of the University of Redlands, who will sing some of his charming bird songs composed on themes of actual bird melodies set to appropriate words and accompaniment.

OPEN GATES FOR MEXICAN FIESTA

VISITORS MAY RETURN AFTER CELEBRATION TO BE HELD AT MEXICALI

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CALEXICO, Feb. 22.—Reversing his previously announced decision refusing to permit the international gate to be opened later than 9 o'clock p.m. during the Mexicali pre-Lenten fiesta, McKenzie Moss, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, has wired customs officials to permit the gate to be opened for ten minutes at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning. This action will also be permitted Wednesday morning. There is to be no special opening of the gate Tuesday morning.

The new order is asserted to have resulted from the filing of a strong protest by the committee in charge of the celebration. Several hundred Mexican residents of Calexico are desirous of attending the fiesta which opened today. The order from Treasury Department will also allow Americans to return late from the dances that will be part of the three-day program.

Festivities will open with an assembly of chevaliers at the I.O.O.F. Hall at 10:30 a.m., while at 11 a.m. military school will be conducted at the same place. Following serving of lunch at the Methodist Church parlors, a street parade in uniform, headed by the Exeter band, will be held.

WALNUT GROWERS MEET IN EL MONTE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

EL MONTE, Feb. 22.—More than 400 walnut growers, representing five southern counties, attended the seventh annual Walnut Growers' Institute which convened Saturday morning in the El Monte High School Auditorium.

T. M. Lambert, local grower, presided over the meeting, which was held under the auspices of the Southern California Farm Bureau's agricultural and extension services.

Mayor C. S. Ranger's address of welcome was followed by a discussion of the "Recent Development in Dehydration," by Prof. A. W. Christie, College of Agriculture, and an address on the "Present Status of the Codlin Moth in Los Angeles County," by K. L. Wolff, deputy horticultural commissioner of Los Angeles county.

After luncheon, Knowles Ryerson county farm advisor, talked on "A Study in Individual Tree Performance and Its Relation to Orchard Efficiency." "Some Observations on the New Crop Estimating System and Suggested Improvements," was discussed by a representative of the California Walnut Growers' Association.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analyses will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Aragonite

BEATTY (Nev.) Feb. 1.—Question: Under separate cover I am sending a sample of white material. It is gypsum, or what it is?

Mrs. O.

Answer: The specimen is not gypsum. It is one of the lime carbonates. It yields to the knife and scratches crystalized calcite easily. Thin chips of the mineral decripitate in the flame of a candle; it is soluble in acids and paper dipped in the acid solution burns with a purple flame. The sample contains a low percentage of strontium with a trace of lead.

Not Ruby Silver

WHIPPLE (Ariz.) Feb. 1.—Q.: Will you please inform me if the samples contain any vanadium, uranium, cobalt, nickel, titanium, or chromium. I would like to have some idea what this mineral consists of before having assays made. This ore occurs about sixteen miles from Seligman, Ariz. We have eight claims in our group, and the samples were taken at a depth of ten feet.

L.

Platinum Absent

C.

Galenite Chiefly

DEATH VALLEY JUNCTION, Feb. 3.—Q.: Would appreciate your classification of the lead sample. I am an interested reader of your great Monday column. The sample is from near the Little Johnnie Mine, Death Valley, Nev.

A.

A.: The column referred to is not "Great," but it is sincerely hoped for that the "stuff" published therein is of some service to correspondents.

The specimen is a handsome one. With galenite, there is a little cerussite (lead carbonate,) and "Blue lead" of the Cornish miners shows up in traces. Traces of Indigo copper (Covellite) are sparingly present, with iridescent colors of chalcopyrite and "peacock iron." Not tested for silver.

Four Samples

PARKER (Ariz.) Feb. 3.—Q.: Please test samples for lead, zinc, and other matter. The specimens come from Monumental mining district, San Bernardino county California.

H.

A.: Sample No. 1 is on the order of No. 4 with some brownish zinc carbonate. No. 2 is a yellowish calcite; slight lead-zinc traces found. No. 3 is impure lime carbonate; a little gypsum, iron sulphate, and zinc traces. No. 4 contains lime and zinc carbonates: zinc reaction in low percentage; lead a trace. One chip of the fifteen other No. 4 specimens is zinc carbonate. No sample tested for arsenic.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—Q.: Under separate cover, registered, find another sample.

S.

A.: The rocks are impure quartz. The milk white specimen is limonite altered from pyrite. The other sample shows limonite (hydrous iron peroxide) colored red by clay mixtures.

Platinum Absent

ELSINORE, Feb. 4.—Q.: I hope this sample will be able to stand in the platinum group, and if you will classify it, I shall always feel indebted to you.

Your friend, W.

A.: The three samples were very carefully tested for platinum with negative results. The large specimen is in part dolomite with coating of calcite. Hornblende and iron oxides present.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of mineral. Please state if it represents any commercial values.

O. C. K.

A.: The specimen is altered rock showing epidote, mica, and pyrite traces. The pyrite somewhat resembles gold, and the mica is of golden hue. Such mica is known as "Cat gold."

Not Diatomaceous

PASO ROBLES, Feb. 5.—Q.: I have quite a deposit of the white granular matter. What is it? What is it used for, and what about markets for it?

F.

A.: If the white sand (quartz) contained a greater per cent of aluminum silicate it would then be Tripoli (olden-time polishing powder.) The specimen is fine-grained, milk white silica, and it is a doubtful moulding sand. Sales of such silica would be very low in prices.

Siliceous Rock

LANFAIR, Feb. 6.—Q.: Please name the sample for me. What does it carry?

G.

Free Gold Absent

CAJON, Feb. 6.—Q.: Is there any free gold in this sample?

E.

A.: The specimen is a mixture of sandstone and magnesium silicate, and it carries microscopic pyrite in traces only.

Two Samples

PALA, Feb. 6.—Q.: Please test the specimens and state what they consist of.

M.

A.: Sample No. 1 is Hornblende. No. 2 is a mixture of quartz with white crystals of calcite (lime carbonate;) iron oxides, altered epidote, copper carbonate, iron and copper sulphides, and copper silicate more or less present. Copper in this specimen is approximately 7.50 per cent. Free gold absent. Not tested for silver.

Copper Traces

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Q.: Please test for copper. Does the sample contain other values? Found within twenty miles of Los Angeles, Los Angeles county.

C. D.

A.: The sample is of greenish iron silicate, microscopic pyrite present in very low percentage. Iron sulphate traces, and magnetite found. Free gold absent.

Silicate and Carbonate

TECOPA, Feb. 7.—Q.: I am sending you two samples for analysis. Please analyze them and oblige.

L.

Altered Rock

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Q.: Analyze for vanadium, uranium, and gold.

P. P.

A.: The rock is chiefly a talcose-magnesium silicate and contains no element of commercial value.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Q.: For iron and gold.

P. C. S.

Arsenical Ores

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Q.: Please give quantitative analyses of samples found in Riverside county—especially for arsenic.

B.

A.: Quantitative analyses not made unless on ores and minerals of more than ordinary interest. The four samples tested together show arsenic present in greater or lesser percentage, and consisting of mispickel, pharmacosiderite, microscopic pyrite (iron disulphide;) iron oxides, realgar, and orpiment traces.

Iron Peroxides

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Q.: Qualitative analysis.

F. A. G.

KERN LEADS IN NEW OIL WELLS

Much Activity is Shown in Coalinga District

Tests for Water Shutoffs Forecast Completions

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 22.—Although only 122 new oil wells were started in California this year, as against 219 for the same period last year, Kern county claims a greater margin of increase than any other part of the State in new development work, its share for the first month and a half in 1925 being forty-one new holes started.

Last week the State bureau reported but five new wells in the San Joaquin Valley. Two are in the Midway field, the No. 1 hole of the Petroleum Midway Company, and the Manley & McGinn No. 11 on Sections 34, 32-24 and 15, 31-22, respectively.

In the Sunset field the General Petroleum Corporation has started its No. 59-A well on Section 12, 22-24.

The Marland Oil Company has started its No. 12 well on the Cauley lease in the western extension of the Kern River field where it has been successful in locating a newa nd lucrative oil sand.

The Pacific Oil Company has spudded in its No. 107 hole in the Coalinga district on Section 25, 20-15. Other development work now going on at Coalinga includes the testing of the Alta Vista Oil Company's No. 3 on Section 6, 21-25, as well as the deepening and redrilling of the Salvia Oil Company, No. 6 on Section 14, 20-14; the York Coalinga Oil Company No. 4, Section 6, 20-15, and the Conference Oil Company No. 9 on Section 31, 19-15.

The Standard Oil Company is redrilling its No. 1 well in the Midway district on Section 36, 31-23, on what is known as the McNee lease. Similar work is being carried out by the same company in the Elk Hills on its Carman lease, Section 36, 30-23, the well being No. 9.

The Barnsdall Oil Company is going after more production by repairing its No. 11 well on Section 14, 31-22 in the Midway.

Tests for water shutoff made during the past week forecast the completion of at least six new wells here within a few weeks. Three of these wells are located in the Midway district and are the North American Oil Consolidated No. 16 on Section 30, 31-24; Formax Oil Company, No. 7-A on Section 36, 32-23 and the Midland Oilfields Company No. 14 on Section 24, 31-23.

On its Kern County Land Company lease No. 2 in the Wheeler Ridge field, the Standard Oil Company has made a successful water shutoff test in its No. 13 well.

The Pacific Oil Company has just completed testing its No. 89 hole on Section 35, 30-24 in the Elk Hills, as has also the Universal Consolidated Oil Company, in its No. 44 well in the Lost Hills on Section 32, 26-21.

Blast of Fifty Tons to be Fired by United Verde

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

JEROME (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—Preparations are being made in the big open cut of the United Verde for a blast of 100,000 pounds of black powder, which is expected to loosen at least 200,000 yards of rock. The explosive will be placed in six pockets, thirty feet apart, in a cross-cut from a ninety-foot tunnel. The last blast, a few days ago, was of 35,000 pounds of dynamite.

W. A. Clark, III, grandson of President W. A. Clark of the United Verde Company, has been added to the executive staff at the mine. He is a recent graduate of Columbia University. In company with several officials of the company, he has been making an inspection trip through a number of the larger mines of Central and Southern Arizona. I. D. Bogan of Los Angeles, a former Arizonan, is a member of the party.

United Eastern Begins Mining Arizona Copper

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MAYER (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—The United Eastern Mining Company, leaving its mining of high-grade gold ores at Oatman, is starting to enter the low-grade porphyry copper field. The location of its new venture is four miles east of Mayer, on the Barbara Mountain property, which covers an area on which are many croppings of black Yavapai schist, a part of a belt that appears to stretch most of the way from Jerome down to the Kay property on the Lower Agua Fria River.

Five separate expert examinations are said to have favored the purchase. Surface equipment is to be shipped at once from Oatman for the driving of a 500-foot, three-compartment shaft. The Barbara company was organized by George Albert S. Konselman. All the outstanding stock is said to be held by Konselman and United Eastern interests, and all treasury stock is optioned to the latter. One stock issue of 50,000 shares has been authorized by the Arizona Corporation Commission.

NEW HACHITA MILL FOR AMERICAN MINES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DRILLERS AWAITING SPRING

Rapid Development of Oil Structures in New Mexico Field Is Predicted

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ARTESIA (N. M.) Feb. 22.—Rapid development of oil structures in this vicinity is expected to take place early this spring. The drill first started in search of oil here two years ago, and since then it has found two fields, lying five miles apart. Today there are twelve small wells on the production list, and one well yielding 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

The latest completions are the Keys No. 1 and the Rotary No. 1, both in the proved area and north of the discovery well.

With the recent completion of the New State's No. 1, five miles to the north, and the finding of a shallow sand in the California No. 1, five miles to the east, the Artesia pool appears to be covering a wide strip of territory.

The California Well, according to A. R. Goodale, will be "shot in" within the next few days. Storage is now being erected on the lease. The oil found in this test is 40 degrees gravity, while that of the present producing fields is 37.5 degrees gravity. The majority of production is coming from the 2000-foot sand.

The twin Lakes No. 2 continues to be the best well in the field, gauging 400 barrels daily. As a result of recent completions, storage is taxed to capacity. The Twin Lakes Company has stored 6200 barrels from two producers. The Gilliland Oil Company has announced that work will be rushed on its pipe line to Globe. The field material is now en route from the mills.

Acreage continues to change hands, with the large producers doing most of the buying. This includes both five and ten-year State leases in addition to drilling contracts on government permits. The latter now seem to be in demand, due to the liberal terms given by the Department of the Interior, the chief features of which are the time allowances and the royalty clause.

The principal companies now operating in this section are the Twin Lakes Oil Company, Flynn, Welch and Yates, the Marland Oil Company, Midwest, Texas, Standard of California, Arnott & Gross of Los Angeles, Burgess & Goodale, Gilliland Oil Company, D. C. Cheesman of Shreveport, the Roxana, and a number of large independents. High gravity oil, a thick sand at 2000 feet, absence of water, low cost of operations and liberal contracts are the chief attractions of the field.

New Owners to Rejuvenate Old El Sueno Mine

The El Sueno, an old mine in Lower California, eighteen miles southeast of Tia Juana, was recently taken over by H. A. Morse of San Francisco for himself and his associates.

This mine was a producer of note up to 1905, when it was closed down. It had a production record of approximately 150,000 tons of ore of commercial value, and it is stated that a large tonnage of good milling ore is now blocked out in the mine workings, averaging $30 per ton in value, while approximately 80,000 tons of $25 ore is on the dump ready for mill treatment.

The new management, it is reported, will equip the property with new hoisting works, air compressor and drills.

It is asserted that the mine was acquired by men of international reputation and that the property is to be extensively developed and equipped. Hugh T. Duff of Glendora was formerly its owner.

Rich Strike of Gold Found in Oatman Mine

W. H. Wise of Los Angeles, an official of the Gold Dust Mining Company, operating at Oatman, has returned from a visit to the mine in which, it is stated, a rich and most important gold strike was made a few days ago.

The strike was made in the cross-cut being run from the 300-foot level for the purpose of developing the downward trend of the same ore body exposed in the cross-cut from the 200-foot level. On the 200 a fine body of commercial ore was uncovered, which has been drifted on both ways from the cross-cut with satisfactory results.

DRILLING IS RESUMED

Murray A Well is Baled Dry; Pioneer Hole Idle

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TERRA BELLA, Feb. 22.—The Holly Development Company's south well at Lois, three miles north of here, known as Murray A, was baled dry at a depth of 1059 feet, after a successful water shut-off, and drilling has been resumed at a depth of 1095 feet. It is reported that another good showing of oil sand was found at the 1086-foot level.

The Pioneer hole on the Faure property is idle, waiting for cement to set before making a water test. The hole is down 938 feet. The Andrews hole on the Hastings property at Terra Bella is down 778 feet. A small oil showing was recently found. The Hub Oil Company is said to have passed the 1000-foot level in its hole on White River.

OIL LEASES SOUGHT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

LANKERSHIM, Feb. 22.—Representatives of several oil companies are making efforts to obtain leases covering 1000 acres on both sides of the Southern Pacific tracks in the vicinity of Vineland avenue and extending as far south as Victory Boulevard.

It is now learned that about 600 acres have been obtained in the desired section and that drilling will start when 800 acres have been secured.

OLD COPPER AREA WILL BE WORKED

Empire Property Will be Operated Under System of Leasing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—One of the oldest copper districts of the Southwest has been entered by F. M. Manson of the Kingman sampling works, who has taken over the Empire property, eleven miles north of Parker. It will be worked under a leasing system, with shipment of ore that will run about 12 per cent copper and between $12 and $20 gold.

The sampler company also will handle the ores of the Pacific Mines Company, which has a property near Ludlow, idle for six years, though said to have a twelve-foot vein of ore that samples well in copper and gold. Shipment is to be made of about 100 tons a day. The company has John Hays Hammond as one of its principal stockholders.

A five-stamp mill has been erected by Robert Brannock on the Arabian mine in the Union Pass district. The new mill of the Paymaster mine is to be started soon on ore from dumps that are said to have had satisfactory sampling. About sixty tons a day are to be treated.

The Cedar Valley mines at Cedar again are being worked, under George W. Gibson and W. P. Carr. A new hoist has been installed.

In the Knight Creek section, Ivy Crabtree is working a new mine on which is a large ledge of high-grade lead ore.

Angeleno Files Lease on Land in Comanche Field

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 22.—Giving Harriet Scott Murray of Vancouver 10 per cent interest in all oil findings on eighty acres of land owned by her in the Comanche Point area, Sec. 28, 32-29, southeast quarter, a lease from John O'Neil to E. K. Potter of Los Angeles, has just been filed here.

The conveyance to Mr. O'Neil was obtained in a quit-claim deed from the Kern Twenty-nine Oil Company, an unincorporated firm in which J. J. Kelley, a local resident, is the largest stockholder with 50,000 shares against the 6000 of F. H. Corsett, 4000 of James M. Preston, 4000 of A. J. Fowler, and 6000 of John O'Neil comprising the oil-mining group.

Permission to defer drilling for a period of three years is given in the lease agreement, and the royalty is one-eighth. Grant deed papers, the attached revenue stamps of which denote a transaction of $28,000, from the Producers' Oil Company of Fresno, to Ethel Mae Turner and A. L. Nevins of Santa Barbara, have been filed with the County Recorder.

Sixty acres are named in the deal. The land is situated on Sec. 23, 32-23, northwest of the Maricopa oil fields in the foothills.

North Counties Plan to Develop Coal Deposits

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 22.—Lacking the great petroleum fields that have made Southern California one of the great industrial centers of America, the northern counties are devoting increasing attention to their coal deposits.

Twelve miles southeast of Jackson the Buena Vista Coal Company is developing a hugh coal deposit and placing its product in near-by markets. It is claimed 25,000,000 tons of lignite of good quality have been demonstrated. Coal mining is also attracting much interest in Humbadit, Mendicino and Shasta counties.

Drilling for oil is proceeding at several points in Colusa, Butte, Sacramento and other counties north of Sacramento, with some companies reporting favorable showings. So far efforts to bring in commercial wells have failed.

CEMENTS TAFT WELL

Mascot Oil Encounters Water at 3239 Feet

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TAFT, Feb. 22. — The Mascot Oil Company is preparing to set a cement plug in the bottom of its No. 4 well on Section 36, 32-23 in the Hovey Hills district. This is the deepest test well of the Hovey Hills field, the hole having been drilled to a depth of 3239 feet where operations are now being carried forward.

Water broke into the hole at the present depth several weeks ago and it took a long time to locate the source. It was found to be coming in about 100 feet from the bottom of the hole. If the cement job is successful an early test of the new sand will be possible.

MIDLAND QUITS HOLE ON WHEELER RIDGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WHEELER RIDGE, Feb. 22.—The Midland Oilfields Company has abandoned its Jack Brown No. 1 well in the Wheeler Ridge district on Section 22, 11-20, but it is reported that the company plans to spud in a well on the Thornber-B lease in the Midway district on Section 34, 31-24.

Late Reports From California's Great Petroleum Pools

POCKET OF GAS FIRES OIL WELL

Farmington (N. M.) Drillers Hit Heavy Flow

"Rattlesnake" Pipe Line Finished and Tested

Wildcat Well Planned for Rio Arriba Field

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FARMINGTON (N. M.) Feb. 22. The Santa Fe Company, which recently completed its No. 7 well on the Rattlesnake structure, west of this city, came near losing the derrick of its No. 8 a few days ago when a big gas pocket, which was struck at shallow depth, enveloped the rig in flames and burned down the dog-house.

The gas was struck at a depth of 360 feet, which is much shallower than gas has ever been found elsewhere in the field. Steam and water were successfully used in quenching the flames which threatened to consume the derrick. Repairs were quickly made and the drill is going ahead again at about 500 feet.

The pumping station on the pipe line from the Rattlesnake structure to the new refinery at Farmington, has been completed, and the pump has been set. The first test of the pipe line has been made and work on the refinery is being pushed rapidly since the weather has turned warm. It is now planned to make the first test run through the refinery on March 15.

TO DRILL NEW FIELD

B. B. Owens of this city, who has successfully drilled several wells in the field, is planning to start drilling on the Gonzales tract in Rio Arriba county, located almost due east of this city. The Gonzales tract contains what is known as the Chromo structure, and Mr. Owens has secured the interests formerly held there by James L. Wade, W. S. Barnes and R. J. Davis.

A new organization known as the Angel Peak Syndicate, which is made up of Durango and Denver capitalists, has taken over the Poole-Finch holdings at Blanco, fifteen miles east of Farmington, and has announced that it will push the well to completion at once. Drilling has been resumed and the hole is now down about 400 feet.

Negotiations are under way between the city of Farmington and the Producers' and Refiners' Corporation to supply the municipality with natural gas from the corporation's gas well on the Ute Reservation, fourteen miles distant.

WILDCAT PLOT LEASED

Area Close to Shell Operations Near Weed Patch District

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 22.—Another small lease close to the wildcat operations of the Shell Company, in the Weed Patch area, has been obtained by Marland Oil Company. The property consists of the holdings of F. L. Morris, described as the south half of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter and north half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of Section 32, 30-29. The Shell test is being drilled in Section 33, and it is reported to be more than 4000 feet deep, with little encouragement.

Marland has an agreement calling for drilling within two years. An oil royalty of one-sixth is named as consideration. This is the first lease recorded in that district for some time. Most of the large companies have leases in the area, but development work will wait until the Shell Company proves up the values.

FINISHES WELLS ON POGGI LEASE

General Petroleum Company Has Three New Ones

Only Small Quantity of Oil is Obtained

Expects Better Production Near East Boundary

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TORRANCE, Feb. 22.—The General Petroleum Corporation completed three wells on the Poggi lease, in the southeastern extension of this field last week. Only one of them has cleaned up. The Poggi No. 4 is pumping 120 barrels of 17-deg. gravity oil. Poggi No. 1 is pumping into sump at an estimated rate of 100 barrels a day and Poggi No. 2 pumped into the sump one day and then sanded up.

All three of these wells are on the north line of the lease, near the western boundary of the property. The company has not yet spudded in a well near the eastern boundary, where better production is anticipated. Just north of the northeast corner of the Poggi lease the Superior Oil Company recently completed Torrance No. 58, for a yield of 320 barrels a day.

Having completed its first well offsetting the Poggi property the Marine Corporation is preparing to drill its second hole here. In this territory the Superior is drilling five holes and the Petroleum Securities Company is running five strings of tools, offsetting the Superior's Joughin lease.

An interesting wildcat well was spudded in Saturday by the Standard Oil Company in the southwestern extension. This hole is Ellinwood No. 2, located almost a mile west of production, near the Redondo Beach Golf Club.

Interest in the Standard's new venture is heightened by the history of the two southwestern outpost producers—Standard's Ellinwood No. 1 and the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company's Del Amo No. 14.

Both of these wells, completed at 3600 feet, are yielding more oil today than ever before in their history. The Chanslor-Canfield well was brought in at 150 barrels a day and is now pumping more than 200 barrels each twenty-four hours. Production from Ellinwood No. 1 has likewise increased, since the company abandoned the bottom of the hole and plugged back to 3600 feet. A producer in Ellinwood No. 2 would prove up considerable territory in the southwestern extension.

Torrance Field Quits Seventeen Holes in Month

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TORRANCE, Feb. 22.—During the present month seventeen wells have been slated for abandonment in this field. Of these eleven are in edge territory and six are in Lomita.

Among the edge wells listed for abandonment or which are already being dismantled are the following: Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company, Torrance No. 20 and No. 21 in edge territory near Arlington avenue, and Plaza del Amo in the city of Torrance; Francis No. 1, a wildcat north of proved territory; Consolidated Mutual Oil Company's Winship No. 1, a Harbor-Boulevard wildcat; Oakley No. 4, an edge well in northeastern territory; Julian Petroleum Corporation's No. 1 and No. 2 on the southern edge of the field; Petroleum Midway Company's Scott No. 1 and Bowers No. 1, northern edge wells; Shell Company's Dolores No. 1, the field's eastern drilling outpost.

The following wells in proved territory are listed for abandonment: Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company's Torrance No. 24 on El Camino Real; Associated Oil Company's Torrance No. 1 on Narbonne avenue in Lomita; George F. Getty's Torrance No. 7, No. 8 and No. 18 in Lomita; Henderson, Cheney & Cotton's Torrance No. 1 in Lomita.

Torrance No. 24 of Chanslor-Canfield is in a district characterized by profitable production, but numerous collapses of casing and subsequent failure to make the hole produce, despite almost a year of effort, have prompted the company to abandon it.

Mining Company to Sink New Shaft and Add Unit to Mill

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RANDSBURG, Feb. 22. — Representatives of the San Francisco Gold Mining Company, operating in the Oatman (Ariz.) district, have decided to begin active operations in the Randsburg gold belt and from the showing that has been made by Ray Drain in the King Soloman mine are convinced that with an expenditure of $25,000 in development work they can bring in an excellent gold producer. It is the intention to raise from the 300 level on a new shaft up the hill from the old one and sink 200 feet from the third level, a total of 500 feet; add another unit of five stamps to the plant now connecting with the old shaft. The ore from the new or main shaft would be trammed to the mill. Drifting and cross-cutting of 100 feet each will take place.

KERN FIELD SINKING 104 OIL WELLS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 22.—One hundred and four wells are actively drilling in Kern county. Twelve were completed during January with an initial daily production of 1955 barrels of crude oil. During the month eighteen new derricks were erected. The statistics show that this county is the scene of about one-fourth of the activity in California's oil fields. The wells by districts are as follows:

McKittrick, eleven drilling, one completion with initial production of twenty-five barrels. Producing wells, 296, daily average production 5729 barrels. Total output for month, 177,613 barrels.

Midway-Sunset, thirteen new rigs, seventy-five drilling, eight completions, with a daily production of 1540 barrels. Producing wells, 2952, daily average production, 105,918 barrels. Total output for month, 3,283,272 barrels.

Wheeler Ridge, two new rigs, four active drilling, two completed, with 220 barrels daily average. Producing wells, fifteen, with daily average of 1050 barrels. Total production for month, 32,557 barrels.

California Zinc Company Buys Plant at Ingot

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 22.—The California Zinc Company, operating the Bully Hill mines and smelter at Winthrop, has confirmed purchase of the Afterthought zinc-copper mines and plant at Ingot for $880,000.

The company has arranged to build a ten-mile tramway from the Winthrop smelter to Ingot, and treat a heavy tonnage of Afterthought ore for production of zinc oxide and copper matte.

Heavy shipments of zinc oxide are being made to Baltimore paint factories. The company is controlled by Los Angeles and Ohio capitalists, with Adrian D. Joyce of Cleveland the principal stockholder.

PLAN PLATINUM HUNT

Two Companies Obtain Leases on Gila Valley Tract

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YUMA (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—Two local companies are reported to have secured leases on 2500 acres of land near Dome, in the Gila Valley, there to prospect for platinum, said to be present in many assays that have been made of ground from the locality.

In the same valley in pioneer days rich returns were received from surface gold diggings at Gila City. Much less valuable, by the ton, is a mountain of pure silica sand, near Pilot Knob, on the California side of the river, a deposit reported to have been located by Pittsburg capitalists for the making of glass.

SUPERIOR IS OPERATING 57 WELLS

Markets Nearly 3,000,000 Barrels in Year; is Now Sinking Seven Holes

The Superior Oil Company produced and marketed nearly 3,000,000 barrels of oil during the past year, according to the annual report of the company, submitted at the recent annual meeting of stockholders. According to this report the company's actual production for the year was 2,830,000 barrels.

The Superior drilled and placed on production forty-five wells, mostly in the Torrance field, and at the end of the year had a total of fifty-seven wells producing, and seven drilling, the report stated. Average gross production per day for the year was 7700 barrels; the last day of the year showing a production of 8100 barrels.

William M. Keck was re-elected president of the company, with J. P. Chandler, vice-president. Charles A. Dore was elected a vice-president, and the following were chosen as directors: Clayton Severns, T. J. Crumpton, Fay L. Wright, and F. D. Jones. Mr. Chandler was also chosen as secretary and treasurer, with Mr. Jones as assistant secretary, and Howard W. Wright, assistant treasurer.

Mr. Severns was placed on the board in the place of S. A. Guiberson, Jr., president of the Guiberson Corporation. Mr. Guiberson has temporarily removed to New York. Fay L. Wright was elected to succeed F. L. Gay, also an official of the Guiberson Corporation, who has moved to New York.

The outstanding feature of the year's drilling operations, according to the company's report, was the development of the Joughin lease in the southern part of the Torrance field. This lease, comprising 300 acres, proved to be one of the most productive areas of the field, affording several record wells and providing the majority of the Superior's new production for the year.

TO FLOAT STOCK OF NEW ROAD

Ft. Worth Chamber of Commerce to Organize Financing of T. P. & G.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FT. WORTH (Tex.) Feb. 22.—Steps have been taken by the Chamber of Commerce to organize a trust company to take over the rights and holdings of Col. C. H. Powell of Chicago and associates for the construction of the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf Railroad. Application for a permit to build the proposed line is now pending.

One purpose of the proposed security company is to obtain subscriptions to preferred stock to the amount of $4,000,000. It will have its own engineering service and will supervise all contracts for construction. Col. Powell will co-operate with the new organization.

Of the amount to be subscribed, $3,000,000 of preferred stock is to be allotted for the construction of 304 miles of new road between Tucumcari, N. M., and Seymour, Tex. Preliminary work already done indicates that from $800,000 to $1,000,000 will be available from landowners along the proposed route. A year ago they agreed to subscribe to the preferred stock upon the basis of $1 an acre for all land within ten miles of the right of way. Committees from each county traversed by the surveyors agreed to the budgeting of this sum upon a county basis.

In addition to the construction of the long stretch of new road in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico, the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf proposes to take over the Gulf, Texas and Western, which has 130 miles of road running from Salesville to Seymour, and to construct approximately fifty-five additional miles of new road from Perrin into Ft. Worth.

CALUMET PRODUCTION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—Last month's production from the Calumet & Arizona mines at Douglas was 3,788,000 pounds of copper. Far greater was that of the New Cornelia, a C. & A. subsidiary, which turned out close to 7,000,000 pounds of copper. All smelting is done in Douglas.

GAS AT 140 FEET AT YUMA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YUMA, Feb. 22.—A star drilling rig, equipped for about 1500 feet of depth, is being used in sinking a sixteen-inch oil prospect well at a point three miles from Yuma, near the Warrenite Road. At about 140 feet the drill was broken, but work has been resumed, through clay, in which gas has been struck, in the same formation in which it was found in a couple of near-by wells that were drilled for water. At the bottom of the hole, now in sandstone, no gas is in evidence.

The new well is being drilled by W. B. Sinclair, an experienced oil operator, and George Bowen of the First National Security Company of San Diego, who were attracted by the showing in the earlier wells. They have about 5000 acres of leases and have made large filings on State lands. Location of the well was made after close examination by a number of geologists.

Oil seepages, formerly considered vegetable in origin, as well as inflammable gas, have been observed in this vicinity for many years, though local geologists usually have considered an oil deposit unlikely, owing to the deep sedimentary nature of the land, deposited by the Colorado River in what once was an arm of the ocean. A favorite sport in low water periods is to gather gas from bubbling vents in the river bottom, using oil cans, and igniting the stored gas at a hole in the can. Scores of such flames frequently illuminate the river banks at night.

MARLAND PLANS DRILL CAMPAIGN

Third Hole Spudded in on Cauley Lease

Field Scouts Spot Score of New Locations

Building of Modern Camp is Considered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 22.—Planning an extensive drilling campaign, the Marland Oil Company has spudded in its No. 3 hole on Cauley lease on Section 16, 28-27, in the west-front extension of the Kern River oil fields. Field scouts assert that the company has already spotted a score or more of drilling locations and it is reported that the plan contemplates 100 new wells for the district. The lease will be spaced so as to give efficient results. The wells will have a drainage area of six and one-fourth acres each. The Standard Oil Company in its operations here has usually drilled one well to each ten acres.

Improvements scheduled for the Cauley lease, it is said, will be a thoroughly equipped camp. The location for it has been cleared and details are under consideration.

SAND DELAYS TEST

During the past few days the company has brought in Cauley No 2, said to be satisfactory, although considerable sand trouble has delayed a production test. The drill campaign on the Cauley lease will be conducted aggresively, it is asserted, with a view of building up a substantial production within the next few months.

Engineers have estimated that the available supply of oil in this area will last for from twenty-five to forty years. Modern methods of drilling, strict supervision of water-shutoffs and use of the core drill freely in obtaining for the first time in history exact data as to formation, operators say, will surround the drillers of the virgin territory with more safeguards for the oil measures than have heretofore been attained.

The development program by the Marland will be followed in a short time by new operations by other companies. It is believed by field men that it would require ten years of drilling on a large scale to develop fully the area already indicated as productive by test wells of the Standard and Marland.

STANDARD BRINGS IN WELL

On Section 5, 28-27, between two Associated wells, the Standard brought in a good well, full of pep, lots of gas pressure and of 14.9 deg. gravity. The product is fuel oil with low flash and high power values suitable for direct use in locomotives and steamships. After a successful test the well was shut down following a flood of flush production in the Elk Hills and Southern California.

Now that the Marland has given a check on the area to the southeast of the Standard's Section 5 well, and finished two satisfactory wells, operators are desirous of knowing just how far oil may be found to the northwest of the center line of the north and south six-mile cross-section.

The fact that the Standard Oil Company owns either in fee or by lease many sections in this area, and that the other holdings are largely in the hands of the Associated, Union and Pacific Oil Companies, assures the Marland of good company in its program of development.

Among the smaller operators having holdings in this area are the Midway Premier with one section; the Caribou Oil Company, with 160 acres; George F. Getty, with 160 acres; Perseus and Bakersfield Fuel and Gas Company with small tracts.

Development will proceed along orderly lines, and with little tendency toward competetive drilling, it is expected, unless beneath the heavier oil strata exceptionally light oil should be found.

Indication that this may be one of the most important features of future operations here was found in the test well drilled by the Standard on Section 36, 27-27. The drill entered a light oil stratum capable, it is thought, of big production, but water troubles in the days before core drilling, caused its abandonment.

High Gravity Yield in New Oklahoma Pool

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TULSA (Okla.) Feb. 22.—A new oil pool has been discovered in Okfuskee county, Oklahoma, about half way between the old Okemah pool and the Papoose area, by the Furhman & Shaffer Oil Company, which brought in a well in Section 22, 10-19 yielding about 100 barrels of 53-degree gravity oil per day. In only one instance has similarly high-gravity oil been found in that area.

Production in the Wortham pool showed rallying tendencies last week and the stimated outputs for the last three days of the week ranged from 72,000 to 73,000 barrels a day, which compares with 53,000 barrels touched the week before and 167,000 barrels at the peak on January 15. The output on Saturday was estimated at 73,000 barrels from 238 wells.

The Humphreys-Boyd Oil Company has made thirty-two new locations at the south end of this field and is now drilling a test well in an effort to connect Wortham with the Mexia pool.

WOLVERINE MAY MOVE OFFICES TO BISBEE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—Declaring that local interests hold more stock in the company than any other one locality, Bisbee stockholders have started a movement to bring here the headquarters of the Wolverine & Arizona. The company owns fifteen claims in the western part of the district, surrounded by Copper Queen, Calumet & Arizona and Shattuck ground. The question is to be decided at the annual meeting in April.

Petroleum shipments from Los Angeles Harbor last week again went over the 2,000,000-barrel mark, the exports amounting to twenty-nine tanker loads totaling 2,000,890 barrels, which was only slightly less than the shipments of the previous week. For the year to date oil shipments from this port have been at the rate of about 100,000,000 barrels per year. The shipments last week were as follows.

MEXICO SUSPENDS OIL CONCESSIONS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONTEREY (Mex.) Feb. 22.—American and other foreigners who may have been considering the organizing of companies to carry on oil operations in Mexico will have to forego their plans for the present. Notice has just been issued by President Calles that no further drilling permits will be authorized except to companies already in operation.

It is stated that Calles's order was issued in the hope of preventing speculation in oil by companies lacking funds for proper development of their holdings. Calles plans to appoint a technical commission which will revise present concessions for oil operations and rule on their legality. Until this survey is completed, no further concessions will be granted.

Motorcycles are growing in popularity in foreign countries, nearly all of 180,000 increase in the world last year being outside of the United States.

FUTURE BRIGHT FOR ROSECRANS

Consistent Athens Output is Hailed as Good Omen

Finding of Two New Sands Causes Optimism

Number of New Wells May Come in This Week

Prospects for the Rosecrans field are brighter now than they have been for many months, in the opinion of interested operators, who look upon the large and consistent production of the Athens area in the northwest end of the field as an indication of excellent possibilities. Virtually all the wells completed in the Athens district have come in with more than 1000 barrels a day, and all are holding up to from 1200 to 1500 barrels a day.

Another cause for optimism in Rosecrans is the discovery of two new sands, one above the Potter sand, found by the Union Oil Company, and the Marine Corporation, and the other below the Potter, found by E. J. Miley.

The productivity of these sands seems to be higher than that of the Potter sand, although the leading exponent of the Potter zone is the Union's original Howard Park No. 1, the first well in the field, and still the best, from the standpoint of steady, consistent production.

A number of new wells may be expected at Athens this week. Among these are the Athens No. 3 of E. J. Miley, and the Marine Corporation's No. 33.

An encouraging development of the week was the Union's discovery of an oil sand, said to be rich, at 6480 feet in its Gordon well. The showings are said to be the best yet found in the well, which has had several indications, but evidently the Union was not greatly impressed with the outlook, as drilling was continued without any pause for a test.

Drilling was resumed in the Trust No. 1, on the western side of the field, but cores taken at 5807 to 5812 feet showed only a few inches of oil sand, the remainder of the core showing shale and gray sand. Bailing was resumed after this discovery.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AUGUSTA (Me.) Feb. 22.—An appeal to the British authorities to lift the embargo in England, Scotland and Ireland on Maine potatoes, has been made by the Commissioners of Agriculture for Maine and Massachusetts, in a cablegram to Sir Daniel Hall, chief of staff of the British Department of Agriculture. The cable was signed by Arthur W. Gilbert and Frank P. Washburn, respectively, Commissioners of Agriculture of Massachusetts and Maine.

TO LEASE GUN RANGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 22.—Through arrangements made with the Chamber of Commerce of Corpus Christi by officers representing the third attack group at Kelly Field, tentative plans have been completed for leasing six square miles of waste land in the vicinity of Corpus Christi for use as a bombing and machine-gun range for the attack group. The land lies a short distance from Corpus Christi, fronts one mile on the bay and extends to a depth of six miles.

ALCOHOL MAKING PLANNED

The Barnsdall Corporation, according to official announcement, has organized the Petroleum Chemical Corporation, to manufacture alcohol from petroleum residue. Associated in the new enterprise is Arthur D. Little, Inc.

"For the past 3 years," the announcement stated, "Arthur D. Little, Inc., chemists and engineers, at Cambridge, Mass., have been concentrating, with a large scientific and technical organization, upon the fundamental chemistry of petroleum hydro-carbons with the object of establishing new values in petroleum. The developments have been financed by Barnsdall Corporation and its associates.

"These intensive studies have culminated in the development of a group of interrelated processes based on a new vapor-phase cracking process, which, according to the range of products desired, yields from cracking stock from 40 to 55 per cent motor spirit, which possesses remarkable properties as an antiknock motor fuel."

RECORD SET IN OIL SHIPMENTS

Three Tankers Carry 311,500 Barrels to Eastern Port

One Cargo Largest of Kind Ever Sent From Here

Mexican Interests Purchase Four-Master Muriel

In three American tankers 311,500 barrels of petroleum went out for the port of New York yesterday, the greatest oil shipment ever sent to a single port. All three ships are units of the Standard Oil fleet.

The John D. Archbold, said to be the largest tank steamer afloat, took out 141,000 barrels of crude petroleum for the refineries at Bayonne, N. J. It was the largest oil cargo ever to leave this port, while aboard the tanker Standard Arrow went 97,000 barrels of gasoline for New York, likewise the largest shipment of that product to be dispatched. The third Standard Oil tanker sailing was the Broad Arrow, with 73,500 barrels of oil.

SCHOONER BOUGHT FOR TRADING SERVICE

Announcement was made yesterday of the sale to Mexican interests of the four-masted schooner Murial, at this port, for trading service off the West Coast. The Muriel, built at Alameda in 1895, was for years a unit of the Hind, Rolph South Sea fleet, but for the past year has been used in motion-picture productions out of Los Angeles Harbor. The Muriel is of 483 tons net and 162 feet long. The sale price was announced as $3300.

Capt. W. C. Badger, commodore of the tanker fleet of the Standard Oil Company of California, returned to San Francisco yesterday aboard the tanker W. S. Miller, after a week's stay at this port. Capt. Badger has just retired after more than thirty years' service aboard Standard Oil vessels.

The Munson-McCormick liner Sydney M. Hauptman arrived yesterday from New York and way ports with 1800 tons of general cargo for local discharge. Eastbound, the Transmarine liner Surichco put in for bunkers en route from Gray's Harbor with a full cargo of lumber for Port Newark.

The Isthmian liner Bessemer City, from Charleston with a full cargo for Yokohama, also put in for bunkers and departed for the Orient, as did the Japanese "K" liner Glasgow Maru, with a cotton cargo from Galveston for oriental delivery.

Announcement is expected here this week that the steamers Annette Rolph and Georgina Rolph, recently taken over by James Rolph of San Francisco, will be put into service between Los Angeles, San Francisco and the West Coast of Mexico. Mayor Rolph, owner of the two steamers, has recently been appointed agent for the Mexican Free Ports Commission and as the Free Ports' two vessels, the Washington and Bolivar, are unable to maintain frequent sailings it is expected that the two Rolph vessels will be added. The Annette Rolph and Georgina Rolph have for the past three years been operated by the McCormick Steamship Company in its Los Angeles-Portland service.

The Shipping Board steamer West Notus, in the South American service of Swayne & Hoyt, Inc., is due at Los Angeles Harbor on the 26th inst. with one of hte largest coffee cargoes to be discharged at this port, it was announced yesterday by Hugh P. Fitzpatrick, Southern California manager.

The U.S.S. Pennsylvania will depart from the Puget Sound Navy Yard on March 23, next, for Los Angeles Hrabor, after having received a new set of turret guns and undergone her usual annual overhaul. The Pennsylvania has also gained atop of her Number Three Turret one of the Navy's new P. Mark III airplane catapults, similar to that installed on the U.S.S. Mississippi. She is due at this port on March 27. The destroyer McDermut, fresh from overhaul at the Mare Island Navy Yard, put in from sea long enough yesterday to discharge the basketball team fo Submarine Division Sixteen and then proceeded to her base at San Diego.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Matson Line ships will bring into San Francisco 354,878 bags of sugar during the seven days beginning yesterday, when 197,305 bags arrived on the freighter Manulani from Hawaii, officials of the company said. All of the vessels in the Matson sugar-carrying fleet are now in service with the exception of the Enterprise.

Efforts will be begun this week to dynamite the hull of the tanker Alden Anderson, which burned to the water line and sank in Suisun Bay three months ago. The contract has been given to Frederik Swank, ship demolition engineer of Seattle. Seven lives were lost in the fire, which destroyed the vessel.

The largest passenger list of the season from Honolulu is announced for the Matson liner Maui, due Tuesday with 150 first-cabin passengers.

SEATTLE (Wash.) Feb. 22.—The motorship Californian of the American Hawaiian Line will arrive here tomorrow from Atlantic ports with 1500 tons of general cargo. Outwardly the Californian will load lumber and general cargo at Seattle and Tacoma for Atlantic ports.

The steamship Mundelta, operated in the intercoastal service of the Munson-McCormick Line, which has been loading lumber here, will shift to Tacoma Tuesday to complete her cargo there and at other Puget Sound ports.

The Williams Steamship Company freighter Willfaro shifted to Tacoma this morning, and tomorrow will proceed to Port Gamble. Later in the week she will complete her load for the Orient at Everett and Bellingham.

The French Line steamship Mississippi and the Swedish steamship Indianic are expected here Thursday or Friday to load for Australian points. The Norwegian motorship Indraw will reach Tacoma Wednesday with a cargo of ore and concentrates from the west coast of South America. The Indraw will shift to Seattle Saturday for drydocking, cleaning and painting.

Bringing 500 tons of general cargo from Atlantic ports, the steamship Albert Jeffress of the Garland Line arrived here today. She will shift to Gray's Harbor later in the week to load lumber for Atlantic ports.

The steamship Stanwood of the McCormick Line will arrive here tonight with 1000 tons of general merchandise from San Francisco.

PORTLAND (Or.) Feb. 22. — After loading considerable local freight, including consignments of flour, the steamer Curacao was dispatched last night for California ports.

Lumber shipments from St. Helens for the week-end yesterday were slightly less than 3,000,000 feet. The steamer Wahkeena, which departed Tuesday, was laden with 1,000,000 feet of lumber for Los Angeles, and the motor vessel, Tolsa, which left Wednesday, loaded 400,000 feet of lumber for South American ports. The steamer Waranna loaded 200,000 feet of lumber for delivery at Los Angeles and departed Friday, and the motor vessel Carrico called for 100 pieces of piling for Honolulu. The steamer Munaires arrived Friday night, loaded 1,000,000 feet of lumber for New York, departing today.

Bookings for the steamer West Nivaria, due next Saturday, show that the most important shipments will be 1,000,000 feet of lumber to Australia. The vessel loaded general freight in the South Pacific for Portland, but it was trans-shipped at San Francisco on the steamer West Cactus of the company's South American service, which left Portland Wednesday to take aboard additional shipments on Gray's Harbor. The vessel will stop at Astoria to load flour tomorrow and then head for sea.

TACOMA (Wash.) Feb. 22.—Carrying East Coast freight for discharge here, the Williams Line steamer Willfaro arrived this morning. The vessel will load lumber and miscellaneous freight for the return trip.

NAVY MAN IS DROWNED IN LOCAL PARK

Sailor's Comrades Fail in Rescue Efforts; Lagoon is Dragged for Body in Vain

A sailor on the U.S.S. Idaho, Albert Easterly, 18 years of age, was schooled in the philosophy of soldier and sailor to believe in the irony of fate.

Easterly was drowned last night, not in the foaming depths of the ocean that is loved and feared by sailormen, but in a lagoon in Westlake Park.

Easterly and two buddies, R. E. Hamilton and Wallace Lake, were in a canoe. The frail craft overturned. Hamilton and Lake swam to safety but Easterly never came up. His pals dived in the vicinity but to no avail. Wilshire police were called and dragged the lagoon but were unable to recover the body late last night.

PLAN DEVELOPMENT

Mill, Tram Line, Proposed for Hay District Diggings

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Feb. 22.—Great plans are being made for development of mines in the old Hat district of the Santa Catalina Mountains, north of Tucson. These include the construction of a 250-ton flotation mill, a long tram line from mine to mill and an 8000-foot tunnel, to tap the ore bodies at depth and secure the largest degree of economy of operation.

The main property to be worked is the Daily-Arizona Consolidated Copper Company's group of eighteen claims. Back of the plans are J. C. Sarle, former head of the geology department of the University of Arizona, and J. W. Daily, local mining man. The mill is to be placed on the Canada del Oro, where an ample water supply is available.

ADVOCATES MERGING OF RAILROADS

Former Commerce Board Member Asserts Process Should be Natural

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Railroad consolidation should be allowed to proceed in a natural fashion, and not be artificially stimulated or hindered by Federal legislation, Mark W. Potter, who resigned last week from the Interstate Commerce Commission, writes this week in Nation's Business, a publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Potter directed his criticism toward requirements in the Transportation Act, that the chief railroads in the country be permitted to consolidate into eighteen or twenty systems of great size, in accordance with such "plan" as the commission may approve.

Instead of directing the creation of a plan which railroads must follow in combining, he said, officers and stockholders of the present company should be given freedom to make their own arrangements for consolidation and to put them into effect, provided that the commission approved them, as being in the public interest.

"The unfortunate tendencies of the times in almost everything are toward too much elaboration and too much machinery," he declared. "Railroads would have consolidated years ago if they had not been prevented by law. Now it is realized that restraining laws were a mistake. Still, apparently, the government is not willing to give the desires of the carriers much weight, and seemingly, what it wants is to get them into a strait-jacket and have all the planning done by a government agency."

Good Showings Encountered in Carlisle Well

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 22.—Excellent showings have been found in the No. 1 well of the Carlisle Oil Company on the northeast quarter of Section 19, 11-25 on the Carissa Plains, southwest of Maricopa. The well, which is a wildcat, is located ten miles by air line from the city of Taft, but requires about thirty miles of travel to reach it by the present roads.

Latest reports in regard to the progress being made at the hole with the cable tool outfit are to the effect that the well is down around 950 feet, carrying the twelve and one-half-inch casing and drilling in a tar sand.

The company is financed by a group of Santa Barbara residents, headed by C. A. Carlisle. W. A. Carlisle is in charge of the drilling. The Carlisle Oil Company owns 100 acres on Section 19 and has leased small parcels of land near the drilling well.

MEXICAN RAILWAY PRESENTS PROBLEM

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONTEREY (Mex.) Feb. 22.—Difficult engineering problems would have to be overcome in the construction of a railroad across the Sierra Madres in Northern Mexico, between Yavaros, State of Sonora, and Juarez, State of Chihuahua, according to an official report just made to President Calles by Louis A. Aldaco, engineer, appointed by former President Obregon to reconnoiter the route and determine the feasibility of building the line. Mr. Aldaco says that it would be possible to construct the line, but that the cost would be enormous.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

Por el Professor R. Guerrero
DED DEPARTAMENTO ESPANOL DE "THE TIMES"

NUMERO 304

En el párrafo sexto de la Plática 302 dice, "de este no se ha de inferir", y debe decir, "de esto no se ha de inferir". En la primera línea del segundo párrafo de la Plática 303, dice: "del nombre", en vez de "el nombre". En el párrafo tercero dice: "que lo riga" en lugar de "que lo rige", y en el cuarto, "pertenecia" por "pertenencia".

Habiendo expuesto en la Plática 303 todas las relaciones que se expresan por medio del genitivo, expondremos a continuación cuáles de ellas puede denotar el relativo "cuyo", y, para ese fin, nada mejor que transcribir lo que sobre el particular nos dice en su notable Gramática el señor de la Peña:

Hay en la lengua tendencia muy señalada a emplear este relativo para expresar las relaciones de genitivo que luego se mencionan: denota la idea de posesión; v.g.: ". . . nació en Volaterra . . . Aulo Persio Flaco, CUYO PADRE se hallaba emparentado con las más encumbradas familias de aquella ciudad" (Vigil); "CUYO ES, Dametas, dime, AQUEL GANADO—Que allí a la sombra veo?" (Pagaza). Según Bello, el uso de "cuyo" interrogativo se limita a las oraciones de verbo sustantivo y a los casos en que haga referencia a personas. No cree que sean aceptables en el día las construcciones: "¿cúyo buque ha naufragado?"; "¿a cúya protección te acoges?".

"Cuyo" equivale frecuentemente al genitivo neutro "de lo cual"; su antecedente en este caso se halla formado de una o de varias proposiciones, o bien de alguno de los demostrativos "esto", "eso", "aquello". Cuando "cuyo" tiene tal equivalencia, concierta de ordinario con nombres de significado muy extenso, tales son "causa", "caso", "razón", "motivo", "fin", "resultado" y otros semejantes.

Como algunos juzgan que es incorrecto el uso de "cuyo" en el caso descrito, es indispensable autorizarlo con ejemplos tomados de buenos escritores: "Realmente yo así lo creo . . . POR CUYO MOTIVO hemos hecho esta pintura" (Fr. Luis de Granada); "por cuyo motivo" es lo mismo que "por motivo de lo cual"; "Pusieron en gran cuidado estos desórdenes al rey Don Fernando y particularmente la defensa y conversión de los indios . . . PARA CUYO FIN formó instrucciones" (D. Antonio Solís); "para cuyo fin" vale tanto como "a fin de lo cual". "Decid al príncipe de Bearne que yo he venido a Francia con este ejército que veis, sólo para librarle, si puedo, de la opresión herética que padece, EN CUYA EJECUCION (es decir: "en la ejecución de lo cual") pondré el cuidado y solicitud posible" (Coloma); ". . . . ordena que le conduzcan a su palacio adormecido por medio de un narcótico, y que allí al despertar se encuentre tratado como rey, para ver si realmente se cumple el oráculo . . . en CUYO CASO (es decir: "en caso de lo cual") volverá a su retiro" (Menéndez y Pelayo).

A las autoridades anteriores, sigue diciendo el señor de la Peña, añadiré otras citadas por D. Marco Fidel Suárez en sus "Estudios Gramaticales": "Los españoles tomaron hasta las orillas del río Ebro, que llamaban en aquellos tiempos Ibero, POR CUYA RAZON, también eran dichos iberos" Florián Ocampo); "Su padre se llamó Antonio Vero, así como el abuelo, POR CUYA OCASION (por ocasión "de lo cual") muchas veces los historiadores lo llaman Marco Antonio Vero" (Guevara); "Por arte de encantamiento se convirtió en cuervo, y andando los tiempos ha de volver a reinar, A CUYA CAUSA (a causa "de lo cual") no se probará que desde aquel tiempo a éste haya ningún inglés muerto cuervo alguno" (Cervantes, "Quijote"); "Este escrito es breve, más famoso que conocido, pues se ha hecho muy raro . . . POR CUYA RAZON (por razón "de lo cual") lo copiamos aquí" (Luzán, "Poética"); "Este introductor tiene una habilidad superior, EN CUYO CASO (en caso "de lo cual") no le dañará la concurrencia" (Jovellanos); "El número tiene por objeto manifestar por medio de la modificación que produce en una parte de la oración, si ésta se refiere a una persona o cosa, EN CUYO CASO (en caso "de lo cual") se llama singular" (Real Academia Española, "Gramática").

Agrega el señor de la Peña que en las locuciones "a cuya causa", "por cuyo medio", "por cuyo motivo", etc., puede el relativo "cuyo" resolverse en un demostrativo precedido de la conjunción "y"; así lo resuelve D. Carlos Coloma en el siguiente pasaje: "Resolvieron, pues, los duques de sitiar la villa de Lañí . . . Y A ESTE EFECTO esto es: "a cuyo efecto") pasó la mitad del ejército en la Bría."

Continúa diciendo el citado filólogo que pueden además expresarse por el relativo "cuyo" los siguientes genitivos:

(a) El de causa; v.g.: "La muerte CUYAS ANSIAS le afligen".

(b) El subjetivo; v.g.: "El pueblo CUYO ODIO temen los tiranos"; esto es: los tiranos temen el odio que el pueblo les tiene.

(c) El objetivo; v.g.: "El pueblo CUYO AMOR ha de normar la conducta de los gobernantes"; esto es: el amor al pueblo ha de normar, etc.

Ya se ha dicho que ambos genitivos, el subjetivo y el objetivo, son ocasionados a anfibologías.

(d) El partitivo; v.g.: "El capital CUYA MITAD te pertenece". Si la relación entre la parte y el todo se expresa por ablativo, no podrá ya tener cabida el relativo "cuyo", como se advierte con toda claridad en esta construcción: "ALGUNOS DE VOSOTROS conocéis al delincuente". Sería intolerable decir: "VOSOTROS CUYOS ALGUNOS conocéis al delincuente".

No es desusado que "cuyo", sigue diciendo la obra citada, se emplee en lugar de un genitivo numeral. En una de las ediciones anteriores de la Gramática de la Academia, se lee este ejemplo: "Ayer cobré mil reales, con CUYA CANTIDAD (es decir: con la cantidad de mil reales) pagué mi inquilinato".

En las Pláticas siguientes seguiré hablando de los otros genitivos de aposición. Ya vemos que en el numeral, que es de esa especie, la Academia sanciona el uso de "cuyo". De los demás abundan ejemplos en que buenos autores los han expresado por el relativo "cuyo"; pero este uso no es general, y la veremos lo que sobre él dice el señor de la Peña.

Don't Plan Anything
for NEXT Sunday

THERE is an important reason why we make this request... the formal opening of

BEVERLYRIDGE
"The Last of the Best of Beverly Hills"

Will take place next Sunday, March 1, 1925 .....and we want you to spend some part of that day looking over this ideal home subdivision.

The increasing value of hillside property and the remarkable activity that is apparent in hillsite acreage between Hollywood and the sea makes.....

BEVERLYRIDGE

One of the most desirable parcels of land that has ever been offered to the eager buyers of hill homesites ... no finer adjoining environment is possible to attain than the already high class development that surrounds Beverlyridge. Such estate names as Doheny ... Spaulding ... Green ... Fairbanks ... Chaplin ... Hellman ... Robinson ... Lewis ... Winkler ... Seaver ... must mean that this property is without question the finest residential section in or around Los Angeles ..... and the prices will be a pleasant surprise to you.

Minature Estates with every advantage of the larger adjoining estates at a minimum of cost... $5000 and up.

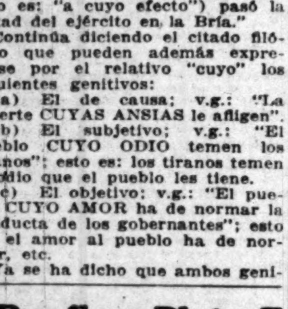
Roofless Plates



My Roofless Plate is the ideal denture and not to be compared with the commonplace, heavy, ordinary plate.

DOES NOT COVER THE ROOF OF THE MOUTH and makes eating a pleasure. No matter how hard or flat your palate or how many unsatisfactory sets of teeth you have had made, MY PLATES ARE A GUARANTEED SUCCESS. Stick tight and look natural. You can cough, sneeze, sing, whistle or eat corn off the cob and they never drop.

Committee Formed to Entertain Wives

Mrs. Floyd Rally (left) and Mrs. Brook Hawkins

OFFICERS of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges will arrive at 3:30 p.m. today, to be in readiness to open tomorrow the fourteenth annual convention of the association at the Biltmore. Friday is the last day of the convention.

About 2000 delegates, including some of the country's most prominent builders, will attend. Delegates who have been assembling here the past week, and a majority of the members of the local exchange, will go to the station to welcome the officers.

A special committee of the Los Angeles Builders' Exchange, headed by Miss J. L. Schmidt, will act as hostesses to the wives of the delegates, will supply them with baskets of fruit and flowers daily and will escort them on tours of Los Angeles and surrounding communities. There will be theater parties and teas at the Biltmore also. Members of the committee include Mrs. George L. Eastman, Mrs. Geoffrey Edwards, Mrs. Arthur Bent, Mrs. Brook Hawkins, Mrs. Lloyd Rally, Mrs. Walton T. Farrar and others.

William F. Chew, national president, will call the convention to order tomorrow. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Mayor Cryer and Godfrey Edwards will be local speakers. Robert K. Cochrane of Pittsburg, past national president, will respond to the welcomes.

The remainder of the morning session will be devoted to the appointment of a committee for the nomination of officers for the ensuing year, and to an address on "A Battle Royal and Won," given by Rex B. Goodcell, Collector of Internal Revenue. The afternoon session will be taken up by the presentation of resolutions and reports of the national officers, William F. Chew of Baltimore, Md., Thomas L. Davis, Youngstown, O., and Earl F. Stokes, Baltimore, Md.

STONE FOR VETERANS' HALL LAID

Mary Pickford Officiates With Trowel at Sawtelle; Memorial Tree Planted

With Mary Pickford handling the trowel, the corner-stone for the Veterans' Memorial Hall at the Sawtelle Soldiers' Home was laid yesterday amid ceremonies that were enhanced by observance of the anniversary of the birthday of George Washington. Several hundred persons, including representatives of various local branches of the Daughters of the American Revolution, were present.

Rev. S. A. Drummond delivered the invocation and Monteville Flowers of Pasadena made the principal address. Others who spoke included Raphael Herman, Walter Armabost, president of the Sawtelle Chamber of Commerce; William Courtney, Mrs. Henry Wright, chairman of the Hollywood branch of the Federated American Womens' Clubs. The corner-stone laying was in charge of Hollywood Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

A feature of the ceremonies was the planting of a tree by the Hollywood Chapter of the D.A.R. This was the first of nine trees which are to be planted on the grounds of the hall by this organization.

The hall is being built by popular subscriptions and donations and will cost completed approximately $25,000. The building fund is about one-half subscribed. The hall will be used for weekly dances for the benefit of the disabled Veterans at the Soldiers' Home. It is located at 2770 One Hundred and Third avenue, Sawtelle.

BENEFIT FOR BAND

Jinnistan Grotto's band will be the beneficiary of the proceeds of an unusual ball to be given in Jinnistan Grotto Temple, 1500 South Figueroa street, the 28th inst. The Mystic Oriental Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm will be hosts on this occasion. In addition to the program of dances a concert by the band will be given. A committee headed by Fred Heyser, director of the band, is in charge of arrangements.

MAN IMPALED BY AUTO DIES

Victim's Chest Pierced in Crash; Child Hurt Fatally in Front of Home; Woman Killed

Impaled upon the rail of a fence into which his automobile crashed early yesterday in Topango Canyon, Lester B. Phillips of Owensmouth suffered fatal injuries. Two other persons, a child and a woman, were killed and another woman and her daughter injured in traffic accidents.

Mr. Phillips, accompanied by his wife, was driving through the canyon at an early hour, out for a Sunday drive. It is believed that their vehicle skidded on the wet pavement of the canyon highway while rounding a turn. The car crashed into a flanking fence and one of the broken rails is declared to have pierced his chest. He died at St. Catherine's Hospital, Santa Monica, from hemorrages of the lungs, yesterday afternoon. The body was taken to the O. A. Kirkelle & Co. parlors at Santa Monica.

Mary Johnston, 4 years of age, of 952 Douglas street, was injured fatally yesterday in front of her home when she stepped from behind an automobile truck and was struck by a machine said to have been driven by L. J. Gooding of Torrance. Deputy Sheriff Sweezy, who investigated, exonerated Gooding. The girl's body was taken to French and Bryan mortuary.

Helen Wallin of 5325 Oakland avenue was fatally hurt in attempting to cross Huntington Drive in the 5200 block yesterday afternoon.

She was killed, according to police report by a Pacific Electric train in charge of Motorman M. L. Benlish. Her body was sent to the Highland Park Undertakers. First reports were that she had been killed in an accident involving three automobiles, but this report was later denied. Her body was taken to the undertakers as unidentified, but later identity was established through a sister, Florence A. Wallin.

Mrs. Lottie Presman, 4163 West Washington street, suffered a pelvis fracture, concussion of the brain and other injuries yesterday when she and her daughter, Ida Presman, 17 years of age, were knocked down by an automobile at Washington street and Crenshaw Boulevard. They had alighted from a street car and started to cross behind it when they were struck, police reported, by the car of S. H. Hyman, 1150 Fuller avenue. Hyman was questioned by the police but not arrested. Mrs. Presman was taken to Angelus Hospital. She is expected to recover.

SAN DIEGO AIR LINE OPENS SOON

Company Will Maintain Its Passenger Service

First Trip Will be Made on March 1

Extension to San Francisco is Being Considered

An airplane passenger line will soon be in operation between Los Angeles and San Diego. The initial flight will be made March 1, with three cabin planes, each holding four passengers besides the pilot. The opening of the service will be an elaborate affair.

The passengers on the initial round-trip flight will consist of film stars and directors. Army and Navy planes will act as escorts on the flight, which is scheduled to take place at the Los Angeles terminal, Ninety-sixth and Figueroa streets, Sunday, March 1, at 11 a.m.

MAYOR TO MEET PLANES

Civic officials of Los Angeles in addition to many film celebrities and friends of the passengers will be on hand to give the planes a cheer as they make their dash for the southern city. The stars going on the trip will be met at the San Diego field by the Mayor of that city, members of the Chamber of Commerce, and other San Diego city officials. They will be the guests of San Diego during their four-hour stay with an elaborate luncheon tendered them by the Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Grant on their arrival.

Among those who will participate in this initial flight are Robert G. Vignola, the director; Anita Stewart, Lou Tellegen, Pauline Garon, Belle Bennett, Creighton Hale, Laura La Plante, Hedda Hopper, Vera Reynolds, Ann Cornwall, Nita Naldi, Irving Cummings, Fred Windemere and others, including news-reel photographers and members of the press.

The planes, made in Southern California, are of the latest design and have been thoroughly tested and approved by the government officials in San Diego.

SAN FRANCISCO NEXT

It is estimated the trip will take an hour and twenty minutes each way. The air line, which will be known as the Los Angeles-San Diego Air Line, is to be a permanent service, making two trips daily. Night flying, as yet, has not been attempted, but it is the desire of officials of this new service to install a night trip in the near future. After the Los Angeles and San Diego line has been arranged, plans for a Los Angeles-San Francisco service will be started, with Los Angeles as the center of both routes and the main headquarters of the air service organization.

The large field at Ninety-sixth street has been leased from the city of Los Angeles and an equally large space has been leased from the city of San Diego, thus assuring the planes of a definite field in each city.

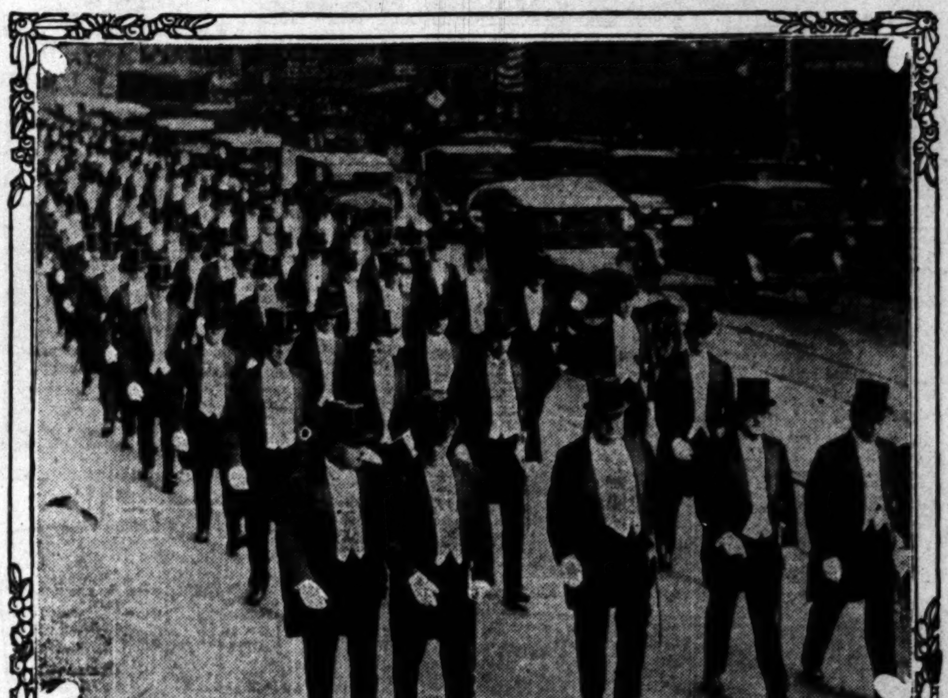
The service will be strengthened and enlarged as rapidly as possible. Several more passenger planes are now in the course of construction and it is the opinion of the officials of the air service that within several months' time eight or ten passenger cabin planes will be running between Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco daily.

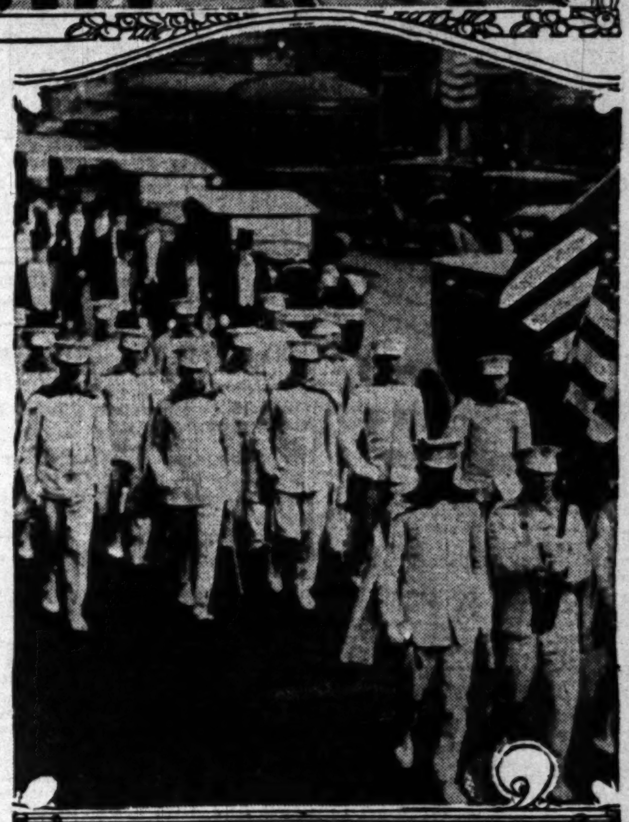
HOLLENBECK MASONIC LODGE TO GIVE BALL

A grand ball and entertainment will be given by Hollenbeck Lodge, No. 319, F. & A. M., next Saturday evening at the Hollenbeck Temple, East First and Chicago streets. Proceeds of the affair will be turned into the club fund. A number of vaudeville skits by members and professionals and a musical program by the chanters of the lodge will be included in the entertainment program.

BISHOP DEPLORES MAD GAYETY SEARCH

Knights of Columbus Ceremonies Include Parade





Catholic Order in Full Regalia

THE home life of the American people is being broken up by the mad search for pleasure of the present "experimental age," and the fact that the education of the young has been placed almost entirely in the hands of women constitutes a "national disgrace," it was declared by the Rt. Rev. John J. Cantwell, bishop of Los Angeles and San Diego, in an address last night at the Biltmore during a banquet of the Knights of Columbus in honor of approximately 200 candidates who were initiated into the fourth degree of the order yesterday with an all-day program of ritual. The ceremonies included a downtown street parade of more than 400 Knights garbed in full regalia and led by a special police detail and the Hollywood American Legion Band.

"George Washington founded this nation on religious principles," said Bishop Cantwell, in opening his address. "Two others of our greatest Presidents, Lincoln and Roosevelt, were deeply religious. They believed in and loved Almighty God and recognized their accountability to him.

EXPERIMENTAL AGE

"Now the experimental age has arrived and with it a mad scramble for new things and new schemes that threaten to undo the work of the fathers of our country. The church must be recognized as one of the greatest factors in stabilizing the government and yet in Los Angeles, a community of 1,000,000 persons, I venture to say there are not 100,000 giving God public service on Sunday.

"The home life of the nation is disintegrating. People are making their home in apartments and flats where there is no privacy, where there is no room for children. Marriages under such conditions are ending in the divorce courts. Some factor must be recognized tending toward the unity and indissolubility of Christian marriage or the nation cannot endure.

CHILDREN IN CONTROL

"Parents are losing control of their children. It is the children who are controlling the homes. Mothers are leaving supervision of their children almost entirely to school-teachers and the teaching profession is almost solely in the hands of women, a national disgrace.

"Men will not teach because of the pagan principles that there is not enough in it for them, which money standard seems to apply to every phase of life today.

"There must be a return of Christianity to business. To sell for $10 an article costing 50 cents does not partake of the teachings of Christ."

The bishop concluded his address with a fervent plea to the Knights for exemplary living "or the world would not be any better" for their having lived.

Other addresses were made by Thomas P. White, State deputy, who acted as toastmaster; Bernard J. Leonard, master, fourth degree; southern district of California, Admiral Henry J. Zigemier, U.S.S. Arizona; Maj. George Ruhlen, commanding Coast Artillery, Fort MacArthur, and Joseph Scott.

Guests at the speakers' table included Isidor B. Dockweiler, of

COAST ROAD CHANGES TO BE ORDERED

Overhead Bridge Will be Placed Near Carlsbad and Turns Eliminated

As part of the plan of the State Highway Commission to reconstruct the coast route to San Diego and eliminate dangerous grade crossings and curves, the commission Saturday applied to the State Railroad Commission to construct an overhead bridge across the Santa Fe near Carlsbad.

According to Highway Commissioner Edwards, the commission and the Santa Fe will construct the bride jointly at an estimated cost of $33,000. The coast route will be changed at this point, he said, in order to approach the bridge to the west of Carlsbad and this will eliminate two dangerous right-angle turns and the grade crossing.

This work, the commissioner declared, is part of the commission's plan to spend $700,000 during 1925 in improving the route from the Orange county line to Oceanside. Last year the commission spent $600,000 in reconstructing the road from Oceanside to San Diego.

Besides the Carlsbad work, Commissioner Edwards said that the commission this year will straighten the route immediately south of the Orange county line, building two bridges across San Mateo and San Onofre creeks at a cost of about $200,000, shortening the route two-thirds of a mile and eliminating sixteen hazardous curves.

The road for its entire length from the county line to Oceanside will be widened, he said, and another grade crossing eliminated just north of Oceanside.

CHEMISTRY CLASS TO START

Manual Arts Evening High School, Forty-second street and Vermont avenue, announces a beginning class in chemistry on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.h., to start Tuesday evening. Students may take this work for college-entrance requirement and recommendation or anyone may join the class for special information.

WOMEN TAX RETURNS GAIN

Increase Over 55,000 Filings of 1924 Indicated by Figures at Revenue Office

More women are filing income-tax returns this year than ever before in the history of the Southern California internal revenue district, according to Collector Rex B. Goodcell. Records of his office show that 55,000 women last year reported personal income aggregating $160,503,614, the collector said. That amount was $15,000,000 more than the combined personal income of all classes reported in the States of Arizona, Utah and New Mexico.

A survey of the returns filed in this district last year show 8609 women filed income returns as heads of families, and reported personal incomes for the year amounting to $25,204,115. The survey shows also that 40,319 single women filed returns disclosing incomes aggregating $93,654,543. There were 6202 married women who filed returns separate from their husbands in which $41,644,956 was listed for taxation.

Personal income amounting to $1,197,020,908 was reported in joint returns filed by husbands and wives, and separate returns filed by single men and by men who were heads of families. Of these, 232,034 were joint returns on personal income aggregating $896,184,345. Men filing as heads of families numbered 23,171, and they reported personal income of $63,647,855. A total of 110,588 single men turned in personal incomes of $237,188,708 on which tax was paid.

More single women filed income returns in California than the combined number of similar returns filed in twenty States west of the Mississippi River, Collector Goodcell said.

BOY HIT BY WAVE; DROWNS

Body is Carried Out to Sea; Companion is Saved by Army Corporal's Fish Line

Washed off a rock on which they were playing yesterday near Point Fermin, one boy was carried to sea and drowned and another was pulled to safety after half an hour's fight by a line cast to sea by an Army corporal who discovered their plight.

The drowned boy was Harris Harper, 13 years of age, of 1520 End avenue, San Pedro. His body had not been recovered late yesterday, although police had dragged the spot where he was last seen.

The rescued boy is Jerome Paulston, 15, of 2832 Pacific avenue, San Pedro. He was dragged ashore by Corp. Elbert Burris, of Fort MacArthur, with a slender fishing-line that he had cast several feet out to sea.

The boys had been sitting on the rocky shore, watching the waves break. Near by Corp. Burris was fishing. Suddenly a huge wave broke over the boys, striking them with such force that they could not keep their footing on the slippery rock.

Burris rushed to the rocks where the boys were last seen and waited for them to reappear. In a few seconds the soldier saw the struggling form of Paulston more than a score of feet from the shore. Shouting to the boy to catch the line, Burris cast and succeeded in putting the cord within a few feet of the boy, who was able to tie the line around his body.

More than half an hour was required to drag the drowning boy to the shore. He was found to have been badly bruised on the rocks and to be suffering from effects of the near-drowning, and was taken to Hillside Hospital. He is not badly injured, physicians said.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

"ARE THE men and women of America all mad at each other?" asks an alarmed writer in "Asia."

The writer is the wife of a correspondent who has lived for many years in the Orient—the society life of the legations.

Out there, east of Suez, she says a bridge party or any social festivity would be unthinkable without men. Coming back to the "States," she is dismayed to find women playing a lone hand in the game of society.

The men, she says, also flock by themselves.

SMALL TALK

Almost every man is profoundly interested in some one woman; but, as a general thing, men and women are bored with one another.

Social wise guys tell you that this is because American men have no talent for small talk—like foreigners.

Of course, the exact reverse is the real explanation.

"DRAWING HIM OUT"

Personally, I very seldom meet a man who really bores me; just as seldom do I meet a woman who doesn't.

The reason for this is:

Men will nearly always tell me their real thoughts.

Women always try to be entertaining. Unfortunately, they have been brought up upon a profound social error. They have been told that men only like to talk about themselves. So they try to look very eager and animated and attempt a horrifying process called "drawing him out." So they gabble about the Lancer and the Pre-View; and how their friend, Mrs. Pickles, said I was a slick writer and so—to the point of collapse.

LIP ROUGE AND SUCH

All the while she is talking, I am thinking "My gosh, why don't you talk about something that really interests you?"

It wouldn't matter if it were lip rouge, or short skirts, or what to do when silk stockings "run"—or how to boil beef, or get divorces.

Almost any subject on earth is interesting if one will tear the cover off and really plunge down to the bottom of it.

INTERESTING FOREIGNERS

The reason that foreigners are more interesting than American men is because they do this.

It isn't because they have a talent for small talk. The exact reverse is true.

There isn't another city in the world where you meet so many charming foreigners as Hollywood; unless, possibly, Paris.

We say they are "naive." The real truth is that they talk of what really interests them. They are not afraid of boring you.

TOO MUCH MODESTY

An American man always suffers from modesty.

He always spoils every good story. He always stops in the middle of an absorbing conversation and, with a terrified expression, says:

"But I know this is boring you." And then, overcome by stage fright, he mumbles it to a close.

PAINFUL HUMOR

It is only when they try to be entertaining that they are not.

When they try to tell funny stories—and so on.

There are only a handful of men and women in the whole world who have enough of a peculiar genius to be entertainers.

Anyone who will tell you his real thoughts and experiences—or hers—is profoundly entertaining. It is only when they try to fake up thoughts—small talk—that they become a weariness to the flesh.

GUNNERS CELEBRATE TODAY

The seventy-eighth anniversary of the Battle of Buena Vista, the fight in which the old Third Artillery won its spurs, will be celebrated at Fort MacArthur today as the first annual Regimental Day of the Third U.S. Coast Artillery, re-inception of the most illustrious artillery regiment in the United States Army.

Battle streamers of the old Third, dating from Lundy's Lane to the last days of the Philippine insurrection, will this morning float from the regimental colors for the first time in more than a score of years. Maj. George Ruhlen, Jr., commanding the regiment and also commandant at Fort MacArthur, will review the artillerymen, while in the stand with him will be Col. Dan H. Dorsey.

Col. Dorsey staarted as a corporal in the old Third Artillery back in the eighties and rose to field rank while with the organization in the Philippines. His address, reviewing the history of the regiment since the war of 1812 will be delivered after the review.

Several thousand invited guests and former members of the Third Artillery are expected to be present at the post today during the all-day celebration, it was announced by Maj. Ruhlen. There will be a barbecue for the garrison and guests at noon, followed by a vaudeville and sports program during the afternoon. In the evening a dance will be held for the enlisted personnel in Recreation Hall.

MUSIC COMPANY GIVES PROGRAM

Most Selections Are From American Composers

Titus Fruit Cake Company to Make KHJ Debut

By CLARE FORBES CRANE

No man ever left his footprints on the sands of time whose ambitions or habits took him from the path of God. It was altogether fitting and proper that the birthday of George Washington should fall on the Sabbath, for no man in our history depended more upon the Master with the faith of a little child than the "Father of his Country" for the solution of all problems.

How little did he ever dream as he sat of a Sunday evening in his peaceful Mt. Vernon home, that in the years to come on some other eventide the great mystery of radio would carry his name by actual word of mouth to countless thousands of his children throughout the entire nation.

Perhaps we could have found no more fitting host for the occasion last evening than John D. Martin of the Martin Music Company. He is one of those straightforward sincere souls who constitute what George Washington meant by the word "gentleman." The program was arranged by J. Howard Johnson and included the following artists: The Philharmonic Quintet, composed of Jules Lepske, violin and director; Franz Lusschen, cello; Ernest Huber, duoble bass; Morris Wolfson, pianist; Ruth Pitts, coloratura soprano; Williaim Hullinger, flute; Alice Lee Wiley, composer-pianist; John Martin at the Gulbransen registeing piano, and the famous Battle Division Band from the U.S.S. West Virginia, Colorado, Tennessee, and Maryland under the direction of Bandmaster Charles R. Edison.

AMERICAN MUSIC

So far as possible the program was devoted to works of local and American composers. Carrie Jacobs Bond came in for a big share of the glory as Ruth Pitts sang "A Little Pink Rose" and "Life's Garden" with her usua llovely art, while the Philharmonic Quintet gave many of Mrs. Bond's smaller works.

The quintet proved as delightful as ever upon repetition, and Jules Lepske, its director, played as a solo Cadman's "The Legend of the Canyon." Mr. Lepske infused it with a keen insight into Cadman's sense of imagery and aroused great enthusiasm.

William E. Hullinger gave two manuscript numbers of Alice Lee Wiley, "Serenade" and "Dance Eccentrique," with the composer at the piano. Mrs. Wiley has a never-failing fund of melody and understanding of the capabilities of whatever instrument she writes for. She is an unusually gifted pianist and we feel sure that she felt most fortunate in securing the services of so facile a flutist as Mr. Hullinger.

USES OLD FLUTE

Besides these selections, Mr. Hullinger played "My Country 'Tis of Thee," on a flute used at Valley Forge in 1776.

John D. Martin at the Gulbransen registering piano, gave as a solo Victor Herbert's "Punchinello" and MacDowell's "Witches Dance." Mr. Martin gave a beautiful interpretation of the MacDowell selection. His shading of the chromatic runs sounded like a veritable wind and his phrasing of the melodic portion again demonstrated his complete mastery of his instrument.

The Battle Division Band repeated its former triumph under the skilled baton of Bandmaster Charles R. Edison and played an astonishingly versatile program ranging from marches to opera.

Do not forget friends that the Hazen J. Titus Fruit Cake Company will make its radio debut at KHJ this evening at 8 p.m., accompanied by "Little Hazen J. Titus." This is a young gentleman who is going to become one of the successes of the modern era and it would be a great pity if you did not stay at home and make his acquaintance. The program has been arranged by J. Howard Johnson, and is in the form of a super de luxe entertainment which will run for three hours, the first two hours to be devoted to the classics and semiclassics, while the last hour will resound with the popular modern-day type of entertainment. A grand array of prizes will be given away in connection with this program and it would behoove you to embrace this opportunity of collecting some prizes.

LAUGHING JACKASS INSULTS CHEF

Ambassador's Maestro of the Cullinary Department Goes Berserk When Bird Cries "Haw, Haw, Haw" at His Efforts to Tempt the Australian Palate

When a great culinary artist named Narcisse loses his temper he forgets the beautiful things implied by his name and goes berserk. Anyhow, Narcisse Bothereau, the Ambassador's high-powered chef, demonstrated the truth of this statement yesterday when he imagined himself insulted by a laughing jackass, which isn't a jackass at all but an Australian bird that looks like a stuffed owl and vocally resembles a hyena.

In an unguarded moment Narcisse, who is a great animal lover as well as a great chef, a time ago undertook to prepare special dishes for sundry exotic birds and beasts brough to the hotel as pets by guests from all parts of the world. He made a special brand of codfish balls for Guinevere, the seal, when she had toothache, prepared a delicate porridge plentifully mixed with iron filings for Umbopa, the ostrich chick accumulated by a well known African explorer, and concocted super hot tamales for Porfirio, the gila monster.

The laughing jackass, whose name is Rambo, was brought in by a wealthy Australian mineowner. Narcisse had trouble with this bird from the first. He tried to feed him many things but Rambo refused to eat.

Yesterday morning the laughing jackass showed signs of life for the first time when Narcisse, who waited on the bird himself, placed before him a dish of spaghetti mixed with shredded eucalyptus leaves and delicately flavored with garlic. Rambo opened an eye, ducked his head and peered suspiciously first at the chef and then at the food. Presently he absorbed a beakful, swallowing the mixture slowly. And then, without warning, Rambo ruffled up his feathered person, elevated his beak and let out a raucous "haw, haw, haw."

The amazed Frenchman stood immobile for a long moment. Then wrath seized him. "Sssacrrre," he hissed, wildly shaking his fists at the bird and simultaneously executing an impromptu war-dance. "Ees eet zat you laugh at me, moi, un grand artist de cuisine? Nom d'un nom, c'est infame. Peeg of a bird. J'ai prepare zee deesh like for zee crowned head and you laugh. Tonnerre de bon sang, c'est finis. Nevaire, nevaire again."

The excited artist de cuisine was finally pacified with soothing language spoken by Manager Ben Frank, who arrived on the scene in company with Art Margraff, in charge of the hotel's athletics. "We'll relieve you of all this menagerie feeding in the future It isn't in your line, anyway. Suppose you take it over, Margraff."

"Oh, very well," responded the athletic one with true Teutonic phlegm. "Haw, haw, haw," observed Rambo, the laughing jackass.

COLLEGE HEADS COMMEND DRIVE

Adrian College, Adrian, Mich.: "The observance of the prohibition requirement of the Constitution is no longer a question of personal liberty, but a patriotic issue of the largest significance. It is a question of whether or not we will be a law-abiding people. This great reform is thoroughly based upon an unquestioned social obligation. It is a step forward in both national and racial progress which will prevent a return to former conditions."

Archelaus E. Turner, LL. D., president Lincoln College, Lincoln, Ill.: "If I were to enumerate a certain great gain due to the prohibition movement, I should say that the most important one is the removing of direct temptation from the youths of the country. I am equally sure that 'the un-American spirit of poor sportsmanship exhibited by otherwise good citizens' is the greatest menace in the present situation to citizenship and national morality."

Frank Collins Taylor, acting president, Pacific University, Forest Grove, Or.: "Is it not quite the rule to interpret law by the way it is observed? If prominent people would observe the laws strictly it would do more than anything else to encourage respect for law."

ECONOMIC RESULTS

Emory W. Hunt, president, Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa.: "The economic results already realized from prohibition even partially achieved give ample justification for the law. Any good American citizen ought either voluntarily to obey the law or emigrate."

Other communications of like tone were received from William J. Martin, president of Davidson College, Davidson, N. C.; Harvey W. Cox, president Emory University, Emory, Ga.; William F. Anderson, acting president of Boston University, Boston, Mass.; Paul F. Vollker, president Olivet College, Olivet, Mich.; Henry C. King, president of Oberlin College, Oberlin, O.; E. E. BISHOP HITS AT GAYETY SEARCH

KNIGHTS PARADE

The parade was led by Joseph Scott, bearing the pontifical decoration of Knight of St. Gregory; B. J. Leonard, Master of the Fourth Degree for the Southern California district; Thomas B. White, State Deputy, and John P. Curtin, Grand Marshal.

In the regalia of the degree, full dress with sabers, the parading Knights presented an impressive spectacle.

The parade followed a solemn pontifical mass at the Cathedral, South Main and Second streets. The line of march was west on second street to Broadway, Broadway to Seventh street, thence to Flower street and to the Knights' Hall at 612 South Flower street, and after disbanding the marchers attended luncheon at the Elite.

At 2 o'clock the Fourth Degree was exemplified for the candidates by a drill team including B. J. Leonard, Judge Paul J. McCormick, F. J. Barry, W. M. Pursell, Dr. T. M. Savage, Nicholas J. Martin, Rev. Francis Connaty and Thomas Dockweiler. Meanwhile, a reception for the ladies of the visiting candidates was in progress at the Biltmore, under a committee headed by Mrs. Arnold Burkelman.

TWENTY-THREE ARE CONFIRMED

Bishop Johnson at Church of St. Athanasius

Brief Service Pervaded by Solemnity and Charm

Says Religion is Important Factor of Civilization

BY ALMA WHITAKER

It is just a brief little service, but fraught with peculiar solemnity, charm, spiritual dedication.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop J. J. Johnson visited the little Church of St. Anthanasius yesterday morning to confirm twenty-three of its young people, who "having now come to years of discretion and having learned what their godfathers and godmothers promised for them in their baptism, they may themselves, with their own mouths, consent openly and before the church ratify and confirm the same . . . ."

There is something extraordinarily lovely about these boys and girls, just emerging into manhood, womanhood, thus taking new vows, and kneeling before the altar to receive the bishop's blessing in their solemn resolution.

Old faces, a little weary in repose, even here and there a little hardened, smiled and softened and became glad in this atmosphere. Young parents waxed proud and happy smaller brothers and sisters alert with interest—and the kindly pastor of the church, Rev. Thomas Marshall, justly radiant in this consummation for his young charges.

For weeks beforehand these boys and girls have been preparing themselves for this step, studying the beauty of their church's creed, its lofty principles, the inner spiritual meaning behind the practical solace of its prayers, and the designed formality of its divine services.

The soft and pregnant strains of the organ music open the service, as the white surpliced choir, preceded by the cross-bearer, files up the aisle, the pastor and the bishop in the rear, break out into an ever-rising volume of praise-song as they take their place in the chancel.

After a message of divine grace from the pastor, the whole congregation recites the Confession, "Almighty and most merciful Father, we have erred and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep . . ." kneeling right down upon their knees, and still kneeling, the pastor pronounces the Absolution. "Almighty God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he may turn from his wickedness and live. . . ." "He pardoneth and absolveth all them that truly repent. . . ."

This is followed by the paean of joy, sung with tremendous enthusiasm, "O come let us sing unto the Lord, let us heartily rejoice in the strength of our salvation."

A firm, clear recital of the Lord's Prayer, the responsive reading of the Psalms for the day, preceded the reading of the lesson from Isaiah VI. Then came the unison singing of the Te Deum Laudamus, the last verse of which had peculiar significance for these young people. "O Lord in thee have I trusted, let me never be confounded."

With the reading of the preface first quoted, Dr. Marshall presented the young people to the bishop, who asked them whether they understood the vow they were about to ratify.

Clearly, unhesitatingly they answered in unison, "I do."

The Bishop then offered a devout prayer that they might be strengthened "with the Holy Ghost and Comforter," and "daily increase in Thy manifold gifts of grace."

He then placed his hands upon each separate young head, murmuring over each in turn:

"Defend, O Lord, this, Thy child, with Thy Heavenly Grace, that he may continue Thine forever, and daily increase in Thy Holy Spirit more and more until he come unto Thy everlasting kingdom."

The bishop then recited ardent prayers for these children's guidance and inspiration, concluding with a profound blessing.

The bishop's sermon was brief but pregnant with inspiration. What did we understand by religion? Was it merely a system of conduct by which we hoped to save our own souls in the hereafter?

On the contrary, he said, it was for here and now. Civilization must be founded upon religion. God's great purpose is to build up a great civilization on earth that shall reach perfection, and the purpose of religion is to bring men into a personal relationship with God in the creation of this nobler, better civilization. The religion of Jesus Christ is for the present, to make the world a more decent, honorable worthwhile place to live in.

The bishop quoted fom the Prophet Micah iv, 4. "And they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree, and none shall make them afraid, for the Mouth of the Lord of Hosts hath spoken it."

This he interpreted as meaning that a great justice and peace and worthiness shall have come to the world, honesty, kindliness, the brotherhood of man.

"I like to think of Heaven as a place where I can live with my friends under the highest principles, that Heaven will be a civilization of the nth power." We were, therefore, not to be religious because we wanted to go to Heaven when we died, but because we wanted to play our part in building up God's great civilization—just as fine men made tremendous sacrifices for their country in times of war, so must each generation make fine sacrifices for the upbuilding and defense of God's civilization here on earth. He warned the young people not to mistake "an emotional experience" for religion—until it has been translated in some fine unselfish act.

Religion, he said, is very real, very genuine, very important to present life and to civilization.

VISITOR URGES RURAL POLICE

Ex-Chief of Constabulary in New York Here

Cites Benefits of Troopers to Empire State

Says 200 Men Would Guard All of California

Rural police in every State in the Union would materially cut down America's annual criminal record, asserts Dr. G. F. Chandler of Kingston, N. Y., organizer of New York's State police and until a year ago superintendent of that force of officers.

Dr. Chandler, here on a vacation and guest at the Biltmore, bases his assertion on the results of the work of the Empire State's rural constabulary, created in 1917.

"Convictions have been obtained in 93 per cent of the arrests made by the New York State police," Dr. Chandler said. "It has practically eliminated tramps from the rural districts, checked strikes and riots in numerous instances, enabled farmers to return to sheep-raising by exterminating sheep-killing dogs, afforded protection for women and children in remote districts, and in general, has put an end to rural crime. The farming population is the department's strongest supporter."

The New York State police consists of 500 men, recruited from the ranks of former service men and the State Militia. Military in organization, only men with some army training are permitted to join the force. It is maintained at an expense to the State of $7.23 a day per man, or a total of $1,300,000 annually.

The men are divided into six groups, each located at a strategic point in the State, so connected by railroads that the entire force can be mobilized on short notice. The telephone companies co-operate with the department in furnishing speedy communication. The remotest telephone instrument in the State can speedily get in touch with the rural police at any time of the day or night. The troopers, as they are called, work in pairs and are constantly traveling over their respective districts, using horses, flivvers and motorcycles.

"I believe every State should establish a rural police department," said Dr. Chandler. "Its cost is insignificant in comparison with benefits. The New York department has saved the State many millions of dollars a year. In California, which could be handled easily by a force of 200 men, I believe you would find that the department would pay for the initial cost in two years, and after that it would yield the State a profit."

Dr. Chandler, who is a surgeon, resigned as head of the State police to resume his profession. He served as an adjutant of the First New York Brigade on the Mexican border in 1916 and during the war was a major in the Marine Corps. In 1921 he established a State school for police at Troy the first of its kind in the United States.

DEBATE ON EVOLUTION CANCELED

Prof. Linsey Says Discussion of School Study Issue Not Advisable

The debate on the teaching of evolution in the public schools that was scheduled to take place between Rev. W. B. Riley, nationally known pioneer fundamentalist, and Earl G. Linsey, a professor in the Berkeley Divinity School, in the Bible Institute tonight, has been called off.

Rev. Riley will appear at the scheduled time and will speak on the subject, "Resolved, That Evolution as Taught in the Public Schools of California is Unscientific, Unscriptural and Anti-Christian."

Prof. Linsey has telegraphed that he has been advised by church leaders and others that such a debate would be inadvisable and he canceled his appearance.

Rev. Riley said the meeting tonight will organize a "Society of Defenders of Science."

REPORTS LOSS OF HIS PEARL-SET MONOCLE

A pearl-studded monocle, valued at $500, was lost by Gerald E. Sennell, a guest at the Ambassador, Saturday night. Mr. Sennell reported to Wilshire police that he discovered the loss shortly after he left the Horse Show. Search for the missing eyeglass is being conducted by Detective Lieutenant Erven.

ANTI-MIDWAY MEN TO MEET

Plans for continuing their campaign against the Washington Midway will be discussed tonight by members of the Anti-Washington Midway Association at 649 West Washington street. The association is arranging the protest against the ordinance of intention should the Council overrule the Mayor's veto.

"no more bloating and discomfort after eating"
A Los Angeles lady writes:—"Am glad to say I did not make a mistake when I ordered the first case of Mountain Valley Water. By the time I had finished the second case the swelling was gone out of my ankles, the rheumatism in my feet and legs was gone and I had no more bloating and discomfort after eating." Come in and see the letters from former sufferers who have been benefited by the use of this famous water from Hot Springs, Ark. Let it help you on the road to health. Phone for a case.

WEATHER VANE

Pictures of bathing girls do not show which way the wind blows, but they tell which way the man is looking.

THE LONG STRETCH

This naval talk about a ten-year holiday will interest a lot of lazy folk. A ten-year holiday sounds sweet, indeed.

THE WOODEN HORSE

At least a wooden horse for Presidential exercise is not as ominous as a regiment of cavalry on the battle line. If the President wants his hobby let him have one made of home-grown pine.

PESKY HUSBANDS

A woman explains in court that her husband lost her fairly and squarely in a poker game and, therefore, could have no further claim upon her life or morals. It's a mean husband that would welch on a poker game.

YOUTHFUL REDS

Fourteen-year-old Morris Specter of Brooklyn, N. Y., boy orator who advocated a United States soviet, may be the forerunner of a race of babies who stay red, but this seems unlikely. It is quite usual for them to be born red, occasionally yellow, sometimes they even grow up yellow, but to stay red is a new departure.

HIGHWAY PERILS

One of the most venerable of pioneers recently told of his narrow escape from being run over by an ox team while on his way to school as a child. They had their highway perils when the country was young, but what would the Pilgrim Fathers have done had they been compelled to face the Broadway traffic instead of the redskins? They would have found more peril in the glut of Fords than in the whole Algonquin race.

RAISING THE ANTE

Congressmen voted with decided unanimity to increase their own pay to $10,000 a year. They didn't require an extended legislative investigation of the high cost of living before acting. All they needed was somebody with sufficient courage to propose such a measure in the face of the Coolidge pronouncements for economy. It might be all right with the American people if Congress would fill up with $10,000 men, but the kick comes when the jobs go to a group of firecracker politicians who could hardly earn $6 a day in a barber shop.

THE DISARMAMENTS

Some of the statesmen who are emphasizing the pitiful helplessness of our country in time of war forget that the attention of almost the whole world is now directed to the cause of disarmament. One might imagine that they were trying to make it unanimous. If that is the case the weaker we are in war material the better off we are. The time to worry would be when other nations began to complain because we were disarming too fast and getting rich at it. The country that first gets its swords into plowshares will have the long end of the money, and the power.

ABOUT MILK

The New York State Department of Health has put forward a plea that all milk except certified and Grade A be pasteurized. During the past six years raw milk has caused thirty-nine epidemics of communicable disease in the State and for the same time only nine similar epidemics were traceable to pasteurized milk from the whole country. All this gives additional urgency to the plea of the Health Department; of course, if palates were arbiters, raw milk would have the preference for "grown-ups," to say nothing of its greater value as nourishment; but health must be maintained, and where the kiddies are concerned "the shortest distance between two pints (of milk) is one smile."

POKER AND PRISON

It is said that the poker game at the Atlanta prison is so heavy that nobody, save a star mail robber or a bootlegger, can keep up with it. Even the warden was afraid to sit in when they were playing stud at $25 a card. One of the prisoners admitted having cleaned up $12,000, but said it made no difference, as he had no place to spend the money, anyhow. It would seem that this idea of using the prisons for gambling joints is in keeping with an efficiency program. The influence of the players does not extend beyond their own class. There is no lure. If it becomes necessary to pinch the game the players can be locked up without hurting their feelings and reputations. Also, while the performers are dealing pasteboards, they are not trying to saw their way out.

MULTIPLE TAXATION

Addressing the National Tax Association, the President recently called attention to the glaring and palpable injustice of the multiple taxation of inherited incomes. He gave a concrete instance of how a single share of stock may be taxed seven times by the Federal and State governments; and he said that the multiple taxes and the cost of the transfers frequently exceed the value of the stock.

This multiple taxation evil has grown since the war until it often amounts to confiscation of small blocks of stock; and the waste is so great that the heir may lose the inheritance without any of the governments materially benefiting. In this connection the President pertinently said:

> The most obvious field for economy is for the government to spend less. It is, however, equally desirable that the burden put by the government on its citizens be productive of government revenue and not destructive of the property of the taxpayer, for it is what the taxpayers give, rather than what the government ultimately spends, which measures the effect of the tax upon the citizen. We should, therefore, by a simplification of our methods of taxation and the imposition of economically sound rates of taxation, make certain that the government realizes more nearly the values which the citizen relinquishes.

The source of the confusion and multiplication of estate taxes is to be found in the fact that the right to inherit owes its existence solely to State laws. It is not a right guaranteed by the Constitution or by any Federal law. State laws alone permit the transfer of property by will or by lineal descent when a will is lacking. And the States grow continuously more eager to get a large slice of the property so transferred.

Most confused and muddled of all are the laws relating to the inheritance of stocks and bonds. These may be taxed, according to the President: "By the Federal government; by the State where you were domiciled; by some other State which may also claim that you were one of its citizens; by the State where your certificate of stock was kept; by the State where your certificate of stock must be transferred on the corporation's books; by the State where is organized the corporation whose capital stock is involved; by the State or States where the corporation owns property."

When one considers that this is not jest, but serious, that the President spoke from records compiled by the Treasury Department, it becomes apparent that the point is well-nigh reached when ownership of certificates of stock at one's death may be included in the debts of the estate and not among its assets.

Stressing the fact that "the right to inherit owes its existence, not to any Federal law, but to the laws of the States," the President said that the time has come when the Federal government should seriously consider whether the time has not arrived when it should withdraw from estate taxation. He said that this was adopted as a war emergency, that similar taxation had been resorted to before under similar emergencies and that the government always withdrew when the emergency ceased to exist.

But it is plain that the withdrawal of the Federal government would make but a slight lightening of the load. The States pass inheritance tax laws without any consideration of whether they will result in multiple taxation of the same property. Each State is a jurisdiction unto itself. There is no regard for the right of the individual; on the other hand, the view seems to be to get as much money from the estate as possible.

Unless some measure is placed upon this multiple taxation it is bound to discourage the holding of stocks and bonds as investments. It serves to discourage the small stockholder; and experience has proved that the corporations give the best service whose securities are held by the greatest number of individuals. In referring to the attitude of the States the President said:

> A solution of the problem presents the difficulty of obtaining reciprocal action on the part of the States, but I feel that, in fairness to each other and to their taxpayers, they will find a way of obviating this extravagance by giving up entirely the collection of taxes upon personal property of nonresident decedents or by the imposition upon the transfer of such property of a tax extremely simple in administration and small in amount.

If the representatives from the sovereign States to the session of the National Tax Association, which the President addressed, will make a concerted effort to bring before the people of the different States the necessity for following the President's advice, it is possible that something in the way of co-ordinated legislation may result. The present condition is repugnant to all ideas of justice and equity in taxation.

FRANCE'S PREDICAMENT

New regulations to encourage births in the Department of the Seine speak for themselves.

In order to stimulate the ever-falling birth rate in the Department of the Seine, in which the city of Paris is situated, the money prizes for new babies have been augmented.

The increase offered is from 300 francs to 350 for the third child; 400 to 450 for the fourth and so on up to 800 for the eighth.

When, in the beginning of the nineteenth century, Malthus's essay on population was published France took up the speculative hypothesis greedily. French economists, imbued with liberal ideas, promulgated the "moral-restraint" feature of the Malthusian theory with the result that in the middle of the century it became fashionable to curtail prolific families. Malthus based his control of population on the demand for food.

French agricultural resources precluded the threat of potential starvation. But in the wake of revolutionary ideas and the lapse from a high moral standard French Liberals, inspired by Voltaire and Rousseau, took up the slogan of "preventive checks" as a handle to drown religious scruples. Had economists in those days foreseen the results of spreading such doctrine they would probably have curtailed their tongues and pens rather than cause a decrease of France's population; for at heart they were patriots.

The harm, however, was done and present generations pay the penalty. Importation of foreign labor may for the time being offset the demand of working forces for the maintenance of increased industry and agriculture, but the injection of foreign blood must of necessity help to deteriorate the home-bred stock of the French people. Agencies are working overtime in Italy, Poland, Spain and Belgium to enlist alien workers. Since 1922 the foreign influx of this heterogeneous importation has increased from 3000 to 6000 a week in 1924 and permanent settlers become more numerous in proportion annually.

Depending on foreign infusion of new blood or facing inevitable extinction is the present painful plight of this proud and ancient French nation. Race suicide was not in the minds of those who encouraged Malthusianism during the last century, but the inexorable laws of nature may not be disregarded with impunity.

Inevitable race extinction is not an exaggerated illusion of pessimistic fancy. Such symptoms are known in contemporary history. The Masai tribe in Africa is a glaring example of nature's retribution. In 1900 a census of the tribe taken by Sir Charles Elliott, then Commissioner of British East Africa, accounted for 250,000 Masai. In 1920 the census returns were reduced to a bare 25,000. While the cause of Masai extinction was not an economic phantasm of gloomy economists, the same effect attends on all causes which play havoc with prospects of future generations.

Mistaken conclusions from such premises as Malthus's "preventive checks" and Darwin's "struggle for existence" are more readily arrived at than corrected. Both utterances were starting points in the decline of births in France. Taken up by the would-be educated and intellectuals, they are a menace to the dupes who blindly follow blind leaders. Belated or half-hearted admissions of the responsible author are not promulgated as freely as their former brusque statements. Malthus confessed:

"It is probable that, having found the bow bent too much one way, I was induced to bend it too much the other way in order to make it straight."

SLOVENLY SPEECH

Our women lose no opportunity to tone up the standards of the nation. After devoting much time and effort to the improvement of our morals and manners they have turned their attention to "American as she is spoke." For this purpose the General Federation of Women's Clubs has designated this "Better Speech Week." Here it is sponsored by the Los Angeles Ebell Club.

For seven days every individual in the Angel City is urged to polish his speech, avoid slang and loose phrases, steer clear of slovenly and slipshod sentences and start a drive on the many little foxes that destroy the beauty of a noble language.

No better desire for a worthier object has been conceived by the leaders of American betterment. Unhappily, however, one week of carefully guarding the unruly member will hardly correct years of letting it run wild. We know that one week's drive on speeders has done little to curb the hot haste of the motor-car driver. The tongue in a hurry is as hard to control as the foot that "steps on the gas."

The "ain't" and "you was" and "he don't" of lifelong usage will scarcely yield a permanent right of way to "isn't" and "you were" and "he doesn't" after a seven-days' sentence to the public pillory. A Better American Speech Week at best is but a preliminary to a Better American Speech Year and a Better American Speech Century. Unless it is followed up by a campaign to include the street as well as the school, the biscuit factory as well as the brain emporium, the park bench as well as the judicial bench, it will hardly leave a dent on the commonly accepted vernacular.

However, every reform must start from somewhere and a week's devotion to the cause of good speech is a move in the right direction. Americans do not have to emphasize their independence by murdering the English language. While no doubt, as H. L. Mencken so insistently maintains, we now possess a language distinctly different from the language spoken by our kin overseas, he also admits naively that the superiority of the American language is that it is less adulterated and so more purely—English.

Slovenly speech, bad grammar, tiresomely repeated slang, sloppy diction and shabby talk react on the morals and manners of a whole people and so are perils that call for correction. Therefore, all Americans who love their native land should help to make a success of Better Speech Week for the maintenance of a better English tongue.

FORCE OF EXAMPLE

The world in general is getting better, but in many instances the home is getting worse. Why is the home not keeping pace with commerce, industry and science?

Our age has witnessed the breaking down of conventions, the dissolution of ties and obligations that were once regarded as secure and sacred. It has been the revolt of youth against old restrictions and the larger liberty if not license of those who refuse to acknowledge authority, whether in home, classroom or the larger sphere of social action; for now a time has come to mock at form.

There is evidently no limit to our search for independence and freedom of action. Even laws imposed by constituted authority are flaunted and disobeyed, and this by the so-called "best people" in our communities. It is little wonder that this is so, for laws will not be obeyed by men and women who lack deep moral and spiritual convictions. Lightly esteemed and quickly dissolved are sacred marital ties, where caprice of convenience dictates the desirability of new associations and larger freedom of action.

Where there are no such things as parental obligations, where love interprets itself in terms of lust, we can hardly expect refinement and reverence for sacred things and institutions, if there is nothing holy and refined for the sensitive and imitative youth.

If fathers and mothers think it clever to evade or disobey wholesome conventions or laws, if they make a travesty of religion and disclose no reverence for sacred things and institutions and no discipline or restraints are to be observed, except as leisure or convenience dictates, whither, in the name of God and of all things decent, is our civilization drifting?

PLIABLE FINANCE

As an outgrowth of a recent gathering in Washington efforts are being made in a number of States for the establishment or extension of farmers' credit unions. Credit unions are explained as voluntary organizations of farmers and others who pool their credit and resources and then issue bonds and other securities against them. It is argued that credit unions are proper adjuncts to other forms of agricultural co-operation and their worth is said to have been actually demonstrated in several States. The Farm Loan Boards are helping the rural districts a whole lot, however, and the credit unions would become unsafe were they to become too elastic.

MUSHLESS MUSHERS

Recent events in Alaska also have served to demonstrate what a mighty difference there is between a musher and a masher.

DILL PICKLES

There is something about a dill pickle that always saddens me. I don't know what it is, but I never could look a dill pickle in the eye without a lump coming up into my throat. They seem to live so much within themselves. Companionship doesn't mean much in their sad, short existence. And so I am always kind to them and considerate of their feelings, for beneath their rough outer surface I am sure a heart of gold beats within, a heart filled with compassion and tenderness.

Their lives are filled with woe. Plucked in the bloom of youth and immersed in a sea of brine, their piteous cries unheeded, their vitality sapped, their careers curtailed, they pass a harried existence for the glory of some red-nosed delicatessenist, to be buried eventually in an onion sandwich or drawn and quartered and chopped into chowchow.

Lonely, heartsick, sorrowing, onward through life they go, with never a murmur, never a sigh. Although I have met thousands of them, I have yet to hear one bewail his sad lot. Intrepid, courageous little souls, pitiful examples of man's inhumanity to pickles! That's why I never eat—

Although the California Legislature ratified the ment by a large majority, one of the most thought speeches opposing ratification developed during deba ment in the legislative body of this State.

The argument against ratification was made Frank L. Coombs of Napa, veteran legislator, former United States Minister. The address of Mr. Coom dered printed in the Assembly Journal, follows in its

No truth was ever told more sublime than that which was uttered once by Byron: "A thousand years scarce serve to build a State; an hour may lay it in the dust." With that momentous question we are now to deal, for I feel that we have in our hands the fate of a nation.

It has been the idea of republics, ancient and modern, to keep government near the people. Original discipline originates in the family; by the care and the discipline of the mother and the father the children are reared and grown to manhood, and republics, when they yield that principle, hover close around the verge of monarchy.

Take the Roman system with all of its imperialism. They observed a rule of conduct as necessary to their existence and their national life; it was in order to preserve the independence of the communities which made up the empire. There was constituted through Italy the township government, from which we derive our own; their independence was recognized and local government was encouraged, and the hand of the imperial government, with its symbols of power, with its gilded eagles, never invaded the rights of the home, and wherever a Roman happened to be he was a citizen of Rome. But that republic could not have so long survived, could not have grown without the recognition of the first and abiding principle of national life—that government began at the fireside.

In the early part of the fifth century the Saxon, the Jute and the Angles invaded England, bringing the love of the old Roman system of township government, and from this the home was built and fostered, the Common Council evolved and Magna Charta was achieved, and from all these developed the Parliament. I love to read of that old English institution, with its love of the home life, where every man's house was his castle. The wind might whistle through it, the rain might enter it, but the King could not.

Every State in this Union has a republican form of government with all of the powers over the household and the family, and it has been styled the wisest conception of government ever suggested by wisdom or sanctioned by time. And who, now, is endeavoring to destroy it?

Every time you vote for an amendment to the Constitution of the United States of this character you are giving away something that belongs to you as a principle upon which your life estate was established and by virtue of which it has existed for 130 years. The very moment you pass an amendment like this you destroy something that was vital in the conception of original government, something that should belong to it, and when you give it away you take it from yourselves, and you cannot get it back. And some one has said, "Oh, Congress would not abuse the power," and that is the only defense that I have heard.

I have always understood that the framers of this government were never trained to the giving away of a power which might be exercised to their detriment upon the simple hope that it would not be exercised. The whole thought of constitutions is to abridge the right of government so that powers tyrannical or arbitrary are rendered impossible and not permissible.

There is no power of the government of the United States that can be exercised except it is exercised by agents sent out from a distant capital, just as Jefferson penned in his declaration, complaining of the government of England. There the monarch was 2500 miles away, situated upon a throne of ancient lineage, and our homes are about 3000 miles away, planted upon banks of majestic rivers, by the growths that clothe the world and meet the sky, under trees planted by God himself. How can you reach the government in supplication, in complaint of injury and oppression? You cannot. Some vicious whisper brings an agent to investigate you, poking his nose into your household affairs. Regulation, they say. They say they will not prohibit, that they will merely regulate. To me to prohibit is a less evil than to regulate.

To regulate you. How can they act in consonance with this amendment except to regulate? How can regulation be anything except a change in the style of government which you, yourselves, have enacted for your home affairs? How can they regulate except to disturb the home discipline? Regulation is worse than to prohibit. I would rather they would say, "You shall not work at all, but lie in idleness until you are 18," rather than to regulate. You say there is no danger. I tell you there is now going through this world, of which you sit here and think not, a danger widespread. The seeds of disintegration seem to be sown upon fallow soil. It reaches from Moscow to Siberia; it can reach out its hand across the wastes and the snows into the little household of the peasant and you cannot be too guardful of its influence here.

The official journal of the soviet commissariat of the public education says: "We must nationalize the children. We must remove the children from the pernicious influence of the family."

Man stands ever at the door, the tutelary guardian of his own kingdom. Let us not destroy it. And you women, I appeal to you now. Do not resign or delegate the

ARCHITECTS TO DRAFT HOSPITAL

Requirements for County Building Decided

Association Will Submit $4,000,000 Program

Work to Start on Project Within Ninety Days

Bringing to a conclusion a series of meetings, conducted for the purpose of studying the requirements for the new $4,000,000 County Hospital, the Allied Architects' Association is now engaged in writing a program in which these requirements will be set forth. This program will in all probability be ready for distribution among the seventy members of the association during the latter part of the week, and on the basis of the program the individual members of the organization will work out designs for further study and discussion.

At a joint meeting of the association, the medical staff of the County Hospital and members of the Board of Supervisors last week, eleven preliminary designs, prepared under the supervision of the association's jury of design, were submitted and discussed, and the conclusions reached in this informal discussion are now being embodied in the written program.

FOUR-BLOCK AREA

Supervisor Bean, chairman of the building committee of the Board of Supervisors, announced at the meeting that the county is now purchasing an area of four square blocks, immediately adjoining the present County Hospital, and bounded by Griffin avenue, Marengo street, State street and Brittania avenue. Title to this land will pass to the county within the next ninety days, Mr. Bean said, and grading for the new building will be started immediately upon the transfer of the site to the county.

Plans call for a 1500-bed hospital for acute cases, with accommodations for the hospital staff, and with complete service equipment.

Through the preliminary studies made by the association, with the assistance of the staff physicians and of a number of hospitalization experts, the conclusion has been reached that the hospital should, in general, comprise a group of great ward buildings, of about eight stories in height, with the administration and service buildings immediately adjoining. The building will be of Class A construction, and will be one of the finest and most modern structures of its kind in the country.

PHYSICIANS ATTEND

The program now being prepared for distribution among members of the Allied Architects' Association, is being written under supervision of Edward Bergstrom, president of the organization, and Myron Hunt, vice-president and chairman of the jury of design.

Among those who attended the last meeting, in addition to members of the association and of the Board of Supervisors, were Dr. N. N. Wood, superintendent of the hospital; Dr. P. Berman, assistant superintendent; Dr. George H. Kress, assistant superintendent; Dr. M. G. Carter, Dr. Fred W. Fuller, Dr. W. H. Bucher, Dr. F. E. Mattison, chairman of the medical board; Dr. J. H. Seymour, chief of surgical service; Dr. John V. Barrow, chief of medical service, Dr. Percy T. Magan, and Dr. Donald E. Baxter.

Suburbs Will Act on Forming Sanitation Unit

Representatives of El Monte, Monterey Park, South Pasadena and Alhambra will hold a joint meeting Friday evening at the El Monte Chamber of Commerce and will take official action toward the organization of Sanitation District No. 7 of Los Angeles county, preparatory to the territory's participation in the metropolitan sewer system.

Directly following the organization of District Seven, steps will be taken towards the voting of bonds to defray the district's portion of the cost of the main outfall sewer of the system and the cost of trunk sewers within the district. Sanitation Districts No. 1 and 2 have already adopted their respective bond issues by large majorities and District No. 5 will vote Tuesday for its share of the project's financing.

The principal speaker at the preorganization meeting in El Monte Friday evening will be County Sanitation Engineer A. K. Warren, designer of the metropolitan sewer project. The entire county territory outside of Los Angeles will be served by the extensive system.

Farm Delegates to See Valley and Visit Yuma

The California Farm Land Conference at El Centro, the 26th to 28th insts., will call large delegations of members of the California State Real Estate Association from Los Angeles, Pasadena, Glendale, Long Beach, Huntington Park, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica, Santa Ana, San Bernardino, Ontario, Redlands, Anaheim and other cities, it was announced yesterday by Glenn D. Willaman, secretary of the association.

The real estate men will meet at the Mission Inn, Riverside, at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, and after luncheon will make a daylight run into the Imperial Valley. Friday evening they will be guests of the Calexico Chamber of Commerce and on Saturday will visit the headgates of the Imperial Irrigation District, attend the highway celebration at Yuma and take part in the festivities there.

J. Bradley Clayton of San Jose, chairman of the farm lands committee, will preside at the conference. The State president, B. Richard Ainsley of Fresno, will be present. Among the speakers will be several of the Los Angeles delegation.

FEARS HER CONFIDENCE MISPLACED

Judge in Divorce Hearing Says Home Wrecker Unfit for Woman's Trust

Judge Summerfield heard the testimony in the suit of Jack Sandfelder for divorce from Stella Sandfelder, and made a decision, awarding the husband a decree. But the proceedings left a question in the mind of the court that none of the witnesses was able to answer.

The interrogation mark arose at the end of one of the letters Sandfelder introduced in support of his charge that his wife had become infatuated with another man. They had quarreled over this issue, he said, and the letter was one he told the court he had intercepted, after his wife had written it.

"Dear daddy," it read. "Well, honey, the crash came yesterday. My home is broken up. Mr. Sandfelder saw us together yesterday and—oh, well, what's the use. You can guess the rest.

"I'm turned out without a cent and no place to go. Pleasant prospect, isn't it. I have only one friend left. I place all my trust and love in you. Are you going to stand by me or not?"

Judge Summerfield read the letter and granted Sandfelder a divorce.

"Did this man she addressed stand by her?" he wanted to know, though. No one present was able to answer that question.

"My guess would be that he did not. It has been my observation after a good many years on this bench, that women who place their trust in men who do not hesitate to break up other men's homes, are leaning on reeds."

STILL SEEK WOMAN IN UTAH CASE

Police and Mexican Consul Believe Mrs. Alameda is in Vicinity

Search for Mrs. Refugio Alameda, formerly of Salt Lake City, is being conducted here by a representative of Carlos Azia, Mexican Consul at Salt Lake, who hopes by finding her to save the life of Pedro Cano, sentenced to die in Utah for first-degree murder, according to dispatches.

Cano was granted a reprieve when, shortly before the date set for his execution he made a statement blaming Mrs. Alameda for the killing of June St. Clair, for which he had been convicted and sentenced to be shot. A complaint charging Mrs. Alameda with murder is in the hands of County Attorney McDonough of Salt Lake, but no warrant has been issued and none will be until Mrs. Alameda is found. McDonough, according to the dispatches, says he believes Mrs. Alameda can prove an alibi and he will do nothing if he can avoid it that will prejudice the case against Cano.

The banquet was given at Marchetti's and Von Stroheim and his wife as well as the forty-two actors were present. The gift of the cigarette case came at the conclusion of the evening and was a surprise to the director.

Of solid gold, the case has the director's coat of arms, in green gold set with diamonds on one side, while a bar of the "Merry Widow Waltz" runs diagonally across the other side. Facsimile signatures of the forty-two donors are engraved on the inside covering the entire space.

PLANS SERVICES FOR MISSIONS OVERSEAS

WOMAN'S FEDERATION TO CONDUCT MEETING NEXT FRIDAY

A day of prayer services, in the interest of foreign missions being carried on by the Disciples of Christ, will be conducted at the First Christian Church next Friday, under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Federation.

The morning session will begin with an address on "The Morning Watch" by Bishop William Burt and among other speakers will be Mrs. Lena L. Fisher, Mrs. C. E. Richards and several missionaries returned from foreign fields.

Following luncheon at the church, another session will be conducted at 1 p.m. and the speakers will include Miss Winifred Rouzee, Rev. Ernest Byshe and Mrs. J. S. Norvell. Vocal selections will be given by Mrs. M. Howard Fagan and Mrs. Marguerite Baldwin. The public is invited to both sessions.

WOMAN GAS VICTIM

Sister Arrives Just in Time to Prevent Fatal Accident

Timely arrival of her sister saved Mary McGowen, 21 years of age, of 711 South Westlake avenue, from accidental death by asphyxiation yesterday at her home, according to Wilshire police.

The sister, Mrs. Katherine Thompson, found Miss McGowen on a couch in a room filled with gas escaping from a defective connection. Mrs. Thompson opened windows and summoned Wilshire police.

Miss McGowen was resuscitated at the Receiving Hospital, to which she was taken by Detective Colber, and will recover, physicians stated.

FENCE HIT IN LETTER

Woman Gets Note Signed K.K.K. Ordering Its Removal

The invisible power of the Ku Klux Klan was invoked by a disgruntled neighbor in an attempt to bring down an objectionable high board fence, on the authority of Mrs. Elizabeth Lynch of 737 West One Hundred and Seventh street, who yesterday reported to the University police the receipt of a threatening communication purporting to have been sent by the secret order. A cryptic demand that the fence be removed was contained in a penciled note which bore the signature "K.K.K.," and which read as follows:

"The K.K.K. will give you ten days to take down your fence. If not down in ten days ? ?"

PASTOR TO TAKE TRIP

Aimee Semple McPherson Will Preach in Sacramento

Immediately following the organ recital by Clarence Eddy at the Angelus Temple tonight at 8 p.m. Aimee Semple McPherson will depart for the northern part of the State. This is the first time in more than two years that she has left her pulpit.

Wednesday and Thursday Mrs. McPherson will speak in the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Sacramento, of which Rev. William E. Harrisson is pastor.

During her absence from Los Angeles, William Keeney Towner, D.D. of the First Baptist Church of San Jose, is to occupy her pulpit. He will speak at all services from Tuesday night until Friday. Mrs. McPherson is expected to return to Los Angeles in time to conduct the Sunday services at the temple.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

The auditorium this evening will be the scene of a brilliant gathering, when the San Carlos Opera Company opens with La Tosca, attracting lovers of opera, and many dinner parties are being planned preceding the performance as well as supper parties following. Among those who are planning to attend will be William Andrews Clark, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irwin Rogers, Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Levy, Mr. and Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O. McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. Guerdon Wallace Wattles, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Armitage, William Lee Woollett, Mrs. Leona Smith Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. George Leslie Smith, Mrs. Robert Farquahar, Mr. and Mrs. Hansen Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Frankel, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Mooser, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Petrie and Miss Margaret Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. George De Troost, Miss Hallie Estes, Miss Ruth Cowan, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chester, and Miss E. B. Silverthorne.

Dinner Party

Col. and Mrs. Clarke Stull Smith of 2058 West Twenty-fourth street, entertained with a dinner party Wednesday evening, their guests including Col. and Mrs. George J. Denis, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. William Henry Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Force Parker. Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Smith will entertain with a luncheon and bridge, thirty-four guests having been bidden.

Ad Writers' Club

One of the delightful affairs of recent date was the dinner party with which R. D. Shepherd entertained Thursday evening at the Writers' Club in Hollywood, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Colin Kemper of New York, who are wintering at the Biltmore.

Wed in the East

The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Smith of Wilmington, Del., to Barse Miller of Los Angeles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hastings Miller of Philadelphia, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the ceremony taking place at the family residence, Rev. Edward P. Miller of Scarsdale, N. Y., grandfather of the bridegroom, officiating. Miss Gertrude Kruse assisted as maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jeanette Robinson of Greenwich, Ct., and Miss Mary Brackenridge of Philadelphia. Warren Hastings Miller, father of the bridegroom, served his son as best man and a brother, Purviance Miller, was one of the bridal party. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The decorations of the house were effectively carried out in pink and yellow, the costumes of the bride's attendants carrying out the same color scheme.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller left immediately after the wedding dinner for Dallas, Tex., where they will be house guests of the bride's sister, Mrs. Douglas Parker, and from there will come to Los Angeles where they will make their home in the Wilshire district.

On the Ocean

Judge and Mrs. William Rhodes Hervey, who left Los Angeles some days ago for New York, are on the ocean, having sailed from New York aboard the Patria for Europe. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George Safford, Miss Carey Hervey, sister of Judge Hervey, and their son William Rhodes Hervey, Jr. They are planning to be away for five months and will pass the greater portion of the time in Spain and Italy, having taken the Mediterranean trip.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Runyon of 4703 Third avenue, formally announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Runyon, to Lee Roy King of Downey. The news was told at an evening affair given by the bride-elect's parents on the occasion of her eighteenth birthday anniversary. The decorations were effectively carried out in pink and white, and at the bringing in of the birthday cake with its lighted tapers, an old owl on the table disclosed hidden under his wing a couplet announcing the betrothal. No date has been set for the wedding. Those included were Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Runyon, Mrs. Eunice K. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Boss Bartob, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenson, F. R. Pobjoy, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reuland, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Pobjoy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenson, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Carey, Mrs. G. R. Moye, Mrs. William King, Mrs. Margaret Burbidge, Miss Helen Burbidge, Miss Emma Williams, Miss Norma Weiss, Miss Cyndie Travis, Miss Blanche Runyon, Miss Estelle Reuland, Miss Alberta Reuland, K. L. Teter, J. W. Smith, Walter King, Loraine Moye and Herbert King.

Bridge-Tea

Mrs. Edward Hervey of Bedford Drive, Beverly Hills, is entertaining tomorrow afternoon with a bridge tea at her home in honor of Miss Georgina Hicks of Washington, D. C. and New York, and Miss Lillian Van Dyke. Thirty guests have been bidden.

Afternoon Wedding

Of much interest to local society was the marriage Thursday afternoon of Miss Dorotha Cassel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cassell of Covina, to Irving Anderson of Los Angeles, the ceremony taking place in Bridges Hall of Pomona College at 7:30 o'clock. The spacious hall was a beautiful setting for the bridal party which stood before the exquisite blue drapes at the rear, great tall candelabra, with lighted cathedral candles, being exceedingly effective. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in her bridal robes of white satin beaded in crystals, a veil of tulle forming the long train, which was held in place by orange blossoms, and she carried orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Carroll Smith assisted as maid of honor in a gown of yellow chiffon and carried yellow roses, while the bridesmaids, Miss Alice Northrop, Miss Helen Neal, Miss Constance Ricketts, Miss Ruth Pierce, Miss Pearl Peterson, Miss Marion Cornelius and Miss Georgina Anderson, wore chiffon frocks of the pastel shades and carried arm bouquets of spring flowers in pastel colors. William Anderson, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and the ushers included Carroll Nye, Harold Nigg, Sterling Tipton and Harle Thomason. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents in Covina, after which Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left for their wedding trip, and after their return will be at home in Los Angeles. The bride was graduated from Pomona College, while Mr. Anderson's Alma Mater is University of California, Southern Branch. The decorations of the Bridges Hall, as well as at the home of the bride, were carried out in great sprays of flowering Japanese quince with ferns and myriads of lighted tapers.

Distinguished Visitor

The distinguished visitor, Brig.-Gen. the Rt. Hon. Lord Thomson of London, Eng., who is touring the Pacific Coast, was the guest while in Los Angeles of Dr. and Mrs. John R. Haynes at their home, 2324 South Figueroa street.

SALMON CROQUETTES

Mix two cupfuls of cooked, boned salmon freed from all skin and broken in flakes with two beaten eggs, one and a half cupfuls of sifted bread crumbs, half a cupful of melted butter, half a cupful of cream, one level teaspoonful of baking powder, and a seasoning of salt and Cayenne pepper. Roll in croquette shapes, dip in beaten eggs and roll in cracker dust. Fry in deep, hot fat, drain and serve with white sauce. Garnish with branches of water cress and slices of lemon.

ORANGE AND APPLE SALAD

Peel, core and cut in slices three apples; peel and cut in slices three oranges; mix the apples and oranges with half a cupful of broken walnut meats, two chopped pimientos, and a seasoning of salt and paprika. Place on lettuce-covered plates and pour over a lemon French dressing.

DANISH PUDDING

Mix one cupful of fine bread crumbs with one cupful of sifted granulated sugar, the grated rind and juice of one lemon, four tablespoonfuls of melted butter, four tablespoonfuls of water, and three well-beaten eggs; beat three minutes, pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with custard sauce.

CORN SOUP

Heat the contents of one can of corn, when soft, press through a sieve into a clean saucepan, add four cupfuls of boiling milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Serve with croutons.

ROAST VEAL

Cover the bottom of a baking pan with one sliced carrot, one sliced onion, one broken bay leaf, two whole cloves, and four level tablespoonfuls of butter; lay in one boned leg or shoulder of veal, season with pepper and salt, and dredge with sifted flour. Place in a hot oven, when the flour turns a light brown reduce the heat and bake until well done, basting often. Place the veal on a hot platter, add half a cupful of boiling water to the pan, boil up once and strain over the veal.

BROWNED MASHED POTATOES

Fill a shallow baking dish with seasoned mashed potatoes, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese, dot with bits of butter and bake a nice brown. Serve in the same dish.

The Woman and Her Job

by Valerie Watrous

[Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column if addressed to Mrs. Watrous at The Times.]

RESULTS AND THE SWIVEL CHAIR

"Finally I called them together and told them just where I stood. There are four women who can work in harmony; they're some where in this town, and I'm going to find them if I hire a new set every week!" And that from the mildest woman I know!

She's had a vicious time for the past two months trying to adjust women who were a bit too good for the job. The attitude that seems to say: "I wasn't hired to do this," is a trying experience for any executive. When a man or women begins to wear an air of martyrdom, it's just as well to close the book.

This was a day nursery enterprise, operated an a philanthropic basis, and yet paying fair salaries to its employees. The cook, an elderly woman who had been a children's nurse for many years in a private family, had been engaged because of her long experience. But when it came to washing the dishes in the absence of the chore boy . . . well, it just couldn't be done. She was the cook.

Then came a recreational director, who claimed a long experience in welfare work. Quite willing to direct the games for the little folks, but when it came to buttoning and unbuttoning . . . the situation was impossible. She was the recreation director, please understand.

About then the housekeeper took a whirl at impressing the world with her own importance. And just about that same time the mild-mannered superintendent "blew up."

As I listened to the tale I remembered that this woman was a graduate of one of the great universities, and had held important executive positions for many years. I also recalled that when this day nursery was being installed it was this same superintendent who did anything and everything that needed to be done.

On the last hectic morning of the opening day delivery men had tracked mud upstairs and down. The janitor had gone, and visitors were expected within the hour. Lacking other help, the superintendent had seized mop and broom and added the finishing touches herself.

No, she "wasn't hired to do that kind of work," as a matter of fact, she was to superintend and direct, and to see that others gave the children proper care. That was the wording of the "bond," but when the emergency arose she did just what any woman of common sense would have done . . . put the house in order.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. L.: If you had dietetics with your nursing course, it would seem to me that all you need is a little postgraduate work to burnish your memory. Why not go and talk the matter over with some of the dietitians in the hospitals here? Also ask their advice as to local training. It seems to me the University of Southern California has a year's course in dietetics. The College of Medical Evangelists at Loma Linda, Cal., has a four-year course. Perhaps you could take advanced work at one or the other.

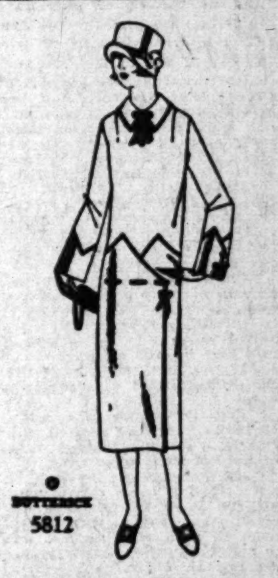
Dear Roberta C.: I would take the stenographic positions offered by the agencies. If you make a beginning you will develop acquaintances among the business people and have much better opportunity to get the kind of opening you want. You may wait a very long time before you get it through an agency.

GYRO CLUB TO DANCE

A dinner-dance will be given by the Los Angeles Gyro Club at the Sunset Canyon Country Club, Burbank, next Saturday night. The club, which is part of a national organization, meets every Thursday noon at the Oaks Tavern at Fourth and Hill streets. Reservations for the dinner dance can be made by calling Mr. Richards at Metropolitan 3833.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon



BUTTERICK 5812

A smart little frock with a wrapped and pointed lower part begs the belt question prettily by slipping it in and out of slashes at the hip.

As straight and almost as narrow as its own string belt a little frock of gray-blue kasha with a body of silk Canton crêpe in a slightly lighter shade is extremely smart as part of an ensemble costume or of a three-piece suit with a shorter box-coat. In either case the coat lining should match the body of the dress. Brown ribbed wool with amber or honey colored flat crêpe in the body, or almond-green cashmere dress goods, with satin to match, make delightful frocks. For a silk suit one can use ribbed silk, heavy satin or heavy silk crêpe for the jacket and lower part of the dress and silk crêpe for the body and the coat lining.

When Eggs Are High

If a cake calls for two eggs you can obtain the same results with one egg if the white is separated from the yolk and beaten until stiff. Then add the yolk and keep beating until light-colored and creamy. Use this mixture in place of the two eggs.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Healthful and Attractive

In these days of overheated homes the bowl of water containing growing bulbs or plants is beneficial as well as pretty. The evaporation takes some of the dryness out of the atmosphere.

Good on Hot Cakes

A sugar shaker filled with pulverized sugar and cinnamon is convenient to have on hand if you frequently have waffles, flannel cakes, etc. Some people prefer this combination to molasses or butter.

Fruit Juices

When fruit juices are ordered by the physician, don't think the only fruit juice is orange juice. Try grape, pineapple, grapefruit, apple and berry juices. They all supply the acid necessary to tone up the system, and all are healthful.

If the candle is a little too large for the holder, dip the end into hot water until it is softened. Then press it into the candlestick and you will find it will fit splendidly.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

"THE RACE OF MERCY"

Nothing has ever thrilled us more than the history of the delivery of the antitoxin to the diphtheria sufferers of Nome, by the Alaskan dog team. The "Race of Mercy" it has been called, and the "epic of the North." It was both.

Day by day we pictured the dogs straining and panting, over the ice and snow, blinded by needles of ice driven by the gales, so deadly cold that to stop running on the trail meant certain death. These famous dogs and their famous drivers had been in races before, but never had their race been a race for life against death, and never before did they exert themselves as they did in this race.

Day by day we watched anxiously to see if they had arrived. Day by day with all our hearts we urged them on, with all our souls we prayed that they would arrive. We pictured the children dying of strangulation and poisoning from diphtheria. We knew that if they could only get the antitoxin in time they would be saved.

It was upon the dog, animal friend of man, that we had to depend to carry the precious life-giving serum, donated by the other animal friend of man, the horse.

If you never have been interested in antitoxin before, you will be interested now, I know, so today I am going to tell you how it is manufactured.

DIPHTHERIA ANTITOXIN

If you have an infectious disease and recover from it, it is because your body cells have manufactured a defense against it. This defense, in certain disease, such as typhoid and smallpox, may stay with you for life and you will be immune to these diseases, so you will not contract them again. In other diseases such as diphtheria and pneumonia, the defense is shorter-lived and you may contract the disease again.

In diphtheria, instead of waiting for the body to manufacture its own defense and perhaps die in the attempt, we give a defense which has already been manufactured by healthy, young horses. The horses which are used to manufacture this defense are submitted to rigid inspection. They are placed in detention stables for several weeks and during this time they are given thorough physical examinations by veterinarians, to be sure that they are free from glanders and other diseases. Those pronounced perfectly healthy in every way are admitted to the sanitary antitoxin stables.

Here they are injected with less than one-quarter of a teaspoon of the diphtheria toxin, not enough to make them sick, but enough so that their cells and blood immediately begin to manufacture a defense against it. As soon as this defense is strong enough, another dose of the toxin, this time a little larger, is given. This treatment continues for a period of from six weeks to three months. (The diphtheria germs themselves are not injected but only some of their products which have been thrown out in the beef broth in which they are grown in the laboratories. The germs themselves are filtered out.)

At the end of the injections the horse, which is apparently none the worse for the defense process which has been going on in his body, has some of his blood drawn. This is allowed to stand until it clots, and the clear, pure serum which separates from the clot, full of its defensive principles against diphtheria and with a preservative added so that it will keep, is the diphtheria antitoxin. It is always tested for safety on guinea pigs.

It is one of the most striking things in the practice of medicine to see the diphtheretic membrane in a child's throat begin to recede and finally come off, and the symptoms of poisoning begin to abate, almost immediately after the antitoxin is given if it is given in time. A similar defense is now being manufactured for scarlet fever.

Next week I will tell you more about antitoxin, the curative remedy and something of toxin-antitoxin, the preventive remedy for diphtheria.

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Now She Can Remedy His Broken Promises

BUSIED by other matters, the absent one forgets, and when he remembers no pen and ink may be at hand.

But let her give him this black-tipped lacquer-red Duofold, and its thoughtful color will ever flash his eye the very reminder that he needs. And Pen and ink will ever be in his pocket—right within reach—a pen whose balanced, full-handed grip and super-smooth point are after a man's own heart.

A point we guarantee, if not mistreated, for 25 years' wear. An Over-size barrel that holds a big supply of ink. A color that makes the Duofold a handsome pen to own—a hard pen for him to mislay.

ALICE JOYCE BACK

"DADDY GOES A-HUNTING" IS PLEASING PICTURE

By Grace Kingsley

Carli D. Elinor has moved his scrapers and hitters and blowers of musical instruments over from the California to Loew's State, and on Saturday, at his opening, won the show honors with his concert.

His score to "Daddy Goes a-Hunting," the feature picture, as usual, was so well selected that it sounded as if it had been specially written for the film, and at big moments in the story gave one the feeling of grand opera music. Elinor is surely a genius at picking the right tune for pictures.

Zoe Akins has taken the trite problem, "Should an artist marry?" and the trite truth that a man realizes a woman's worth only after he has lost her, has dressed it up in a fresh treatment and serves it up in "Daddy Goes a-Hunting."

And she has given the old ideas a depth of treatment in that there is no preachiness about it, the artist himself being bewildered with life, and exclaiming to his faithful wife, who has stayed at home, after he has returned from his year of study in Paris, bringing back new standards, new methods of living—"I used to think love was the greatest thing in life. Now I don't know."

He tells her, "No, I haven't even been faithful to you." And when he has alienated his wife with his coldness and with bringing his strange Paris companions home with him, and sees her in the arms of another man, he simply passes complacently through the room, starts to shave, and tells his wife, "The water isn't very hot tonight!"

Also the picture is great in that the author worried along without any villain except the old devil Fate.

Of course, the return of Alice Joyce to the screen is the real thrill of the picture for the fans. Miss Joyce has distinctive beauty, and her more powerfully emotional moments is fine. But in the lesser moments, she seems inclined to posing and affectation, and more than a trace of self-consciousness. But probably these faults may drop away with successive pictures. At present they are serious.

Percy Marmont was, of course, the real star of the picture. He brings his subtle power, his poignant appeal, to bear on the artist's role with his usual vivid convincingness.

Little Virginia Marshall is surely the most adorably pretty baby in pictures. They made her do some unchildlike things in the picture, but at that she manages to convey the impression of a little old-fashioned child such as one sometimes finds in the world of too-fresh youngsters.

Ford Sterling is permitted to overplay the hokum terribly. I don't think there could possibly be a Paris artist who would come into a strange lady's home, keep his hat on and stuff himself at her table uninvited.

Helena D'Algy, Holmes Herbert, Edythe Chapman, James Barrows, James Macelhern, Martha Mattox, Charles Crockett and Kate Toncray were all admirable.

Frank Borzage's direction is smooth.

"COMING THROUGH" IS SLOW IN COMING

Up to date Thomas Meighan has played three mining engineers, two civil ditto, five gentleman crooks, a brace of factory foremen, and a handful of brave young politicians. Anyhow, that's my count.

Meighan is a good hero because he looks like anybody you meet down town. Maybe that's the real secret of his popularity. Men in audience like him because they know they can live up to him, whereas Novarro's classic features, Valentino's polite sneer and Eddie Lowe's clothes are beyond them.

"Coming Through," which opened Saturday at the Metropolitan, comes rather languidly, because you guess the end from the beginning. It is as old-fashioned as the corner saloons, of which it is full. But a praiseworthy effort has been made to bring it up to date. Yes, sir! Its villain works cross-word puzzles! Which alone was enough to make Tommy Meighan want to kill him.

Featured in 'Daddy's Gone A-Hunting'

Alice Joyce

Miss Joyce has the leading role opposite Percy Marmont in Frank Borzage's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting," now showing at Loew's.

In "Coming Through," Tommy is another mining engineer. Once again he presumes to love his employer's daughter; once again he is sent out to a tough mine in hopes he would fail. Indeed, though warned his mine would be ruined, that silly old millionaire owner insisted the men down there "get" Tommy! One wonders how he ever had sense enough to amass a fortune. Once again Tommy beats up Wally Beery. Honestly, I should think Wally would hate Tommy by this time! Lila Lee as the girl is sweet, characterful and sincere.

Well, anyhow, the mining technique is interesting!

The bright spot on the bill is the Sennett comedy, "Honeymoon Hardships," which makes you glad you paid your money to get in after all. Billy Bevan is establishing a new comedy character here which I hope he will continue, as it is very amusing and distinctive. He plays one of these irritating cheerful people, one of those optimists best described obliquely in the definition, "A pessimist is a person who has to live in the house with an optimist."

Vera Reynolds Plays Lead

Just as Monte Blue got used to Marie Prevost's charming little ways as leading lady in his pictures, the Warner Brothers have gone and switched heroines on him. Still, Monte cannot in any wise complain. For in "The Limited Mail," which will be his next Warner Brothers' feature, he will have as his leading lady no less delightful a young person than Vera Reynolds.

Vera Reynolds was secured through special arrangement with Cecil B. De Mille, with whom she is under contract.

"GREAT DIVIDE" REMAINS

"The Great Divide" is now in its second week at the Criterion Theater. In the cast will be found Alice Terry, Conway Tearle, Wallace Beery and many other well-known names. Also on the program is Little Virginia Davis in a novelty cartoon comedy, "Alice, the Piper," and a violin solo, "Pale Moon," by George Stolberg.

PINERO COMEDY AT PASADENA TONIGHT

Community Players Offer First Western Production of "Enchanted Cottage"

"The Enchanted Cottage," by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, will have its first western production in the Pasadena Community Playhouse tonight. It is a play of post-war England, picturing some of the effects of the great conflict on those who returned, in a rather unusual manner.

Those who think of Pinero as the author of "Mid-Channel," "His House in Order" and "Trelawney of the Wells," will find "The Enchanted Cottage" unlike anything that he has ever done. When it was first presented in London, the critics rubbed their eyes and wondered if a trick had not been played on them, because of the Barrie-esque theme and writing of the play.

American playgoers know "The Enchanted Cottage" because of the screen version that was made last year with Richard Barthelmess in the leading role.

The story, in brief, concerns Oliver Bashforth, who returns from the World War a physical wreck. Because of his deformities, he flees from the London home of his family to a small English town. There a forsaken little spinster takes an interest in him and Oliver marries her, in spite of their social inequalities.

Reports of the event drift back to London and the family gains the impression that Oliver has been transformed. The cottage where the bride and groom go to live seems enchanted, for to each other they appear as the most beautiful persons in all the world. But when the elder Bashforths appear, they see no change in Oliver, and Laura seems hopeless to them.

All this has been developed by Pinero with rare charm. It is a whimsical comedy with deeply poignant moments. While the play is a difficult one to do, it is the sort of thing that intrigues the Pasadena Community Players and their director, Gilmor Brown. There are matchless opportunities for stagecraft. The settings are by Robert R. Sharpe.

The cast will be headed by Maurice Wells and Marcella Burke as Oliver and Laura, respectively. Others taking part are Bertram Hancock, Mrs. H. Phelps Reed, Agnes Knight, George Tapper, Guy R. McComb, Dorothy V. Hinds, Ralph Hilliar and Antha Miller. "The Enchanted Cottage" will be repeated every night this week and Saturday matinee.

"CHICKEN FEED" AT THE MOROSCO FINAL WEEK

In this comedy, by Guy Bolton and Winchell Smith, the saying of "fifty-fifty" takes on a new meaning and no doubt solves a question that most women find facing them at some time in their married lives—that of an equal share of the family finances.

SPECIAL MATINEE TODAY

There will be a special matinee performance of "Chicken Feed" at the Morosco Theater today in observance of Washington's Birthday.

MME. PIANA SOLOIST AT POP CONCERT

BY FRANCIS KENDIG

The second International Concert of the popular symphony series was played yesterday afternoon. Compositions from many countries were heard, and flags of various nations were draped from the stage, boxes and sides of the auditorium, giving a colorful aspect to the event.

The numbers were unusually well played. The Largo from Dvorak's "New World" was given a thoughtful interpretation, and Massenet's "Alsatian Scenes" were performed with fire and enthusiasm.

The four numbers which comprise Speidiarow's "Esquisses de Crimee" were rich with oriental shading. "Dans L'Aoule" from "Esquisse Caucasiennes," Goldmark's "Negro Rhapsody" and Grieg's "March of Homage" from "Sigurd Josalfar" completed the program.

Mme. Isabella Piana, soprano, was soloist, singing "Ah fors e' lui" from "Traviata," and "Un bel di" from "Butterfly." Although she sang the Verdi with brilliance, her work was probably better in the Puccini aria, for her voice is not so well suited to florid work, having rather a dramatic quality than lyric. While it may be said that her voice has lost some of its freshness, she is well schooled in the traditions of Italian opera, and she always sings with authority and musicianship. She was the recipient of much well-deserved applause.

George McClellan of the managerial department of the Philharmonic Orchestra, announced from the stage the three splendid concerts which the orchestra will play at the Coliseum March 1, 15 and 29.

JACKIE COOGAN IN RAGGED ROLE

Portrayal in Current Starring Play of East Side Locale Is Reminiscent of "The Kid"

BY HERBERT MOULTON

Jackie Coogan and the rags in which he first achieved fame—the Jackie Coogan of "The Kid"—hold the screen this week at the California Theater.

The locale of the story of "The Rag Man" is the East Side of Manhattan, and it is doubtful if a better background could have been found. For Jackie seems to be most effective on the screen when he is maltreated, undernourished and generally the victim of adverse circumstances. His natural appeal is a sentimental one, and this appeal is obviously heightened when he plays, as he does in "The Rag Man," the part of a slum child.

Not that he's abused, or anything like that. After the fire at the orphanage he drifts into the kind companionship of an old Jewish junk dealer, and thereafter his experiences are not troublesome so much as they are humorous. He proves his ability as a "business man" quite to the satisfaction of his new partner, and manages to come out on top despite the machinations of a trite and, in some respects, weak plot.

If it were not for the two over-sentimental persons who sat behind me, I probably would have left the theater with the idea that Jackie is getting too old for the type of roles in which he is being cast. But the "ohs" and "ahs" and "Isn't he too sweet for words!" eventually convinced me that Jackie is holding his own as a purveyor of lachrymose entertainment.

Max Davidson, as the rag man himself, gives a splendid performance.

Robert Edeson, Lydia Reamans Titus and William Conklin are adequate in their respective parts, which are comparatively small. Davidson and Jackie really have most of the footage to themselves—to such an extent, in fact, that the picture becomes tiresome in spots. On the whole, though, "The Rag Man" proves entertaining—to those who relish Coogan and sobby sentimentality.

MARGARET LIVINGSTON EXCELS IN STAR PART

Margaret Livingston might have searched for years and not have found a more effective or auspicious vehicle in which to make her debut as a star than "The Chorus Lady," which opened Saturday at the Cameo Theater.

The story itself has been done countless times. The minute you see the "city feller" kiss the country lass you know that although the elder sister may paint her lips, chew gum and tickle men under their chins, that she's got a heart of gold and will let the whole world know it before the last reel is unwound.

There's an irresistible zest and vigor in the action, there're vitality and humanness in the portrayals, and there are sudden delicious quirks of humor that allay any symptoms of melodrama. And then there's the personality of the star herself.

The adaptation by Bradley King is made from the old stage success of the same name by James Forbes. Pat, the elder daughter of a race-horse trainer, steps from the quietness of her vine-covered home into the gayety of New York. There she becomes a dancer of sorts, in roof gardens and cabarets and by degrees works her way into a traveling musical comedy, only to have it go on the rocks miles from nowhere.

Virginia Lee Corbin gives a nicely accented performance of the young and slightly dazzled younger sister. Despite her own youth she has a surprising understanding of the moods and weaknesses of youth.

As for Philo McCullough, surely the day can't be far distant when some one is going to wake up and give this splendid actor a big contract. He has all the suavity, polish, ease and intelligence of a Menjou, and in addition he has youth.

There's room for considerable controversy whether Miss Livingston is really suited for starring material or whether she's a one-picture star. The role of this first vehicle brings out to a degree all the charm of her insouciant, gay, flippant roguishness. But never for a minute do you forget that she is the chorus girl.

If you're seeking sprightly entertainment and want to see an actress at her very best, drop in and see "The Chorus Lady."

ASSERTS GOOD INTENTIONS ALONE ARE INADEQUATE

Evangelist in Radio Sermon From "The Times" Station Says They Must Get Into Character

"Good intentions must be crystallized into character before they can give us the blessedness which Jesus declared, in His 'Sermon on the Mount' shall come to those who truly love their heavenly Father and their fellow-men." This sentence was the keynote of a sermon preached yesterday from The Times broadcast station by Rev. S. H. Hall, nationally known evangelist for the Disciples of Christ, and editor of the Gospel Advocate at Nashville, Tenn. Preaching on the subject "The Blessed Man," Mr. Hall spoke in part as follows:

"May I remind you of the fact that the salt of the earth and the light of the world of which our Lord speaks in the second paragraph of His wonderful sermon are the souls of those who possess the beatitudes.

"The 'poor in spirit' never make laws for God. The poor in spirit want not their own ways in religion. The poor in spirit know that it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps, hence falls before Jehovah's teaching with the determination to speak where Jehovah speaks, and stay silent where Jehovah is silent. Do you wonder then that our Lord says: 'For theirs is the kingdom of heaven. In their hearts our Lord reigns and rules in the supreme sense.

"If all teachers among us today would thus be 'poor in spirit' would it not bring us together in the one body as our Lord's disciples were in the days of the apostles? How could it be otherwise if indeed we were all 'poor in spirit,' hence letting only God's will and way by us be taught and lived.' We would be of the same mind because we would have no mind but His. We would speak the same thing because we would speak only what His word says, and the doctrines and commandments of men to the winds we would let go. And our Lord's prayer in us would be answered when He prayed for us to be one as He and the Father are one.

"Let others do as they may, but for me, may God keep me in a state of absolute surrender to him and my body sufficiently crucified by the cross that not in one thing in my teaching to aliens shall I have my own way, but tell them, as did the apostles, what our Lord says for them to do to be saved, and not in one thing in the work and worship of the church shall my will be done, but may His will and only His will organize, regulate and direct every congregation with which I have to do."

REV. HAGIN DESCRIBES JAPAN EXPERIENCES

Rev. Fred E. Hagin, pastor of the Figueroa Boulevard Christian Church, preached yesterday on "Twenty Years in Japan." He said in part:

"We went to Japan in the autumn of 1900, at the climax of the Boxer trouble in China. The order and careful enforcement of law in Japan has always been in marked contrast to many other countries. They have a law against dope and it is strictly enforced. Few gamble in Japan, knowing they face a term of years in the penitentiary if caught. Even the white slave traffic is carried on strictly in accordance with law. The police system, like everything else, is united and interdependent. A murderer has little chance to escape capital punishment. Several years ago a renegade policeman killed two Canadian missionaries who were summering at Karuizawa. A garment he left in his flight was found under the microscope to have some particles of sawdust on it. All the saw mills in the region were visited, the man spotted and in three months they had him and put him to death. Japan, with an area of only 163,000 square miles has a population of 60,000,000. Only by careful terracing, irrigating and fertilizing do these millions live."

PLEA FOR TOLERANCE IS VOICED BY RABBI

Rabbi E. F. Magnin of Temple B'nai B'rith preached Friday on "Tolerance Versus Persecution." He said in part:

"The life and death of Joan of Arc is typical of the tragedy of every martyrdom of individual or people since the world began. New ideas have always aroused suspicion and fear and this fear and mistrust is encouraged and reinforced in the minds of the people by leaders, who may be possessed with jealousy, desire for power or some other ulterior motive. This is natural, but unfortunate. It results not alone in the tragedy and suffering of the martyr, but also brings to the surface those bestial and brutal qualities in the minds of the masses which ought to be weeded out, or at least be kept submerged by education and spiritual training.

"What the world needs is a greater sense of sympathy, tolerance and understanding. We need bear no grudges against those who in the past wielded the whip and burnt at the stake. They were victims of their own ignorance or of the conditions in which they lived. But let us not make their mistakes today."

WASHINGTON PIVOT FOR TURNING WORLD

"The Keystone of American Liberty" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Rev. William C. Isett at Amanda Chapel. Mr. Isett said in part:

"If the spirits of the dead know conditions on the earth, we can well believe that George Washington views with pardonable pride the position of the United States as the leader of the nations of earth. No nation in the world today is forming any policy without regard to the opinion of the American people. It ought to make us very thoughtful. We are a nation of more than 100,000,000 people What the individual does seems to make little difference. But Washington was an individual, one who stood out prominently before the handful of American Colonists, but one also who stood out in bold relief before the whole civilized world of his day. Each one of us is a representative of our government. Washington stands as the central figure of American history. Why? Because he staked his life, his fortune, his reputation, upon the principle of the sovereignty of the individual, and of every nation, however small. He was the pivot upon which the world turned from the special privilege of the few to the common privilege of all. England said, 'the American colonies exist for the benefit of England.' Washington replied, 'The American colonies exist, first, for the benefit of their own necessities, and, second, for the mutual benefit of all nations of the world.' Upon that rock the ship of special privilege was wrecked and the fraternity of nations was born."

RECOGNITION FOR ORATORY

Contest With Constitution as Subject on Same Plane as Studies in Many Schools

Communications reaching Director Blanks indicate that the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution has by this time gained a recognition in the high schools that places it on practically the same plane as one of the regular studies in the curriculum. Principals and teachers write the director in a vein showing that in most schools the question of participation is not one for long consideration but rather an undertaking on which they will enter as a matter of course.

A typical communication of this kind is one received from Mark Keppel, superintendent of schools of Los Angeles county, who writes Prof. Blanks as follows:

"At your request, I am issuing a special bulletin to the high schools of Los Angeles county, but I think the issuing of this bulletin is superfluous, because I believe that every high school is fully aware of the contest and expects to participate therein."

Another letter expresses the approval of the contest on the part of the Parent-Teacher associations. It is in the form of a resolution adopted by the Los Angeles Federation and reads as follows:

"Whereas national oratorical contests are now being held in schools through the country to incite greater interest on the part of the students in the study of the Constitution of the United States and as these contests are being successfully held in Los Angeles schools to arouse greater interest and knowledge on the part of the students,

"Therefore be it resolved that we, the Los Angeles Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations, express our approval of these contests and send a copy of this resolution to Prof. A. F. Blanks, who has charge of the contests."

SCOUTS ADDRESSED BY DR. MAYER WINKLER

Rabbi Mayer Winkler gave an address to Boy Scouts last Friday at Temple Sinai. He spoke in part as follows:

"Loyalty to the flag, the visible symbol of patriotism, of national pride, of abiding faith, was the cardinal principle upon which this nation was to be founded. With this most beautiful virtue we must be imbued from our very youth to the last moment of our lives. If in time of war loyalty to the flag infuses in our hearts the spirit of self-sacrifice so that we are willing to offer our lives on the altar of our country, in time of peace the flag should possess the magic power of inspiration to sacrifice for the promotion of peace, of unity and harmony between man and man and between nations. In the month of February, America celebrates the birthday of her two greatest sons, Washington and Lincoln. These two most beautiful historical figures, who have almost become legendary, devoted their lives to uphold the flag, the eternal symbol, the emblem of loyalty and patriotism."

SAYS MEN ARE JUST "LEARNING TO WALK"

A unique view of the attitude of God toward the human race was voiced in a sermon preached yesterday by H. C. Culbertson at the Plymouth Congregational Church. Dr. Culbertson said in part:

"The natural law of this universe is a framework for the development of character. Through experience man learns that if he touches fire he will be burned, if he overeats he will suffer, if he cultivates his body according to the laws of hygiene he will build physical strength. These laws with their consequences are beneficent, for they enable the building of character through obedience. Working in and through these laws and their inevitable consequences, we must see that the attitude of God toward humanity is always an attitude of love. It has been said that He is like an earthly father teaching his child to walk. When the child slips and falls, the parent is not angry nor filled with vengeful thoughts, but is thrilled with a desire to help. The consequences of the fall in natural law, hurts and bruises, have their place in the education of the little one, but the father's heart is fairly bursting with the longing to heal and encourage. Getting along with our fellow-beings in this complicated world, socially, politically and economically, is a harder task than learning to walk, but the attitude of the Supreme Father in Heaven is just the same. He laments our falls, failures, wrong decisions, hurtful passions and wicked ways exactly as human fathers and mothers grieve over the bruises of the tiny tots who tumble and bump themselves on the floor. We can never hope to heal the wrongs, meannesses, cruelties and hates that are wrecking human life and society till we catch this vision of the attitude of God and make it ours. No clamor for rights nor heroic struggles for justices will make earth into heaven, but only the brotherly attitude of boundless love and forgiveness that is like the love and forgiveness of God.'

WASHINGTON RANKED WITH HEBREW LEADER

Rev. E. F. Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian Church, preached yesterday on "The Poise of American Character." Excerpts from the sermon follow:

"Washington is 'first in the hearts of his countrymen,' for the climacteric reason, with but few historic parallels, that within his grasp was the crown of a king and he spurned it. With all the aristocracy of his birth, his personality and place, he was a democrat. His passionate devotion to the cause of the people's government of themselves could have had no other fitting crown than the demonstration of a supreme self-abnegation. In its essential greatness his example is historically surpassed only in that episode where Moses, the greatest Jew of antiquity, when proffered kingship by the Almighty with his people's destruction, asked instead his own blotting out with them, should their salvation fail; and by that greatest Jew of all, who elected the Cross of Calvary vice the crown of Jewry. Lincoln and Washington trusted the mass of the people. So may the mass of our people be trusted today, to discharge with fitness and justice the responsibilities of citizenship in a nation of privilege such as is ours. We may trust them in judgment, in action and aspiration for their dominant trait is a poise and sanity akin in quality to that of the leaders whose memory they delight to honor, and by whose example they are inspired."

WARNS OF FOES WHO BORE FROM WITHIN

Dr. Bruce Brown of the South Park Christian Church preached yesterday on "The Enemy Within the Household." He spoke in part as follows:

"When America entered the World War we had to front the fact that we had within our borders men whose supreme allegiance was to the Kaiser and who were willing to do all in their power to injure this nation. Whenever any man puts race or greed above devotion to the Constitution he is an alien enemy and should be banished. It is high time that America should know that all who come under the protection of the flag will follow it to a finish against any enemy at home or abroad. A wife cannot give allegiance to two men and a citizen can recognize but one sovereignty in any question affecting our national life and the security of our free institutions. In nation, church and home our most dangerous foes are not the ones who bombard us from without but the ones who bore from within. A husband is to be pitied who knows that in a showdown his wife will go with another man. Any nation is heading toward the rocks that has any considerable number of people who will in a great crisis obey the command of some other power. If America ever goes down it will not be because some other nation had a bigger navy or army, but because enemies within trampled under feet the institutions essential to the existence of a free people."

ARTISANS TO DANCE

BANDIT TRIAL NEARING END

Government to Conclude Testimony Tomorrow; Jury May Get Wilson Case Friday

It is probable the government will complete its case tomorrow in the trial of Jack Elerick, Joe Bertsche and Frank Wilson, charged with conspiracy to rob the mails, according to David V. Cahill, special assistant to the Attorney-General. Counsel for the defense indicated they would be able to close their case within two or three days inasmuch as several witnesses for Elerick were examined last Friday. Attorney Cahill said he expected the case to go to the jury next Friday.

Trial of the case began two weeks ago last Tuesday when Herbert Wilson, organized of numerous mail robberies culminating in the sensational robberies of March 3 and November 3, 1921, in Los Angeles, began his disclosures of the operations of a gang which he said included his brother Frank, and Elerick and Bertsche. Thirty government witnesses have been on the witness stand. Attorney Cahill said he did not expect to examine more than six other witnesses, although fifty witnesses were subpoenaed before the trial began. The government evidence to be introduced tomorrow will go to formal proof of the facts connected with the March 3 robbery for which the three defendants are being tried.

Counsel for Elerick and Bertsche have not disclosed whether those two defendants will testify. According to Herbert Wilson, Elerick assisted in planning the March 3 robbery and in disposing of stolen securities, while Bertsche, he said, assisted in robbing the mails on that date. The Elerick witnesses testified last Friday that Elerick was in Sacramento at the times Herbert Wilson said he was in Los Angeles during February and March, 1921.

SPITE MARRIAGE IS FAILURE

Wife Declares Three Honeymoons Broken Up in Two Months Because Husband Changed Mind

After Rosalie Dennis, bride of less than three months, had almost worn the corners off her trunk in an earnest effort to keep pace with the changes of heart of her husband, she has finally given up and filed suit for divorce from Louis K. Dennis. Her story of her unusual honeymoon is told in her complaint, on file in the office of the County Clerk.

Nine days after the wedding, last November 27, Dennis, according to his wife, gave her the surprise of her life by gloomily informing her that he had made a great mistake in marrying her, suggesting that she get a divorce, and intimating that if they later decided they were meant for each other they could live together anyway. She left him the next day, she said.

But several days later, according to Mrs. Dennis's story, her husband was importuning her to return, and so persuasively that on December 18 she moved back.

The second day of their second honeymoon, she declared, saw a return of Dennis's mood of remorse for his nuptials. He told her, she said, that he had married her only to spite another woman, whom he loved, and again urged her to get a divorce.

So, again Mrs. Dennis, according to her story, packed her trunk and left. That was December 23. By Christmas Eve, two days later, she said, Dennis was hanging on the telephone, assuring her that he really did love her, and begging her to reconsider and come back to him.

"Nobody loves me," he lamented, according to the complaint.

This time she held out for more than two weeks, but finally, on January 9, she succumbed to his tears, she declared, and again had her trunk taken back and started over again with Dennis.

The last break-up preceding the filing of her suit for divorce came January 19, after Dennis had resented her request for money, the complaint recited. He said he had none and violently resented her insistence that he did, Mrs. Dennis said, and this precipitated a quarrel.

Jonathan Club Will Lay Stone With Festivities

Members of the Jonathan Club are to gather on the 26th inst. to celebrate the new club structure which is being completed at Sixth and Figueroa streets. The program will last from noon when a lunch will be served in the gymnasium of the new structure until 6:15 when the Club Jinx and dinner will begin.

Laying of the corner-stone of the new building, with the placing of a scroll containing the names of all the members in attendance within the base, will be one of the features of the program. It is expected that the new quarters will be ready for occupancy by November 1.

JUDGE BLEDSOE WILL ADDRESS OPTIMISTS

United States District Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Optimists' Club Thursday noon. John Simpson will be chairman Songs by Alice Lohr, contralto; readings by Mrs. John Simpson, and a demonstration of magic by Prof Camil Sadana, Hindoo mystic, will be features of the program. The program is one of the periodical "Ladies' Days."

FLINT SIX FEATURES

Take them all from the medium-priced cars up to the most expensive and you will find none more complete in conveniences and sensible comforts than the Flint Six "55" Touring. A gasoline gauge on the dash shows instantly the amount of gas in the tank. A front bumper, motometer and lock with radiator winged cap, stoplight, automatic windshield cleaner, rear vision mirror and extra tire with tube and tire cover, eliminates all necessity of buying extras. There is an Elgin clock on the dash. And a two-bulb concealed dash light really illuminates the entire instrument board.

TODAY'S 6 BEST BUYS—All slightly used. Each Flint 55 model listed here carries a new car guarantee. Your opportunity to own this famous make of car at the price of less pretentious merchandise.

BUSINESS PROPERTY—

For Sale

AT $1000 PER FOOT.
We offer exclusively the ONLY IMPROVED BUSINESS CORNER for sale on West Seventh Street between Alvarado and Hoover and in the heart of the high-class specialty-shop district.
ONLY $40,000 REQUIRED.
The building is new, modern and very artistic. The rentals are moderate and the leases are guaranteed. At the price placed on this property the vacant lot alone figures at only $1000 per foot, whereas an inside lot on 7th nearby recently sold at $1400 per foot. The improvements cost $25,000, within 2 years.
INCOME $7350.
In our opinion the lot value will equal or exceed $2000 per foot within the next five years, and this alone would yield a handsome profit to the lucky purchaser of this wonderful property.
IT IS LIFE INSURANCE.
If you have about $40,000 and are seeking a real investment, for particulars see
P. W. CROAKE, 2715 W. 7th, nr. Hoover, Westlake-Wilshire Specialist. DUnkirk 4846.

PAPERS IN EAST PRINT LETTERS

Trade Journals Also Spread Gospel of Truth

Refute Lying Stories About California

Friendship Contest Already Making Friends

Tokens of what the friendship letter-writing contest already is accomplishing are beginning to appear in newspapers and trade and professional journals of the Middle Western and Eastern States. The current issue of the Medical Herald, published at St. Louis, carries the following over the signature of Dr. John W. Shuman of Los Angeles:

"There were 100 at the first big Pitt annual dinner at the University Club. We all had a grand time. So sorry that you were freezing back east.

"We still love Pitt and Pennsylvania, but this is the land for us. Kill those jealous knockers. Yes! we have no bread lines, no plagues, no foot-and-mouth disease, no thunder storms, sunstrokes or 'froze-to-deaths.' We are a little fast on the gas and occasionally carbon monoxide those who do not like fresh air. Send us your extra money for investment with the Shriners in June. Do not come here unless you want to enjoy life."

Under headlines reading "Former Hoosier Refutes Tales Detrimental to California," the Indianapolis News of recent date publishes the following:

STORIES ARE DENIED

"A letter protesting vigorously against the 'morbid tales of a bubonic plague, drought and famine,' said to have appeared recently in eastern and other papers, has been received from James Bishop, formerly of Indianapolis, now of Los Angeles. Mr. Bishop characterizes the stories as 'tales that would make us weep over our misery if they were not so ridiculous—and if our misery existed.'

"In explaining the probable cause of some of these stories, Mr. Bishop says: 'Recently there were several cases of pneumonic plague in the poorer Mexican quarter of Los Angeles. There were some deaths, but due to quarantine and sanitary prevention, the thing was stamped out in two weeks. I am told that some cities have this disease every winter in their slum districts.

"Southern Californians, we hear, have had to burn off their lawns to prevent a general conflagration, the lawns being parched through lack of water; candlelight is necessary for lack of electricity; an epidemic of scurvy threatens through lack of green vegetables. As a matter of fact, grass cannot be greener than it is here; candles have never been necessary and green vegetables are as plentiful and as good as ever.

"What is true is that there was a shortage of rainfall last season. On account of the tremendous growth of our population it was thought wise to conserve electricity until light and power companies could add to their facilities. This was done by turning off street lights and electric signs for a time, by asking people not to waste electricity and by instituting a skip-stop system on the street cars. Electric signs are now on again, people waste as much electricity as ever and street cars stop at every corner.

CATTLE DISEASE

"It is true that there was an epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease among cattle. But due to splendid co-operation between local, State and Federal authorities, the epidemic was completely abated; and although there were some losses these have been largely compensated through State and Federal aid. The total loss in the State amounted to little more than 2 per cent of the number of animals.

"Since the war Southern California's population has grown by leaps and bounds. Although the intense activity in real estate came to an end last spring, there has been practically no slump in values. Building activity is still well above normal. During the first three-quarters of this year, Los Angeles held fourth place in building activities among all cities of the country, being exceeded only by New York, Chicago and Detroit.

"I have given you only a few of the facts which disprove all the tall stories about Southern California. I have restrained myself in the matter of statistics for humane reasons. But statistics in plenty are to be had for the asking."

POSTOFFICE IS SUIT-PROOFED

Repairs to the marble and cement floor in the main corridor of the Federal Building were completed last week at a cost of $1800. That item of current expense in the upkeep of government property in Los Angeles has eliminated several depressions worn by the feet of thousands who daily visit the main postoffice and has lessened to that extent the likelihood of some irate citizen threatening to sue the government for asserted injuries due to holes and inequalities in the floor.

"Eternal vigilance and frequent repairs and improvements are necessary to protect the government against people who are continuously on the lookout for easy money," L. H. Schwaebe, collector of customs, and custodian of the Federal Building, said. "It cost a lot of money to get rid of a few depressions in the floor, but there is no chance now for some one to demand $50,000 damages on the ground that he fell in a hole and broke an arm or otherwise injured himself."

Electric lights are kept lighted throughout the day in the corridors of each floor of the Federal Building, and particularly at the head of each flight of stairs as a safeguard against accidents. That policy originated some months ago when a woman told the custodian she purposed to sue the government for $50,000 because she had fallen when she stepped on the top landing of a flight of stairs. She said it was dark and she thought there was another step and that she sprained her ankle because she could not see the landing.

It was not long after that case was settled amicably before a man threatened to sue the government because he had been insulted by a guard. Questioning brought out the fact that the guard had turned out the lights in the main corridor at midnight while the man was writing a letter. The insulted man took the matter up with the Postoffice Department, which in turn required a written report from Mr. Schwaebe.

War's changes have increased business at the port of Trieste, Italy, to the point of congestion and car shortage, while that of Fiume is stagnant.

RULES AND PRIZES

IN "THE TIMES" FRIENDSHIP CONTEST

To encourage in every possible legitimate way the dissemination of the truth about Southern California as a means of combatting the false attacks on this section which have been widely circulated throughout America, the Los Angeles Times offers cash prizes as follows for the best letters setting forth the attractions of Southern California as a place to visit and to live:

For the best letter	$1000
For the next best letter	500
For the third best	250
For the fourth best	100
For the three next best $50 each or altogether	150
For the ten next best $25 each or altogether	250
For the twenty-five next best $10 each or altogether	250
For the fifty next best $5 each or altogether	250
Total, 342 prizes aggregating	3000
JUNIOR DIVISION
For the best letter	$100
For the next best letter	50
For the third best	25
For the two next best $10 each or altogether	20
For the six next best $5 each or altogether	30
For the next twenty-five best, $1 each or altogether	25
Total, thirty-six prizes aggregating	250
Grand total both divisions, 378 prizes aggregating	$3250

Following are the rules, The Times reserving the right to make additions and changes if any be found necessary to promote the best interests of the contest and its purposes:

(1.) The duration of the contest shall be from January 25 until March 10 at 6 p.m. Letter copies submitted in competition must be sent to the Prize Letter Editor, Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles, Cal. They may be mailed or deposited in the Prize Letter Box, main lobby, Times Building. No letter shall be eligible for a prize unless it has been deposited in the Prize Letter Box or postmarked on or before the date and hour specified.

(2.) The purpose of all letters submitted in this contest shall be to make friends for California, through a truthful presentation of her attractions. Contestants may write whatever in their judgment is best calculated to inspire a desire to visit or live here. The effectiveness of the letter, as a convincing communication from one friend to another, will be the principal consideration. For this reason, no letter should contain any reference to this contest.

(3.) All letters must be copies of bona fide originals which have been mailed to actual persons or to newspapers at correct addresses outside the State of California. In other words, write your letter, mail it to some one you know or to your home-town paper and send a copy to the Prize Letter Editor of The Times, Los Angeles. The genuineness of letters will be subject to check.

(4.) Every letter must bear the name and address of the person or paper to whom the original has been mailed, and the name and address of the writer. Put these on the letter itself; not on a separate sheet. Write on one side of the paper only.

(5.) All contestants must be persons now living in Southern California, that is, in Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego, Imperial, Riverside, San Bernardino, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Tulare, Kings, Inyo or Kern counties. Temporary residents are eligible. It is not necessary to be a subscriber to The Times.

(6.) Letters may be of any length up to 1000 words.

(7.) Any contestant may write and submit copies of any number of letters during the life of the contest, but each original must be sent to a different addressee.

JUNIOR DIVISION

(10.) Membership in the junior division of the contest shall be open to all letter-writers under 16 years of age.

(11.) Contestants entering the junior division shall be governed by the same rules formulated for the general contest.

(12.) Contestants entering the junior division shall be eligible both for the special prizes in that division and the larger prizes offered for the general contest. In addition to giving their names and addresses and the names and addresses of those to whom their letters have been mailed, junior contestants must state their correct age. Such statement will be subject to verification. All letters entered in this division must be so designated.

LEGEND TOWER DEDICATED

Dr. D. F. Fox Delivers Impressive Address at Forest Lawn Park Services

Impressive services attended by at least 3000 persons marked the dedication of the Tower of Legends yesterday afternoon at Forest Lawn Memorial Park when Dr. Daniel F. Fox, pastor of the Pasadena Congregational Church, delivered a short address explaining the symbolism of progress, genius and religion, which are carved in great bas-reliefs on the tower, and their relation to everyday life.

Explaining the various phases of progress on the part of industrious men Dr. Fox concluded that the ability to utilize the waste of the barbarian constitutes civilization, and that the waste of the world is the wealth of the world. The utilization of this waste is progress.

"Genius," Dr. Fox continued, "sees beyond the merely utilitarian, and is exemplified in music, art, sculpture and literature as well as in the more mundane examples of mechanical achievement; it is a sacred flame to be carefully guarded, flinging the glory of life upon us all.

"But the supreme note of life is yet to be struck, and so we must wend our way to the 'Little Church of Flowers.' Religion is more abiding than the merely social, legal and commercial relations of life. It is religion which helps us to get off the rocks when we are stranded, bringing us safely to port when the ship's keel grates on the unknown shore and the eternal hills dawn upon our vision."

Dr. Fox concluded his address with a dedication of the Tower of Legends, stressing the beauty and spiritual inspiration of this architectural masterpiece set in the midst of blooming flowers, a place of beauty and tranquility.

The invocation was delivered by Dr. Birney S. Hudson, associate pastor of the Temple Baptist Church of Los Angeles. A vocal solo by Harold Proctor, tenor soloist of the same church, and a cornet solo by Sergt. B. McClure, Seventeenth United States Cavalry, were other features of the dedication when the tower was unveiled by Miss Lois A. Ewing, daughter of the Pasadena High School principal.

The Tower of Legends was designed by Charles H. Kyson. The sculptor was Finn Haakon Frolich.

TWO STOWAWAYS SENT TO CHINA

Experience of Celestials Who Sought Homes in America is Confined to Six Hours on Highway After Swim from Ship; Now They Are "Miles Out"

Lee Chin and Wong Sun, sadder and wiser Celestials as a result of a half-dozen hectic hours on the soil of United States yesterday, are on their way back to China.

Lee and Wong endured the hardship of being stowaways in the India Arrow for the privilege of spending six hours on the boulevards between Los Angeles Harbor and Redondo, half of these hours being taken up by a five-mile trot in front of a motorcycle ridden by Edward Engle, working on naval patrol duty.

Half-starved, the two Chinese made their presence on the India Arrow known to the crew when the ship was only half-way across the ocean. They were placed at hard duties until the boat docked at the harbor and were then turned over to the immigration authorities. The British tanker Shabonee was about to leave for Nagasaki and Shanghai and they were placed aboard.

Darkness and a slackening of the guard on them, however, presented the two Chinese with a new opportunity to get into the United States and they "went over the side" and swam ashore.

A reward of $50 apiece was offered for their arrest and Engle took up the chase. He overhauled them five miles away on the road to Redondo and forced them to trot back to the harbor ahead of his motorcycle. The Shabonee had gotten fifteen miles out of port but a radio message brought her back and the two Chinese were taken aboard a second time, this time under guard to insure that they would be held safely until they got outside swimming distance of land.

GERMAN HOTEL RATES LOW

Frankfort Man, Visitor Here, Says Three Dollars Pays for Room and Bath in Best Hostelries

Three dollars a day will pay for a room and bath in any of the best hotels in Germany, according to Georges Gottlob, manager of two hostelries in Frankfort, who is here to study Los Angeles hotels and to stimulate American tourist travel to Germany.

The hotel man paid admiring tribute to New York and Chicago hotels, which, he declared, are triumphs of the practical. He will spend a week here visiting Los Angeles hostleries in search of improvements to install in the Frankfurter Hof and the Englischer Hof, of which he is director and general manager.

"American tourists are inclined to dodge Germany because in the past they have found city taxes amounting to almost half as much as their hotel bills and numerous inconveniences of travel," Gottlob stated.

"These taxes are repealed, travel facilities are normal and passport regulations are simpler and less expensive now," he said. He declared the two hotels under his direction, one of 300 and the other of 100 rooms, have all the conveniences of the first-class American houses and are 100 per cent cheaper than hotels in London and Paris.

This is the second visit of Mr. Gottlob to the United States, but his first to California. In 1912 he made a trip to Boston, Chicago and New York.

In the hotel man's party, which is stopping at the Ambassador, are his wife and his daughter Josephine. Mr. Gottlob plans to stay here a week, then to go to San Francisco. He then will return to the East by way of Colorado.

EXPERT ON IRRIGATION SUCCUMBS

C. E. Dodge, Engineer and Attorney, Was Active in Development of West

Clark Edwin Dodge, 61 years of age, a reclamation engineer and attorney whose operations in the West were extensive, died yesterday noon.

Mr. Dodge once was secretary of the Tacoma, Wash., Board of Trade and drew the plans for the municipal wharves of that place; was postmaster at Port Arthur, Tex., and while there was associated with John W. Gates in reclamation of 30,000 acres of land in Louisiana; was one of the authors of the revised California drainage law; made surveys covering the Imperial Valley; once held the Casper (Wyo.) oil field lease; was consulting engineer for E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company when that company and the government curbed the Colorado River flood in 1906; was president of the North Point Irrigation District in Salt Lake City, having charge of 7000 acres of irrigated land there and was chairman of the Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce Committee on Irrigation and Drainage. He operated for many years in Rawlins, Wyo., and for a time in Boise, Idaho, and Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mr. Dodge came here about three years ago from Salt Lake City. He and his family lived at 1320 West Fifty-third street. About six weeks ago he was stricken with heart trouble and at the time of his death was a patient in the Clara Barton Hospital. He was born at Neenah, Wis.

He leaves a widow, a daughter, Gladys Ann Dodge; two sons, James Knight Dodge and Clark Rankin Dodge, assistant financial editor of The Times, all of whom lived at home. Arthur J. Dodge, general secretary of the Denver Chamber of Commerce, was a brother.

The funeral service will take place in the chapel of Bresee Brothers Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

SAN CARLO TONIGHT IN 'LA TOSCA'

Opera Company to Begin Local Season With Classic by Puccini

The San Carlo Grand Opera Company will open its two weeks' season here this evening with a performance of Puccini's "La Tosca." Puccini, greatest of present-day Italian operatic composers, died a few weeks ago.

The principals in the cast for this evening are Alice Gentle, Manul Salazar, Mario Basiola, Natali Curci, Pietro De Biasi, with Fulgenzio Guerrieri conducting. Although now on tour with the San Carlo Company, Mr. Guerrieri's home is in Los Angeles.

"La Tosca," from Sardou's drama, is laid in Rome at the beginning of the nineteenth century. The story tells of Tosca, a singer, of her love for Cavardossi, a painter, and the action is tense and the plot filled with intrigue. The painter has aided in the escape of Angeletti, a political prisoner. Baron Scarpia, Chief of Police, a sinister character, is also in love with Tosca, and he succeeds in arousing the jealousy of Tosca by telling her that Cavaradossi is painting a fair-haired Madonna.

Learning of Cavaradossi's implications in the escape of Angeleotti, Scarpia brings him to his home, and Tosca, thinking she will hear of her lover, also goes to the home of Scarpia. In order to save Cavaradossi's life, she confesses Angeleotti's hiding place with the promise from Scarpia that her lover will not be slain. Carvaradossi is taken to prison and Tosca is left alone with Scarpia. Loathing his advances, Tosca kills him with a dagger and flees to the prison to announce to Cavaradossi of his freedom and informs him of the death of Scarpia. Servants of the dead chief bring a letter which he had written before his death, ordering the execution of Cavaradossi. The soldiers fire on Cavaradossi, and, Tosca, left alone, leaps over the prison wall to freedom—and death.

WOBBLIES' COUNSEL IN PLAZA ROW

A riot was averted by the arrival of police reserves at the Plaza yesterday afternoon when a [illegible] on organized to capture Leo Gallagher, an attorney identified with many I.W.W. defenses, from the grasp of Police Officer Mack, who had arrested Gallagher on charges of disturbing a religious meeting.

Gallagher was one of sixteen men arrested in the second [illegible] day of the police campaign to protect speakers at the Plaza "free speech" area from interference by hecklers. According to the police report, Gallagher, who was accompanied by Clinton J. Taft, head of the local branch of the American Civil Liberties Union, and Robert Whitaker, I.W.W. [illegible], had been holding forth to a big crowd, denying the right of the police to make arrests on the disturbance charge and inciting his hearers to heckling.

Gallagher was released on $[illegible] bail and his hearing set for Tuesday afternoon before Police Justice Richardson. Three [illegible] were made for violation of the Criminal Syndicalism Act in the same place.

MacDOWELL PARTY [illegible]

Members of the MacDowell Club of Allied Arts invite their friends to the annual birthday party of the club and to the formal opening of their new circulating library tonight at 8 o'clock at the clubhouse, 462 North Western avenue. Gifts of additional books will be welcomed, and a prize will be awarded for the cleverest representation of any [illegible] book title. The program [illegible] charge of Neeta Marquis [illegible] man of literature. [illegible] Bickford, world-famous [illegible] and Zarh Myron Bickford, 'cellist, will play.
